SWIFT CANCER

Comedian Jack Benny, 80, Dies

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jack Benny, the master comedian who won America's laughter for 50 years by portraying himself as a violin-playing miser, died today of a swift, surprise cancer attack at the ago of 80.

The most famous names in show business had gathered at Benny's home yesterday when word spread that the great comic was dying. (See related stories, page 8.)

Funeral services were scheduled for noon Sunday at the Hillside Memorial Cemetery in Culver City, Calif.

Johnny Carson, a close friend who considered Benny's comic style an important influence on his own, said his "Tonight Show" Tuesday would be a tribute to Benny.

"Everyone who knew him loved him," Carson said. "I never heard him say an unkind word about anyone and I feel fortunate in having my life touched by him."

"Perhaps it's the beginning of the end for those who began in vaudeville," said Bob Hope, who met Benny on Broadway 52 years ago.

"This is a very sad occasion," said Gov. Ronald Reagan, a former actor, whose limousine was among the dozens thronging the driveway of Benny's Holmby Hills mansion.

Despite his age, Benny had been considered in excellent health and was active to the last, getting ready to appear in his first movie in years.

The cancer of the pancreas was discovered only Friday, when Benny complained that a recurrent stomach pain had returned. It rapidly overcame him.

His family said doctors told them there was no hope, and Benny decided to die at home rather than enter a hospital.

Among the first to arrive at Benny's mansion was Frank Sinatra. Next came George Burns, Benny's closest friend. They had ribbed each other on stage, radio and television for almost half a century.

Hope, Reagan, Merle Oberon, Danny Thomas, Milton Berle, Johnny Carson, Danny Kaye and others gathered at the home to console Benny's wife of 47 years, Mary Livingston.

"We're losing one of the greatest performers who ever lived," said Rosalind Russell, close to tears. "I'm sure going to miss him."

"Jack brought joy to the world. He has the most charitable heart in show business," Hope said.

"He is a world institution," said Reagan, recalling that he met Benny in the 1920s when the governor was a radio announcer in Iowa.

Benny was preparing to costar in a film version of the Broadway hit "The Sunshine Boys," about a pair of aged entertainers.

He and his wife adopted a daughter, Joan, in 1934. She rushed home from a skiing vacation Thursday night.

"He's had a good life," she said.

Economic Signposts Mostly Point Down

Jobs, Indices Signal Deepening Recession

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A worsening trade deficit, the fourth straight monthly decline in a key government economic index and new production cutbacks and layoffs today signaled worsening recession as the nation approached the New Year.

In Europe, gold prices hit record levels, nearing $200 an ounce just three days before Americans will be allowed legally to own gold bullion for the first time since the Great Depression of the 1930s.

The Commerce Department's composite index of eight leading economic indicators — a carefully watched barometer of the state of the economy — dropped 1.5 per cent in November, the fourth consecutive monthly decline. The decline signals even heavier production cutbacks and layoffs in future months, and more of both were announced today.

As President Ford conferred in Vail, Colo., with energy advisers and cabinet members on ways to cut the nation's expensive foreign oil bill, the Commerce Department reported a November trade deficit of $113 million that was in part caused by a 3 per cent increase in oil imports.

For the first 11 months of 1974, the United States has paid $22.2 billion for petroleum products — three times the $7.8 billion for all of 1973.

U.S. exports of manufactured goods and transportation equipment dropped 6 per cent in November. Food imports soared 35 per cent to $880 million but were still far less than food shipments of $1.3 billion overseas. Coal exports were up 22 per cent.

Imports of all petroleum products were estimated at 185.3 million barrels in November, up from an average of 184.9 million barrels in the two previous months.

Total exports in November were estimated at $9.061 billion compared with imports of $9.174 billion. Exports were up 4.6 per cent, but imports grew 6.2 per cent to account for the deficit. The red-ink trade balance followed a trade surplus of $24.9 million in October.

In Europe, gold soared to day to record highs of $198.28 an ounce in Paris, $196.23 in Frankfurt and $195 in London in anticipation of a big American demand when the U.S. ban on private ownership is lifted Tuesday. Gold stocks on the New York Stock Exchange rose in value.

In new layoff announcements, the U.S Power Tools division of Black and Decker, Inc., said it will lay off all of its 7,500 employees at seven plants around the country for one week beginning Jan. 13 because of "the continuing slowdown of economic conditions."

Celanese Corp. said it is closing fiber plants at Rome, Ga., and Greenville, S.C., Jan. 4 for six weeks. The plants have been operating on reduced work weeks.

Southern Bell Telephone said it would lay off 500 employees in Georgia effective Jan. 10, because the economic slowdown had reduced the demand for phone installations.

Coffee-Mat Corp. idled indefinitely 55 workers out of 300 employees at its Kenilworth, N.J., plant.

In other developments:

Kaiser Steel Co. said it is raising its prices an average of 1.5 per cent, joining other steel companies in posting higher prices.

The Aluminum Association said shipments of aluminum dropped 9.4 per cent in October from October, 1973. Shipments of aluminum foil were down 12.2 per cent.

Film, Shakespeare Highlight Activities

For many, the weekend after Christmas is a time to stay at home and relax and the small number of special events in Marin and Southern Sonoma reflects this seasonal lassitude.

But for Marinites who want to catch a play, the College of Marin Department of Theater Arts is offering two final performances of Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing" today and tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Theater III, 27 Kensington Road, San Anselmo.

For youngsters in Southern Sonoma there will be two special showings of the film, "Dr. Doolittle," in Petaluma tomorrow — at 10 a.m. at the Five Corners Community Center, English Street and Western Avenue, and at 1 p.m. at McNear School.

Events scheduled are:

TONIGHT

Play, "Much Ado About Nothing," College of Marin Department of Theater Arts, 8 p.m., Theater III, 27 Kensington Road, San Anselmo.

TOMORROW

Play, "Much Ado About Nothing," College of Marin Department of Theater Arts, 8 p.m., Theater III, 27 Kensington Road, San Anselmo.

Vaudeville show, Belrose Dance Studio, 7 and 9:30 p.m., 1415 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Children's film, "Dr. Doolittle," 10 a.m., Five Corners Community Center, English Street and Western Avenue, and 1 p.m., McNear School, both in Petaluma.

Winds Push Storm Clouds Into North Bay

A gentle storm blew into Marin and Southern Sonoma last night bringing light rain to most areas of the two counties.

A check of police, public works and fire departments throughout Marin turned up only three instances of minor flooding, all in Novato. Flooding was reported this morning at the intersection of old Highway 101 and Atherton Avenue, at Center and McCaly roads, and at the corner of Garden Court and Olive Avenue, according to Novato police.

The heaviest rainfall was reported in San Rafael where 1.03 inches fell in the 24 hours ending at noon today.

Other rainfall for the period ending at 8 a.m. today: Woodacre, .84; Mill Valley, .16; Corte Madera, .17; Kentfield, .07; Bolinas, .36; Tamalpais Valley, .13 and Tiburon, .04.

The weatherman predicted showers and cloudy weather through tomorrow night, with winds of up to 30 miles an hour tonight and tomorrow.

THE ALCOHOLIC STRUGGLE

By PAT ANGLE
(Fifth of nine articles)

It was a formal dinner party at a fashionable country club in New Mexico.

As soft music played, about a hundred diners laughed and chatted quietly. The elegantly-dressed men and women were there to bid farewell to James C. and his wife, Lillian.

Mr. C., an executive with a steel company, had been promoted and was leaving for a new job in California.

After the meal, one of the hosts rose to present gifts to the couple. When he handed a Navajo bracelet to Mrs. C., she began to sob loudly.

"I got up and cried and started to talk," she recalls. "I went on and on, not making any sense, blubbering and carrying on. I made an ass of myself. Finally my husband had to take my arm and force me back into my chair.

"It was obvious to everyone there that I was drunk."

Even now — more than 15 years later — Mrs. C. finds it painful to recall those agonizing days when "my main concern was where I was going to get my next drink."

Today at 57, Lillian C. is an attractive woman with friendly blue eyes and a throaty voice. Seated in the living room of her handsome home in the hills overlooking Richardson Bay, she resembles one of the stylish, serene hostesses sometimes featured in Town and Country magazine.

There is nothing about her which hints of the desperate woman who used to get up before dawn, grab a paper bag full of empty liquor bottles from the back of her closet, then slip outside to stash the bottles in her neighbors' garbage cans.

"By that time I was drinking 24 hours a day, round-the-clock, 365 days a year," Mrs. C. said. "Nothing could stop me.

"I remember I had a plastic flask which I could fill up and put inside my girdle. That way, when I was out of the house, maybe with friends, I could stop at a gas station and run into the rest room for a quick one without anyone noticing.

"I ended up preferring my liquor at body temperature," she added with a laugh.

Until she was in her late 20s and married, there was no real

Marin's Crime Rise Lower Than Nation's

By GEORGE NEVIN

Marin County bucked the national trend this year when it comes to some major crimes, an Independent-Journal survey shows.

If figures released today by the federal government (which cover the first nine months of 1974) hold up to the year's end, the nation's suburbs will show a 21 per cent rise in serious crimes. In Marin, that figure is roughly 12 per cent.

When all the 1974 figures are in, the county should show declines in the numbers of homicides and robberies and only a modest rise in auto thefts.

In rapes and burglaries there were substantial increases — 11 and 12 per cent — but they parallel the national trend.

In fact, the sole category showing a greater increase than nationally was assaults, which rose 37 per cent in Marin, while in the average U.S. suburb the rise was 12 per cent.

All figures used in the I-J survey are projected 12-month totals, unlike the national figures released today by Attorney General William B. Saxbe, which run only through the end of September.

The Marin figures are a compilation of official reports by law enforcement agencies in 10 of Marin's 11 cities and the

Filing Closes For Mayor, Councilmen In San Rafael

Filing at San Rafael City Hall for the posts of mayor, two city council seats, city clerk and city tax and license collector closed yesterday with 14 candidates seeking election to the various offices.

Filing for the post of San Rafael city attorney and for three seats on the San Rafael Board of Education will remain open until noon Tuesday under a new state law since in each race an incumbent is not seeking reelection.

(San Rafael Board of Education incumbent Marilyn Bolinger is not seeking reelection. Incumbent board members Francis X. Kelly and Hermann L. Childress have filed for reelection, as have residents Gale B. Fisher and Joseph D. Coons. Papers have been taken out by residents Bruce A. Ades and Eleanor J. Zengler.)

San Rafael City Clerk Marion A. Grady is running for reelection unopposed. City Treasurer-Finance Director John B. Averett is running unopposed for the post of city tax and license collector.

Eight residents are seeking election to two San Rafael City Council seats — incumbents Fred E. Jensen and John A. Miskimen, and John A. Starkweather, Anise M. Turina, Norris M. Rawles, Peter K. Kehrlein, Richard C. Fox and Edward Bott.

Four residents — including Mayor C. Paul Bettini — are seeking election as mayor. Other candidates filing by yesterday's noon deadline are Joan Fox, Benjamin F. Walton and Richard L. Stark.

Stark, 32, filed yesterday for the post. He lists his address at 16 Willow Street, the San Rafael headquarters of the White Panther Party.

Stark was unavailable to comment on his candidacy today, but provided a sketch of his background on a statement of qualifications he filed with the city yesterday.

The statement lists his occupation as a "worker in people's enterprises" and states that as mayor "I'll ask the city to put up some tax funds to implement new people's enterprises, and to broaden existing ones."

He worked with the Bertrand Russell Peace Foundation in 1964, and in 1965 coproduced the film "Rush to Judgment," a documentary on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

He is also associated with the White Panther Party's Food Conspiracy program.

Connick To Seek City Attorney Slot

Harry A. Connick, defeated in a bid for Marin County District Attorney last June, announced yesterday he will run for election in March as San Rafael city attorney.

Connic, 51,, a partner in the San Rafael law firm of Connick and Young, polled 8,013 votes in the June district attorney race, placing behind victor Bruce B. Bales, with 34,494 votes, and Edward M. Krug, with 20,464 votes.

Connick, Krug and attorney John R. Wolf have taken out papers for the city attorney post. Incumbent San Rafael City Atty. Fred C. Robbins is not seeking relection.

Deadline for filing is noon Tuesday.

Connick said the San Rafael legal post provides a "good opportunity to serve a large group of people and an opportunity for new intellectual growth" in the field of redevelopment law. He said he will serve out a full four-year term if elected.

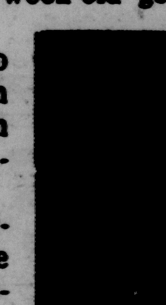
WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Japanese Leader Tells Assets

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Miki has disclosed her personal assets to gain public confidence in his two-week-old government.



Miki

Miki, the first Japanese leader to reveal his holdings, told newsmen yesterday he and his family own land, houses and stocks worth $1,070,000.

He listed his assets at cost, however, and news reports said the increase in land values during Japan's post-war real estate boom likely increased the total to more than $5.5 million.

Prime ministers are not required by law to make their private fortunes public and Miki said his disclosure was not designed to set a precedent.

He did not explain how he obtained his wealth, but he comes from a prosperous merchant family. His monthly salary as prime minister is $3,500.

Kidnap Foiled

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Two Lever Bros. executives decided to play it safe. They rode to work in a pickup truck instead of a company car. The switch foiled a double kidnaping.

A gang of gunmen tried to abduct the executives yesterday but ended up in a shootout with two bodyguards traveling in the company car. One guard was killed and the other was critically wounded.

The Lever Bros. officials — Harold Sharod, 44, a Briton, and Julio Bisschot, 45, an Argentine — recently adopted the unusual security precautions because of repeated kidnap threats.

Tay Ninh Shelled

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist gunners shelled Tay Ninh province capital 55 miles northwest of Saigon today and poured another 250 rounds of artillery and mortar fire into nearby Black Virgin Mountain, military officials said.

The two attacks were among seven assaults on population centers across the country during the past day and night, the officials said.

The Communist capture of six county capitals within 12 days has put North Vietnamese tanks within striking distance of two important bases less than 40 miles from Saigon, military sources said.

Intelligence officers predicted even more intense fighting within the next several weeks.

Exile Arrested

BANGKOK (UPI) — Former Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn slipped into Thailand under an assumed name today from exile in the United States and was arrested pending investigation of his conduct as head of the military regime ousted last year.

Deputy Prime Minister Prakorb Hutasing said Thanom faced possible trial for his role as leader of the government that was ousted from power little more than a year ago by student riots.

Thanom, 63, apparently returned from his exile in Boston to visit his 90-year-old ailing father and is willing to face the consequences of illegally entering the country, Prakorb said.

Mine Toll At 36

LENS, France (UPI) — An explosion in a coal mine today killed 36 miners and burned six others working 2,150 feet below the surface, investigating Judge Henri Pascal reported over the French radio.

The explosion occurred at the Nord Pas de Calais mine near the Belgian border. Rescue teams first brought out 15 bodies and said there was no hope for the others trapped in the mine. Their bodies were found later.

Miners said the explosion was apparently caused by firedamp, a gas, largely methane, formed in coal mines. It is explosive when mixed with a certain proportion of air.

Limbless Youth Gets Annuity

HOUSTON (UPI) — James Alexander, 18, who lost the use of his arms and legs from injuries suffered in a traffic accident on his 16th birthday, will receive $100,000 annually for the rest of his life as a settlement of a suit stemming from the accident.

The payments will be made from a trust fund established at a Houston bank by a group of insurance companies, Alexander's attorney, Joe Jamail, said yesterday.

He said Alexander's heir or heirs also will receive $1 million from the trust upon Alexander's death.

Crash Claims 18

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Eighteen persons were killed today and a dozen more seriously injured, when a bus crashed into a railway engine near Miguel Couto City, 19 miles south of Rio de Janeiro.

The bus was coming from Nova Iguacu city and crashed through a barrier into the train. Police said the bus driver had apparently ignored the flashing red signal light.

Ismail Buried

CAIRO (UPI) — Egypt buried War Minister Field Marshal Ahmed Ismail with full military honors today and prepared to send his successor to Moscow tomorrow with Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi for crucial talks with Soviet officials.

President Anwar Sadat issued a decree last night appointing Lt. Gen. Mohamed Gamassy as war minister and commander-in-chief of the armed forces to succeed Ismail and gave him responsibility for preparing for a new war with Israel. He swore him in today.

Sadat led mourners through Cairo streets today behind the coffin bearing the late field marshal, one of Egypt's October War heroes and highest military commander.

Warning Issued

BEIRUT (UPI) — Eritrean rebels said today they were stepping up the fight for independence from Ethiopia and warned the world against an imminent Ethiopian massacre of the Eritrean people.

The statement blamed the Ethiopian military authorities for the increased violence in the northern province, which has been engaged in a struggle for independence for the past 12 years.

Flyovers Claimed

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The authoritative Air Force Journal said today Israel sent U.S.-built drone jets on intelligence missions over Egypt and Syria to photograph Arab airfields, missiles and military camps in last year's Yom Kippur war.

Israel first admitted possession of the pilotless planes when a Checker, a $50,000 plane built by Northrup Aviation, was lost over the Suez Canal on Dec. 13, 1973. The Israel military command said only that the jet malfunctioned.

A Syrian MIG21 and an Egyptian surface-to-air missile shot down Firebee drones during the war, the Air Force Journal said.

Airlines Suffer

GENEVA (UPI) — Airlines had their worst year ever in 1974 because of rocketing oil prices, the director general of the International Air Transport Association said today.

Knut Hammarskjoeld said the air transport industry will show an operating loss of 3 per cent for the year, before taxes and interest on capital.

The quadrupling of oil prices pushed up aviation fuel costs by an additional $2 billion in 1974, Hammarskjoeld said.

Two Slain By Prison Escaper

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UPI) — A farm wife and her 19-year-old daughter were killed last night just minutes before an escaped convict who held them hostage for six hours surrendered, police said.

A second daughter was released unhurt.

Officers said he held Mrs. Marian Napierala, 54, and her daughters Gayle, 19, and Cindy, 17, at gunpoint, negotiating with a representative of a prison inmates group for about six hours.

Mrs. Napierala and Gayle were killed just before the convict gave up. Cindy was hospitalized for severe shock.

Authorities said police surrounded the home after Mrs. Napierala's 11-year-old son, Mark, told them the man had broken in. Officers said the boy managed to escape through a basement window while Moses broke into the house.

Authorities said Moses, whose parole bid was rejected last June, escaped while assigned to a snow detail at the prison farm. They said the prisoner apparently found the rifle at the Napierala home.

Darwin Looters Seek Groceries

DARWIN, Australia (UPI) — Hungry looters ransacked food stores wrecked by a devastating cyclone and officials in Darwin tried today to prevent typhoid and cholera epidemics that could kill hundreds who survived the storm.

Australian, American and British planes ferried in tons of food and carried out thousands of homeless in the wake of the Christmas Day cyclone that wiped out the once-bustling port city.

The Minister for Northern Development, Dr. Rex Patterson, said "unless you saw Darwin, it is impossible to describe.

"I doubt if there is a home or building not damaged," Patterson said in Brisbane after touring the ravaged northern city.

Patterson said he had instructed police to begin shooting starving dogs which were roaming the streets in packs looking for food.

"In these circumstances there was the chance the dogs would carry disease and shooting had already started," he said.

The National Disaster Organization in Canberra said Cyclone Tracy killed at least 45 persons, but some official estimates put the death toll as high as 80.

Rescue officials said the cyclone's 125 mile-an-hour winds destroyed 90 per cent of Australia's northernmost city, injured hundreds and left half the 41,000 residents homeless. (In the U.S., the cyclone would be called a hurricane.)

Dear Customers,

My first thought about using this space was to fill it with special offers to encourage your trade!

Then I remembered an experience of my own, when I visited a store to take advantage of a $7.00 bargain. I left after paying a $40.00 bill with the feeling I had been taken advantage of.

So instead of "Specials", I offer you fair prices on all my merchandise and labor. I stand behind everything I sell, and will not offer you anything you don't need. Plus I won't charge you for anything I didn't do.

Don't you agree that my pledge is as good a reason to do business with me, as the offer of a handful of "Specials" especially in these times?

I hope to be able to help you one of these days when you need an oil change or a lube job. I can also handle major repairs on almost all imported and domestic cars. If I can't do the job, I'll honestly tell you so.

Sincerely,

Attempt Bared To Trick Ike Into Nuclear Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — High U.S. military officials deliberately deceived President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1958 during the Quemoy-Matsu crisis in an attempt to use nuclear weapons, columnist Jack Anderson says.

Citing documents that were stolen from Daniel Ellsberg's home in Mill Valley, Calif., earlier this month and later turned over to a congressional committee, Anderson said Pentagon officials wanted to use tactical nuclear weapons to destroy China's underground munitions dumps and gun emplacements.

The Chinese at the time were bombarding the two islands held by the Nationalist Chinese. The United States had a commitment to defend the islands and this led to the military planning.

The Pentagon falsely informed the White House that available Air Force planes in the area had no bomb racks that could carry high-explosive conventional bombs and that nuclear weapons were thus needed to do the job, the columnist report.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles went ahead with tentative plans to use nuclear weapons against Communist China. Meantime, the Quemoy-Mateu crisis simmered down and there was no actual American military involvement.

Anderson said details of the deception were collected in a 1967 Rand Corp. report by Morton H. Halperin. When Ellsberg was with Rand, he had official access to the Halperin report and later made a copy of it in hopes he could someday testify about it to Congress.

The study was among the documents stolen in the burglary of Ellsberg's home but later recovered.

Patrick Kevin Quinn, a 21-year-old Mill Valley man arrested for the Ellsberg burglary and one other, is to appear on those charges Monday in Marin County Superior Court. He is also scheduled for a court hearing next Thursday on the bombing of a Mill Valley police car.

Scientists' Spokesman Expects Nuclear War Within A Decade

LONDON (UPI) — The secretary general of a group of world scientists predicted today that the odds are one-in-three that a nuclear weapon will be used in conflict by 1984 and 50-50 that nuclear war will come before 2000.

"The world is entering upon perilous times," Prof. Bernard T. Feld said in an article in the New Scientist magazine, "perhaps the most dangerous period in its entire history."

Feld is the secretary general of the Pugwash Conference on Science and World Affairs, a group of leading scientists from East and West that meets privately to discuss the state of the world. Many come from the Communist bloc.

"It is my judgment that the odds are around one-in-three that a nuclear weapon will be used in a conflict situation before the year 1984 and that the chances are greater than 50-50 for nuclear war to occur in the 26 years remaining in this century," he said.

"This is a subjective judgment, of course, but events of the past year could hardly justify any less pessimistic conclusions."

He listed the 1973 Middle East war, the Arab oil embargo, the fragility of U.S.-Soviet detente, India's testing of a nuclear weapon, the willingness of the West to spread nuclear technology to the third world, continued testing and expansion of first-strike capabilities by the big powers and the postponement of further nuclear arms limitations until 1984.

"All these recent developments have so eroded confidence in the nuclear nonproliferation treaty that there is grave question whether it can survive its scheduled review conference in 1975," Feld said.

"But without effective means of preventing the independent development of nuclear weapons materials...it will be impossible to prevent nuclear weapons from falling into irresponsible hands, either of governments or nongovernmental groups.

"And in a world beset by economic tensions, by vast inequities, mass deprivation and starvation...nuclear weapons in the hands of desperate or irresponsible groups will mean nuclear weapons used."

San Quentin Inmate Critically Wounded

John T. Calfy, admitted from Orange County in 1972 on parole violations, was stabbed at 1:25 p.m. yesterday during the exercise period in the north cellblock segregated housing unit.

Public information officer William D. Nyberg said Calfy was stabbed through his left eye with a wooden lead pencil which penetrated the brain and was also stabbed twice in the back with a sharp metal instrument.

Nyberg said both weapons had been found and that four suspects were being questioned. Cause of the stabbing was unknown.

The prison spokesman also said the stabbing had no relation to interracial enmity between black and Chicano inmates that resulted in two deaths and three stabbings last week.

The violence prompted the general lockdown. The restrictions were eased only to allow Christmas Day visits for about 800 of the prison's 2,800 inmates.

Regarding status of visiting hours, Nyberg said regular 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. visits will be permitted only on Sunday and New Year's Day next week.

Meanwhile, a group calling itself Prisoners' Visitors expressed fears that a long lockdown might "turn the prison into another Attica," the New York penitentiary where 10 hostages and 30 convicts were killed on Sept. 13, 1971.

Heart Attack Kills Inmate

A San Quentin inmate, Byron Fernley Handy, 51, of Riverside, died yesterday in the prison hospital of a heart attack, according to the Marin County coroner.

Handy was admitted to the prison hospital on Sunday and lost consciousness there. He died without regaining consciousness, according to the coroner.

He was sent to San Quentin March 7, 1973 to serve a life sentence for kidnapping.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Handy of Wilmington, Los Angeles County.

Wyman Declared Senate Winner

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Republican Gov. Meldrim Thomson and the all-Republican Executive Council today certified Rep. Louis Wyman, R-N.H. as senator from New Hampshire.

The council concurred with the state Ballot Law Commission which had given Wyman victory by two votes in November's election.

James Corley Dies

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — James H. Corley, 70, a former University of California vice president of governmental relations and special projects, died yesterday of heart failure.

CEMETERY PLOTTERS INDICTED

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A cemetery superintendent and a groundskeeper were indicted yesterday on charges of selling cemetery plots to more than one party and keeping the money.

The scheme was uncovered when gravediggers preparing for an October burial found the plot occupied. The investigation led to Harold Bennett and groundskeeper John Taylor, who were charged with selling plots for $250 to $400 and failing to turn the money over to proper officials.

Condemned Are Again On Death Row

For the first time in more than two years, there are condemned men on San Quentin Prison's "Death Row," nine inmates awaiting execution in the gas chamber.

What was once the biggest death row in the nation was emptied of more than 100 condemned men — including mass murderer Charles Manson and Sirhan Sirhan, slayer of Robert Kennedy — by a February 1972 ruling of the State Supreme Court which outlawed the state's death penalty law as written.

They cannot be returned to the row since they were condemned under the old law, but the row is slowly filling up with men condemned to die under a new law approved by voters in November of 1972.

Until about two weeks ago the men with death sentences were being kept in the prison's high-security Adjustment Center, according to William Nyberg, prison information officer.

But he said officials have now reactivated the death row on the sixth floor of the North Block and placed all the condemned men there. They will join 37 men who, while not facing death sentences, have for one reason or another, been confined to the segregated cells on the old row.

Nyberg said life on the row is more restrictive than in the rest of the prison, since its residents are kept locked in their cells 22 or 23 hours a day. "There's not the freedom there is on the mainline," he said. "The men on Death Row are only let out for things like exercise, showers, visits or to go to the hospital."

No convict has died in the gas chamber since 1967.

And experts in the death penalty saw the row's new occupants may also be spared by legal battles expected over the new law.

indication that Lillian C. was headed for personal disaster.

She was born and reared in Hillsborough, the daughter of an upper-middle-class family. "I had a happy childhood, a happy youth," she remembers. "I wasn't shy; I got along well with others and had good grades. There were no problems."

After she graduated from Vassar, Lillian worked in "a stimulating job" as private secretary to the West Coast manager of one of the largest companies in the nation. "I traveled a lot; it was an exciting life."

Oh, she drank a good deal socially and often came to work with a hangover — but so did most of her friends. "When you're young, hangovers aren't so bad and, besides, they don't usually last past 10 a.m."

When she was about 25, Lillian did the "socially acceptable thing" — married "a fine, honorable man" and settled down to raise a family.

But she didn't like housework and soon found that "my idea of life wasn't diapers, feeding schedules and behavior problems. I felt tied down, bored. Children were an awfully dull business for me.

"Yet at the same time I had been brought up to believe that I must fulfill my duty as a wife and mother and do well by my children."

Because of Mr. C.'s business, he and his wife went to frequent parties, where they both drank heavily — and thought nothing about it.

Soon, however, the evening drinking bouts weren't enough for Lillian. "I began drinking beer in the morning with a group of other mothers as we watched our little dears grub around in mudpies," she said.

It wasn't long before she was drinking almost constantly, from dawn to dusk and even in the middle of the night.

"Oh the panic, the absolute panic when I would find myself out of liquor." She made a face. "You can't imagine what it was like! I remember, for example, going out to the kitchen one morning at 4 a.m. and drinking all the flavoring extracts in my cupboard.

"And I knew what bars opened at 6 a.m. There I'd be, a respectiable housewife waiting in line with the rum-dums. But I still had a little pride. I wouldn't sit with the winos. Instead, I'd buy a bottle and go out behind the bar. You know, I don't think I had a drink out of a gass during the last five years of my drinking."

For a time she managed to hide the depth of her problem from her husband. "I'd arrange to be in the middle of the swimming pool when he got home from work and I wouldn't go near him until he'd had a drink. That way, he couldn't smell it on me."

But when you drink a quart of whiskey a day, it isn't long before everybody knows — not only your family, but your friends and even your husband's business associates.

"My husband still can't forget the reason he's not a vice president of his company is that his wife was drunk during the years when we had to be 'socially acceptable.' One in awhile he still brings up my drinking — and that hurts.

"But he was hurt so badly, I can't blame him now. For 10 years, he tried every conceivable means to help me; he was kind and loving, and be believed my promises that we could work it out together. He took me to doctors, but they were unable to help me.

For Lillian, life became an endless procession of dreary days, days spent passed out in bed, rumpled and disheveled and too sick to get up for a few minutes to fix lunches for her three children. Days of not caring about anything or anyone except that next drink.

It was a time of humilitation and despair.

Twice she tried to take her life with pills. The second time her young son came home one afternoon to find her lying on the floor by her bed.

She was rushed to the hospital and was unconsciou for six days. She then spent six weeks in the psychiatric unit at Ross General Hospital.

The night Lillian arrived home from the hospital (the family lived in Fairfax), she was served with a summons. Her husband was suing her for divorce and had taken legal action to have her committed to Mendocino State Hospital.

"I knew it was a difficult decision for him, but he felt he had to get me away from the children," said Mrs. C. "I was even dangerous to have around: I smoked in bed and drove the kids around when I was drinking."

It was a bitter time, waiting for the hearing in a house which seemed like an armed camp.

The session was held in the old San Rafael Courthouse and conducted by the late Judge Charles Brusatori. Feeling "terribly humilidated, beaten down and scared," Lillian listened as her husband poured out his tale of woe. "He was very angry and had a lot to say."

Finally the judge turned to Lillian. "Have you ever tried Alcoholics Anonymous?" he asked.

"I told him I'd gone to a few meetings, but that the people there were beneath me," Lillian recalled. "He said 'I've seen AA work miracles.' " And then he setenced me to attend an AA meeting every night for a year. If I did that, the Judge said he would drop the divorce charges and the committment. Of course, I agreed."

It was February, 1963 and for Lillian C., it was a brand new day.

Of course healing both her "physical allergy and mental obsession" with alcohol was far from easy, but fellow AA members were there to help her over the rough spots.

"It's amazing to find out there is hope," she said. "When you've been through so much, it's good to find out that life is worth living."

"Sure I have my ups and downs and my disappointments and sorrows.

"But I have self respect. I'm contented. And my husband can take me to company parties and be proud of me.

"My experiences these days are all real and true. When I cry tears, I know it's really emotion, not a crying jag.

"But the best thing is that I don't have to take a drink. No one has told me not to; it's my choice.

"I don't have to drink and it's wonderful."

(Tomorrow: Religion as a way to recovery.)

THE DUMPS — When an alcoholic trying to keep up a respectable facade, disposing of the evidence can be a real headache. Mrs. C., for example, would get up before dawn a couple of times a week, take the bag of bottles from its hiding place in the back of her closet, creep out of the house and distribute the bottles in neighbors' garbage cans.

Drinking, Driving Teens 'Frighteningly' Frequent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An "alarming...frightening" number of teen-agers have either driven while drunk or been passengers in cars with heavy-drinking drivers, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said yesterday.

The agency's $100,000 study on tee-age drinking says:

Many teen-agers say they have frequently driven when they are "really pretty drunk."

One-fourth say they have driven once or twice when they knew themselves to be too drunk to drive.

Another one-fourth have driven three or more times when drunk.

Thirty-two per cent report being a passenger at least once a month in a car operated by a heavily drinking driver.

"I don't know whether you'd call it surprising, alarming or frightening," said NHTSA Administrator James B. Gregory, who presented the findings at a briefing. Gregory said the federally financed research by Grey Advertising, Inc., of New York, strongly suggests a redirection of the agency's efforts to discourage drunk driving. "No amount of legal action will tend to correct the problem," he said.

Gregory said the agency's future activities would be directed more toward encouraging social pressures against drinking and driving, and social acceptance of such remedies as physically restraining drinking friends and relatives from driving.

Alcohol is involved in half the nation's highway fatalities, which totaled 54,600 in 1973 and possibly 10,000 er speeds and less overall driving, Gregory said. But even with the reduced number of fatalities, 20,000 or more traffic deaths this year are attributable to alcohol.

The study found that neither scare tactics nor legal threats discourage teen-age drinking and driving. Drinking teens don't view the legal consequences of being stopped by police as serious and don't consider death or crippling injury a likely consequence, the study said.

Nor are teen-age drinkers a fringe group. "They are not far-out, drop-out, alienated or under-achieving types," the study said. They represent the same levels of achievement in school work, sports and activities as non-drinking young people.

"The study...reveals that there is an alarming amount of drinking and driving taking place among a large, mainstream group of U.S. youth," the report said. "In fact, high school students are in contact with alcohol-related situations almost as often as adults are today."

Ross Police Officer Hurt On Duty Run

Roy Bennett, 31, of 1630 Elmwood Terrace, Santa Rosa, was reported in fair condition at Marin General Hospital with a broken pelvis.

According to the California Highway Patrol, Bennett was racing down the rainy, windswept streets at about 45 to 50 miles per hour, red light on and siren wailing, responding to a call for assistance by Fairfax police investigating a burglary.

On a curve at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Pastore Street, the report said, his car skidded and went up over the sidewalk for about 150 feet, hitting the garage of a roadside apartment complex before coming to rest against the pole.

Two San Anselmo police cars also responding to Fairfax's call for aid heard Bennett crash, turned around and went back to help him, the report said.

munity, which I believe I could do." Connick said.

"As far as (Edward M. Krug) is concerned, I think it's a job that requires integrity," he said.

Connick, a native of Deer Lodge, Mont., attended the University of Oregon and graduated from the University of Montana Law School in 1951. He served as judge advocate in the Air Force from 1953 to 1969. He opened his San Rafael law office in 1969.

"The only thing I don't like about (the San Rafael attorney post) is that if I get elected I put myself out of a law practice," he said, noting that the job is a full-time position that prohibits any private practice. Connick said the post's $25,000 salary is "about the same" as he now makes.

Connick is a member of the Marin County Bar Association, the California Trial Lawyers Association, and a director of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin. He is also active in Scouting, serving currently as assistant commissioner to the Miwok District and as committee chairman for the Marin Mounted Explorer Post No. 355.

He lives with his wife, Liei at 12 Ayala Court. The couple has two sons.

OBITUARIES

JOSEPH REA

Joseph A. Rea, a lifelong resident of Corte Madera and former semi-professional baseball pitcher, died yesterday at his home.

Rea, 65, had been hospitalized for the past three weeks with heart and lung problems and had returned home for Christmas.

He pitched for several baseball teams in Marin in the 1930s, including the Tiburon Ball Club.

Rea was a liquor salesman until he retired 12 years ago because of poor health.

He was an Army veteran of World War II and a member of Twin Cities Post 313, American Legion.

Mass of Christian Burial will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Patrick's Church, Larkspur. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. Sunday at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

R. L. BARBONI

Mass of Christian Burial for Richard L. Barboni of Petaluma, who died Wednesday in an auto accident, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church.

The 18-year-old youth was a native of San Rafael who was reared and educated in Petaluma. Since his graduation in June from Petaluma High School, he worked on the family ranch at 759 Hicks Valley Road.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dante Barboni of Petaluma; a brother, David Barboni of Petaluma; a sister, Danita Barboni of Petaluma and his maternal grandmother.

The Rosary will be recited in his memory at 8 p.m. today at the Sorensen Funeral Home in Petaluma. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery. The family prefers donations to the Hannah Boys Center or to the Guide Dogs for the Blind in San Rafael.

WILLIAM BOEHM

Mass of Christian Burial for William A. Boehm, longtime Petaluma bartender, will be at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent De Paul Catholic Church in Petaluma.

Boehm, 47, died at a local hospital Tuesday after a lengthy illness.

He was a lifelong resident of Sonoma. His home was at 108 Washington Street.

He served in the Navy during World War II. After the war he worked as a pharmacist and, more recently, as a bartender for the Boulevard Bowl on Petaluma Boulevard South and the Petaluma Elks Club.

Boehm was a member of the Elks and of the Bartenders and Culinary Workers Union, Local 770 of Santa Rosa.

He is survived by his mother, Eva Boehm of Petaluma, and a brother, Francis Boehm of New York.

A rosary will be recited in his memory at 8 p.m. today at the Parent Funeral Chapel in Petaluma, and burial will be in Calvary Cemetery, Petaluma.

JOHN DUCKETT

Funeral for John E. Duckett, 65, a member of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board, will be at 11 a.m. Saturday at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Duckett, who made his home at 386 Orange Blossom Lane, Terra Linda, died Christmas Day in a local hospital. He had been under treatment for about a year for a heart ailment.

In November 1971, Duckett won a third term on the sanitary district board. He was a former member of the Terra Linda Community Services District board.

Duckett was born in Oxnard and had been a resident of Marin since 1958. He owned his own trucking business in San Francisco until retiring three years ago.

MARIE-LOUISE GREEN

Marie-Louise Green, sister of former Sausalito artist Enid Foster, died Wednesday at a local hospital following a short illness.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Green lived most of her life in Piedmont and was active in civic affairs there before moving to the Tamalpais Retirement Residence in Greenbrae five years ago.

She was a member of the Piedmont Garden Club, the Town and Country Club of Piedmont and the Hill branch of the Oakland Children's Hospital.

Her sister, now living in Paris, is a poet, painter and sculptor, who, during her years in Sausalito was at the center of a large coterie of artists frequenting the town.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mary E. Brereton of Piedmont, five grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Private services were held. The family prefers donations to Civic Betterment of Piedmont, Children's Hospital of Oakland or a favorite charity.

KATHRYN CLAYTON

Kathryn B. Clayton of Mill Valley died yesterday at a local convalescent home after a long illness. She was 86.

Mrs. Clayton was born and lived in Howells, Neb., where she owned and operated a restaurant for many years. She moved to San Francisco 27 years ago and to Mill Valley 18 months ago, where she lived with her daughter, Catherine Morgan, until she became ill. She was a widow.

Mrs. Clayton is survived by Mrs. Morgan and two other daughters, Sister Colette Clayton, OSF, of Silverton, Ore., and Betty Ward of San Francisco, nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley. Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cmetery, San Rafael.

R. E. ALDERMAN

A Mass of Christian Burial for Richard E. Alderman of Santa Rosa, a former resident of Ross, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow in St. Eugene's Cathedral in Santa Rosa.

Alderman died Christmas Day in a Sonoma County hospital after a long illness. He was 46 and a four-year resident of Santa Rosa.

He was owner of the Straw Hat Pizza Parlor in Santa Rosa and a member of the Optimist Breakfast Club of Santa Rosa.

Alderman moved to Ross in 1942 with his parents and resided there until service in the Korean War as a lieutenant junior grade in the Navy. He was a graduate of Tamalpais High School, Marin Junior College and received a bachelor of science degree from San Francisco State College. Following the Korean War he was assistant manager of several Safeway stores in the Bay Area.

Survivors are his wife, Dorothy; two sons, Rick and John Alderman of Santa Rosa; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Alderman, formerly of Ross and now of Honolulu, Hawaii, and a brother, Tom Alderman of Novato.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at the Daniels Chapel of the Roses in Santa Rosa. Entombment will be at 10 a.m. Monday at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

The family said contributions can be made to the American Cancer Society.

Come see what the deer and the birds and the squirrels have been watching for months.

Pacheco Valle is just off Highway 101, a little beyond the Lucas Valley turnoff, and once you're there you could be a thousand miles from nowhere. It is a forest dotted with tempting meadows, one of the finest examples of what the naturalists call California oak-woodlands. It is the most important new Marin County residential area to be made available in a decade.

In this unmatched setting, we are creating a community of nature. We are building small pockets of fine architect-designed cluster homes on the alluvial plains, blending the developed areas with the meadows and woods. The creeks and hills will remain in their natural state. Permanently. To be sure of this, we are deeding 378 acres of our total 519 acres to the City of Novato as perpetual open space.

This week-end we are opening our sales and information office for the first time, so that Marin County people who have heard about what we are doing here can have first choice before we make a broader public announcement early next year.

Come and share our pride. Yes, it can be done with taste, style and concern for the future.

Marin Crime Increasing Slower Than Nationwide

unincorporated area of the county. They are based on complete figures for the first 11 months, projected through the end of the year. The Town of Ross is not included because the city council has instructed the police department to withhold such information, but records of past years available from the state indicate the effect of that is statistically negligible.

The I-J statistics also exclude crimes committed at San Quentin — where there have been 12 slayings and 84 assaults, mostly with knives, to date this year.

Marin's seven homicides in 1974 represent a 12.5 per cent drop from the eight logged last year. But since the numbers are so small, law enforcement officers warn, it is difficult to draw significant conclusions from the decline.

One death — that of Bradley D. Wilson, found dead in his Fairfax home Nov. 2 — has yet to be classified. If it proves to be a homicide, it could up the year's total to eight, the same as last year.

Robberies, too, are down, with 20 fewer this year (152) than last (172). Since 1971, robbery figures have been seesawing, with each increase followed the next year by a decrease.

Assaults, however, are a different story. The number has jumped from 243 last year to 306 through November and a projected 334 by New Year's Day — a 37 per cent boost.

Figures supplied by the state Bureau of Criminal Statistics show felony assaults rose 119 per cent in Marin between 1969 and 1973. A further 68 per cent increase is expected between 1973 and 1977.

Rapes in Marin rose from 55 last year to 61 this year, a hike of 11 per cent, exactly the same as the typical suburban area, as shown in Saxbe's figures.

Auto theft increased slightly here, from 573 last year to 587, after three years of declines which law officers attribute to computerized registration checks and steering wheel locking devices. The rest of the nation's suburbs pegged a 13 per cent increase.

While countywide figures may show one trend, in many cases statistics in one police jurisdiction have moved in the opposite direction, or showed a more modest change than the county average.

In the unincorporated area of the county patrolled by sheriff's deputies, burglaries showed only a modest increase of 14 over 1973.

Noting that his 2 per cent jump was far lower than the county's 12 per cent increase, Undersheriff Sidney Stinson said:

"We're pleased with the figures. We'll close out the year with about 100 fewer burglaries than in 1972."

He attributed the drop to the department's burglary prevention program "and a more aware citizenry. People are beginning to recognize there is a burglary problem in the county and to protect their homes better."

But rape figures for the unincorporated area show an increase of 77 per cent, from 18 last year to a projected 32 this year.

Stinson blamed the jump on "a couple of rapists who are responsible for multiple rapes." He cautioned women against hitchhiking or accepting rides from strangers.

In San Rafael, Chief Lawrence R. Kelly said he was pleased with statistics showing no change in homicides, rapes and robberies and an increase of less than 1 per cent in auto thefts.

Although year-end figures will show an 8 per cent hike in burglaries (from 660 to 739), Kelly said residential burglaries have slacked off since his department put a burglary prevention unit on the street in August.

"We're going to continue pursuing the crime preventive approach and try to increase citizen involvement," he said. "We need more eyes and ears. We'd like to make more people aware that crime prevention is a dual responsibility which both citizens and police share."

Cigarette Taxes Are Handed Out

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Marin County received $4,430 and Sonoma County $17,417 out of a statewide total of more than $4.3 million in state cigarette tax, distributed to cities and counties in December, the state controller's office announced.

Cities and their shares are: Belvedere, $274; Corte Madera, $1,922; Cotati, $595; Fairfax, $962; Larkspur, $1,670; Mill Valley, $1,998; Novato, $4,868; Petaluma, $5,265; Rohnert Park, $1,460; Ross, $275; San Anselmo, $1,832; San Rafael, $10,640; Sausalito, $1,715, and Tiburon, $904.

Geothermal Bids

RENO, Nev.(UPI) — The Bureau of Land Management has tentatively accepted high bonus bids of more than $1 million for geothermal leasing rights to 21,600 acres of national resources lands in northern Nevada.

Man Faces Charges In Holdup

An armed robber who held up a variety store yesterday in Novato, was captured a few minutes later playing pool in a nearby bar, Novato police reported today.

DeAudry Roquemore, 33, of 192 Belvedere Street, Apt. 1, San Rafael, was held in Marin County jail in lieu of $15,000 bail on suspicion of armed robbery and being a felon carrying a concealed weapon. He was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police reported that a man wearing brown checkered pants and brown jacket held up Charisse Yivette Lindsay, 17, cashier at the Glenn 5 and 10 in the Ignacio Plaza at gunpoint and walked away with about $40 in cash.

Police searched the area and arrested Roquemore who was playing pool with companions at the nearby Meadows Bar in the same shopping area. They reported that he had an unloaded 32 caliber automatic pistol in his jacket pocket.

Roquemore told police that he had been released from San Quentin last February.

A survey of 1974 graduating medical students by the American Academy of Physicians show that more of them than ever before are choosing family practice as their specialty.

A 16 Per Cent Rise In Crime Reported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI reports serious crime rose 16 per cent across the country in the first nine months of 1974 and the biggest increase was in the South.

The January-to-September statistics were accompanied yesterday by a call from outgoing Attorney General William B. Saxbe for law enforcement agencies to work harder on preventing crime.

Crimes against property, such as auto theft, were up 17 per cent while murder, rape, robbery, assault and other violent crimes rose 8 per cent over the first three-quarters of 1973.

Crime rose 20 per cent in the South over the first nine months of last year, the FBI said. The increase was 15 per cent in the north-central part of the country, 14 per cent in the West and 13 per cent in the heavily populated northeast.

"The continuing increase in crime requires an intensification of our efforts to identify the causes, improve crime prevention and insure swift prosecution," said Saxbe in a statement.

Airlines Accused Of Favoring Top Brass

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Virtually all of the nation's major airlines are giving illegal special treatment to congressmen and top government figures who influence their future, according to the Civil Aeronautics Board's enforcement bureau.

The staff yesterday accused 20 airlines of providing the services, which in some instances include flowers in hotel rooms, limousine service and special baggage handling.

The services, the complaints said, amount to a rebate on tickets and such rebates are illegal.

Complaints were filed against Allegheny, American, Braniff, Continental, Delta, Eastern, Frontier, Hawaiian, Hughes Airline West, National, North Central, Northwest, Ozark, Pan American, Piedmont, Reeve Aleutian, Trans World, United, Western and Wien Air Alaska.

The enforcement staff asked the CAB to outlaw such favors as guaranteeing seats on planes and free refreshments for government VIPs, well-known personalities and ranking corporate executives.

The CAB staffers said that several of the airlines singled out officials of the CAB and the Federal Aviation Administration for special treatment. The CAB regulates airline routes while the FAA oversees airline safety.

The recommendations followed a complaint filed last January by a Ralph Nader organization, the Aviation Consumer Action Project.

According to the CAB staff report, Pan Am's employee manual says top executives of the news media, senior government officials and others get such special privileges as guaranteed seat protection, complimentary refreshments, limousine pickup and delivery, porter service, sighteeeing tours and champagne or "liquor! fruit! flowers!" in their hotel rooms on arrival.

THE MILL VALLEY REFUSE SERVICE

MILL VALLEY REFUSE SERVICE, INC.

Post-Christmas Trades Flourish

By MARY LEYDECKER

It was hard to believe that that many people had the energy and the day off — but there they were, scarcely any with empty hands, jammed cheek by jowl in most of Marin's stores and shops.

At the Emporium in Northgate, the men's department was filled with enough shoppers or traders to cast an MGM spectacular.

There was a separate queue (a long one) for exchanges, and a huge canvas cart was filled with Christmas rejects. A couple of women idly pawed through the collection of nonfitting sweaters, pants, belts, shirts, hats and other assorted male haberdashery.

Nearby, others took advantage of sales. "That's a buy," a woman told her companion, as they sifted through a stack of pants priced at $6.99. The first shopper decided the 34-waist "ought to fit Warren," but she might have to shorten the trousers.

"Don't make work for yourself just because it's a bargain," her friend said.

After standing in the wrong line, a man who wanted to exchange a pair of pants for another kind finally said in exasperation to a clerk, "but the difference is in your favor and you can have it."

A deal was made.

In another department, exuberant ladies gathered up half-price Christmas decorations, cards and wrappings, while an employee attempted to keep even with the debris on the floor.

The only peace was in the toy department, where the department manager, John Miller, happily said, "the last three days (before Christmas) made it for us."

Apparently, most youngsters either were pleased with their new toys or broke them before they could be exchanged because there was little activity in the department.

Most items sold well, Miller said, "especially anything with the name Mattel on it — like Baby Alive and Cathy Quick-curl," two items popular with little girls. "Evel Knievel" also was a big seller, according to a clerk.

About the only things that didn't go were some $19.98 "build-a-buildings," which still filled shelves along with a sizable collection of battery-driven toy sewing machines.

At a nearby store, Good Vi's, a clerk said, "it's all been returns today," as customers hauled back nonfitting pants and shirts.

The seasonal bestsellers at Brentano's bookstore, according to store manager Gwen Weeks were "Palace Guards," a book about the Nixon administration, and "Centennial," a huge Michener novel which sold out.

"Backgammon and chess," Miss Weeks responded when asked what games were popular this year. She said the season's sales had been good with a steady flow during the pre-Christmas shopping period.

"We lucked out," she said with a tired smile.

Throughout Marin, the scene was much the same.

"Oh, I did hope they'd have bedspreads on sale," a woman told her friend. "You knew they wouldn't," the other answered.

And, everywhere among the serious shoppers were the youngsters — out of school and out of the house on the day after Christmas.

"What are you doing here?" was the question to a subteenager and her friend making their way through the hordes.

Larkspur Scouts Win Eagle Rank

Two scouts — who rose through the ranks together as seven-year members of Troop No. 24 in Corte Madera — will receive their eagle rank in a court of honor at 8 p.m., Jan. 8, in Henry C. Hall School.

They are Kenneth M. Fox, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald N. Fox of 98 Cornell Avenue, Larkspur, and James L. Clark, also 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Clark, also of Larkspur.

Fox, a freshman at San Diego State University and a graduate of Redwood High School, assisted the Larkspur Fire Department in servicing fire hydrants for his eagle project. In 1973, he attended the National Scout Jamboree in Idaho. He is also a member of the Order of Arrow, an honorary camping society, and is a qualified scout life guard. He has also attended seven Marin-Sierra Boy Scout camps and has participated in three 50-mile backpack trips in the Sierra.

At San Diego State, he is active in surfing, skiing and golf and is also a pledge of Tau Kappa Alpha, a social fraternity. At Redwood Fox was a varsity football letterman.

Clark, a senior at Redwood High, holds 24 merit badges — most of them nature orientated. For his eagle project, he organized and helped in a park beautification project in Larkspur's Piper Park. In 1973 he also attended the National Scout Jamboree. He too belongs to the Order of Arrow and has participated in three 50-mile Sierra hikes. He is also a qualified scout life guard and has attended six area summer scout camps.

His hobbies include skiing, basketball and mountain climbing. At Redwood, Clark is actively engaged in musical department activities.

Crime Figure Wins Parole

CRANSTON, R.I. (UPI) — Raymond L.S. Patriarca, the reputed head of organized crime in New England, was granted parole last night by the Rhode Island Parole Board over the objections of the state and federal law enforcement officials.

Patriarca, 66, has served five years of a 10-year sentence for murder conspiracy. He will be freed Jan. 9 from the state Adult Correctional Institutions.

Parole Board Chairman Joseph Galkin said the five-member panel voted to release Patriarca because of his "excellent prison behavior and the desireability of supervision in the community." He declined to elaborate or to disclose the vote.

Burton Voted For Veto Overrides

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Marin-San Francisco Rep. John L. Burton voted to override six presidential vetoes in a series of roll call votes in October and November. Three of the vetoes were overridden.

Burton voted with 370 other House members to override President Ford's veto of a bill to strengthen the Freedom of Information Act. Only 31 representatives (six Democrats and 25 Republicans) voted to sustain the veto.

The Marin-San Francisco Democrat also was on the winning side in votes to override Ford's vetoes of a bill to extend the Rehabilitation Act for one year, with an $85.5 million appropriation, and of a bill restructuring the railroad retirement system, with a price tag of $7 billion. These were overridden 398-7 and 360-12, respectively.

Burton also voted twice to override vetoes of a continuing appropriations bill which mandated an aid cut-off for Turkey, but in neither case did opponents of the president's action muster the necessary two-thirds vote. He also voted to override veto of a bill granting relief to two U. S. newsmen who were wounded by Marines in the Dominican Republic in 1965, but this also failed to get the necessary two-thirds.

In other roll call votes during the same period, tabulated by Government Research Corp. this week, Congressman Burton:

—Voted against an amendment to the Grand Canyon National Park bill entitling the United States to hold in trust for the Havasupi Indian tribe 185,000 acres of land. It passed 180-147.

—Voted for a bill creating a Community Development and Finance Corp. in the District of Columbia to finance low and moderate income housing. It failed, 116 to 191.

—Voted for a resolution setting $300 billion as a non-obligatory target for the fiscal 1975 federal budget. It was adopted 329 to 20.

—Voted for consideration of a bill by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., establishing a $7.75 billion trust fund to be used by the Governmental National Mortgage Association to purchase home mortgage loans not insured by the federal government. The bill subsequently passed on voice vote.

—Voted to increase the ceiling on federally guaranteed loans to Amtrak from $500 million to $900 million, with a $200 million operating subsidy for 1975. This passed 299-35.

—Voted for a substitute continuing appropriations bill leaving it to the president to determine whether to withhold aid to Turkey. This passed 191-93.

—Voted to authorize U.S. payment of United Nations peacekeeping forces in Cyprus and the Middle East during 1975. It passed 304-56.

John Burton's vote on all these roll calls were identical with those of his brother, Phillip Burton, who represents the neighboring San Francisco district.

Reformatory Riot Ended Peaceably

LORTON, Va. (UPI) — The uprising began during the Christmas night showing of a Kung Fu movie, "The Hong Kong Connection." A dozen armed prisoners burst from the maximum security dining hall used as a theater and ran for the wall of Lorton Reformatory.

Only four got out of the prison and one was fatally wounded by a guard's rifle shot.

The estimated 90 to 95 others, armed with butcher knives, returned to the dining hall, interrupted the movie, seized 10 persons hostage and held them for 20 hours.

Before it was over yesterday afternoon, District of Columbia officials agreed to meet a series of demands for improved conditions. But the freedom of the last hostages was delayed by a demand for a written guarantee that ringleaders of the revolt would not be prosecuted.

U.S. Attorney David Hopkins refused to make the pledge, although he said in a letter he would confer with D.C. officials before any charges were brought and give "fair and calm consideration of the facts involved as would be our normal practice.

"Immunity from prosecution is not a negotiable factor in a prison matter," he said.

When Hopkins' letter arrived, the prisoners released the seven remaining hostages unharmed, gave up their weapons and returned quietly to their cells.

Demos Increase Grip Over Purse Strings

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Democrats increased their control of important Senate money committees under new committee assignments for the 1975-76 legislative session announced yesterday.

Two liberal Democrats and a liberal Republican were added to the key Finance Committee, replacing colleagues who retired or moved to other committees. It is an addition of an extra Democrat, making the partisan balance of the committee 8-to-5 in favor of Democrats. Previously it was 7-to-6.

The Finance Committee, where the state's $10 billion-plus budget will be reviewed and all money bills heard, will be chaired for the first time by liberal Democrat Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Los Angeles.

Beilenson replaced the dean of the legislature, Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, in a refshuffling of chairmanship assignments announced earlier this month.

Democratic majorities also were increased on the Revenue and Taxation Committee, where the line now is 6-to-3 compared to 5-to-4 last year.

The assignments were made by the Senate Rules Committee, composed of three Democrats and two Republicans.

The new members of the Finance Committee are Democratic Sens. Nicholas C. Petris of Oakland and David A. Roberti of Los Angeles, the Republican Peter H. Behr of Tiburon.

In other changes, the Public Utilities and Corporations Committee was expanded, given new responsibilities and renamed the Public Utilities, Transit and Energy Committee. Democrats kept their three-vote edge, with the partisan lineup now 6-to-3 instead of 5-to-2.

The Public Employment and Retirement Committee, which shifted from a Republican to a Democratic chairman earlier, was also given a 3-to-2 Democratic advantage. Last year the makeup favored Republicans 3-to-2.

Of 16 standing committees, besides the Rules Committee, Democrats chair 11 and have majorities on 14. Republicans chair five and have majorities on only one. Agriculture and Water Resources Committee. The Business and Professions Commiteee is split with four members of each party and one vacancy.

Another change was stripping Republicans of their 5-to-3 advantage with one vacancy on the Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee. The advantage now is reversed, 5-to-3 in favor of Democrats with an open seat.

Israel Claimed Blocking Middle East Settlement

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Shah of Iran today accused Israel of blocking progress toward a Middle East peace settlement by refusing to implement U.N. resolutions.

"These resolutions are being obstructed," the shah said in an interview published today in the Cairo newspaper Al Ahram. The U.N. resolutions call for Israel to withdraw from territory seized in the 1967 and 1973 wars.

"Since 1967 the Israelis have been blocking their implementation. Even after the 1973 war they are still obstructing," the shah said.

The shah also said he was misquoted by several Arab newspapers when he said in a recent interview that the next Middle East war "will be our war."

"There is no question, of course, of Iran participating in the fighting. You know there are geographical and other obstacles. But our sympathies will definitely be with you," he said.

Asked about reports of recent arms purchases by Iran, the shah replied: "In politics, usually not everything is said. But we certainly are not arming ourselves for fun." He did not elaborate.

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon, meanwhile, said that competition between the United States and the Soviet Union for influence in the Middle East has prolonged the Arab-Israeli conflict and could undermine hopes for peace.

In a speech before a gathering at Tel Aviv University last night, Allon said an early resumption of the Geneva Middle East conference could result in stalemating negotiations between the two sides.

"In theory at least, the United States and the Soviet Union may fulfill a key role in bringing peace to the Middle East," Allon said. "But their competition for influence in the area is just as likely to undermine a settlement, whether on purpose or by accident."

Allon said the United States is able to play a positive role in the region because it maintains good relations with both Israel and the Arabs and is able to act as a mediator through the office of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

But because the Soviet Union had allied itself only with the Arabs, he said, it could not play a constructive role at a reconvened Geneva conference, which Moscow cosponsors with Washington.

Japanese Prices Up

TOKYO (UPI) — Consumer prices in Tokyo rose 21.5 per cent in one year, the second highest increase since the end of World War II, the prime minister's office announced today.

The statement said the Consumer Price Index for Tokyo stood at 162.8 in December as against the 1970 base figure of 100.

The monthly rise in December was 0.4 per cent or the second smallest since May when a 0.1 per cent increase was recorded, indicating inflation has begun to subside, the announcement said.

America Loses Its Madcap Miser

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Jack Benny truly was a household name among entertainers for generations back. He was America's beloved, penny-pinching comedian who also played a serious violin. He was a star in vaudeville, radio, motion pictures and television.

Benny set a pattern as a straightman-comedian, deadpanning his jokes in a standard for a generation of funnymen who followed.

Benny, 80, who died last night in his Los Angeles home, seemed in fantastically good health even after passing his 80th birthday, Feb. 14, 1974. But he suffered a dizzy spell in Dallas, Tex., last October and came home to Los Angeles for five days of hospital tests. It was said at the time that he had no serious illness, but only a few months later it was announced that he had terminal cancer.

When he was released he quipped that he wouldn't even have a stomach ache until he got the hospital bill. (Another story, page 1.)

He played the lovable boob, a walking example of human frailties and the victim of every conceivable joke — but always bounced back with a supremely confident ego.

When not performing, Benny led a quiet life with a few close friends, among them comedian George Burns. His marriage was one of the most lasting in Hollywood.

In recent years Benny had cut his television appearances to two or three guest shots and one or two specials. In 1973 one was titled "Jack Benny's First Farewell Special." It was followed in 1974 by the "Second."

Benny became America's foremost funnyman during the 30s and 40s with a variety of personality quirks: his stinginess, big blue eyes, earsmarting violin playing, an ancient Maxwell automobile and insistence at all times that he was 39 years old.

It was a fabricated character which delighted audiences wherever he appeared.

Actually, Benny was born Benny Kubelisky Feb. 14, 1894 in Chicago and was raised in nearby Waukegan, another source of his humor, where his father operated a clothing store.

The comedian began studying the violin as a child and played in the orchestra of the Barrison Tneater while still in grammar school. He continued his theater job during high school days and played at dances in and around Waukegan.

At 15 he teamed with Cora Salisbury as a violin duo, traveling the Chicago area theater circuit. He became an excellent violinist and later in life made several concert tours as featured soloist with symphony orchestras.

After dissolving his partnership with Miss Salisbury, Benny assumed the name of Ben K. Benny and joined forces with Chicago pianist Lyman Woods. As Benny and Woods they traveled with vaudeville across the country playing small theaters.

Shortly before World War I Benny discovered he was more adept at making people laugh than with his virtuosity.

He enlisted in the Navy and served during the first World War with an entertainment troop raising money for Navy Relief. As his shows progressed his comedy antics became a dominant factor, the violin serving only as a prop.

After the war Benny went out as a single. Once more he changed his name, dropping the Ben in favor of Jack, for fear audiences would confuse him with Ben Bernie.

On tour he met his wife Sadie Marks, a hosiery clerk at the Los Angeles May Co., a meeting he was to use later in comedy routines. The couple was married in Waukegan in January, 1927.

Benny remained in Southern California to work in a series of undistinguished motion pictures. Early in the 1930s he turned to the relatively new field of radio where he found instant success.

For almost a quarter century Jack Benny was a Sunday night radio fixture, winning awards and capturing the largest audiences on the air.

His portrait as a grudging loser endeared him to millions. He was the perfect foil for con men and visiting comedians. He surrounded himself with a top cast, including his wife—who had changed her name to Mary Livingston—announcer Don Wilson and black comedian Eddie (Rochester) Anderson, whom he discovered working as a railroad porter.

Benny interspersed his radio work with occasional movies, "George Washington Slept Here," "Buck Benny Rides Again," "Man About Town," "Charley's Aunt" and "To Be Or Not To Be."

One picture, "The Horn Blows At Midnight," became a trademark with Benny who frequently referred to it as the worst movie ever made.

Jack Benny was the first major radio star to tackle television. He entered the new medium in 1951 and remained a regular on television until 1965.

Unlike many comedians, Benny was never "on" when he wasn't working. He was a serious man who saved his humor for professional appearances. Other comedians, however, found him the best audience possible. As a member of an audience he would howl with laughter, a commodity he brought to millions through his own long career.

Waukegan Mourns Its Favorite Son, Benny

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UPI) — The old home town was in mourning today for its favorite son, Jack Benny.

"He was really proud of Waukegan," said Mayor Robert Sabonjian of this city on the Illinois-Wisconsin line. (See also story on page 1.)

"He was an institution around here," Sabonjian said. "Never too busy for us — always ready to do something for Waukegan.

"Last summer I asked him if he could come up and play a benefit for the city's symphony orchestra, which was in bad financial shape. He came, just as he had on many other occasions — you know, to help out his town — and he raised several thousand dollars, and paid for all of his expenses."

Sabonjian recalled another occasion when he made an appeal to Benny in behalf of the city's music center, which was on the verge of bankruptcy. The center is mostly for children who can't afford private lessons.

"He couldn't wait to get here," Sabonjian said. "He brought his staff along and paid all the expenses again and raised something like $25,000 to put the thing over for us."

Benny's violin-playing, though good, fell short of concert quality, but his appearance with the instrument came to be accepted as a guarantee of success.

Sabonjian, mayor of Waukegan for the last 18 years, said one of his biggest thrills in office was the day Benny came to town for dedication of the Jaack Benny Junior High School.

"He often told me that naming the school for him was the greatest honor of his life," Sabonjian recalled. "He came back six times to pass out diplomas to the graduates, that's how proud he was of Jack Benny Junior High School."

Sabonjian said one of his fondest moments with Benny was when the comedian was on hand for Waukegan's centennial celebration in 1959.

The mayor said plans are underway for a special memorial service here for Benny.

HUMOR EVEN IN TRIBUTES

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Times said goodbye to Jack Benny in Benny's own style, with a tradition-hallowed line delivered in deadpan style.

The last line of a lengthy obituary, running from the front page to the inside of the newspaper, read simply:

"He was 39."

Plane Crash Kills Three In Seattle

SEATTLE (UPI) — A Harbor Airlines twin-engine Islander plane crashed four minutes after takeoff in snow and rain yesterday, killing three persons and injuring three others, one serously.

The plane, flight 308, was bound for Oak Harbor, Wash., near Whidbey Island Naval Air Station.

The dead were identified as Barry Sawyer, Oak Harbor, the pilot; Leonard Helpingstine, a Navy man from the Fallon, Nev., Naval Air Station, and Navy Lt. William Thomas Forest, no address immediately available.

Mildred S. Campbell, 57, Brea, Calif., was in serious condition at Riverton Hospital with a collapsed left lung and fractured pelvis, knee, ribs and finger.

Steven W. Healey, 22, Fort Dodge, Iowa, was en route to Whidbey Island Naval Air Station. He was in good condition along with Michael Helmacy, 18, Akron, Ohio, who was traveling to a new assignment as a petty officer at Whidbey.

The Federal Aviation Agency reported the plane radioed shortly after take-off that it was losing power and would try to land at nearby Boeing Field.

Instead, it crashed south of the Seattle city limits, hitting wires as it came down in the middle of a street.

A fire fighter reported the nose was bent at a 90-degree angle and the wings were bent over the fuselage.

FAMILY

"The Bears and I" — Contemporary saga of the Indians' struggle to keep their homelands. Vietnam veteran seeks solace in the woods and adopts three orphaned bear cubs which offend local Indians. Conflict with park commission and Indians adds tension. Filmed in British Columbia.

"The Little Prince" — An adult musical fantasy with music and lyrics by Lerner and Lowe. Richard Kiley stars and the Little Prince (Steven Warner) is an outstanding child actor, touching and convincing in his part. Beautiful photography, interesting special effects. Philosophy is simple but more significant to adults than to children. There is plenty to hold the attention of anyone over 8, especially the true sophisticates who are not afraid to admit they love and enjoy true beauty.

"The Shaggy Dog" — A hilarious Disney comedy-fantasy for all the family. The lead is played by an old English sheepdog.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Airport '75" — Surpassing entertainment. Delightfully intense and nerve racking when jet plan is hit and stewardess (Karen Black) has to take over controls. A series of scenes that will have the audiences reaching to fasten their seat belts. Craftsman like film. (Catholic Film Newsletter)

"Birds Do It, Bees Do It" — The mysteries of reproduction tastefully photographed in nature studies. But do see it with your young teen-agers who are ready. (Motion Picture & TV Council)

"The Front Page" — Another version of the popular play by Ben Hecht and Charles McArthur showing Chicago journalism in the 1920s. Billy Wilder and Walter Matthau star in this very funny, fast moving film, spoiled by foul and vulgar language that was never in the original. (Over 16).

"The Towering Inferno" — A spine-tingling look at a raging holocaust in the worlds' tallest skyscraper. Another in a series of lip-biting, tense, mass crisis movies, now so popular. An all-star cast headed by Paul Newman and Steve McQueen. (Over 15 at least).

BORDERLINE

"Harry and Tonto" — Art Carney in a warm and witty performance as a 72-year-old Harry who travels cross-country with his cat Tonto. Entertaining and emotionally comforting to view contemporary life through Harry's wise old eyes. Spoiled by very coarse language. (Mature youth)

"Man With a Golden Gun" — Ninth 007 production based on Ian Fleming's novels, seems to be made up of bits and pieces left over from other films. Some fantastic stunts and effects. More nudity than usual. (Product Digest)

"Steppenwolf" — A successful movie version of the philosophical novel. A Jungian analysis of a suicidally inclined German intellectual. Fine casting, innovative film techniques, excellent musical socre. A good example for film study. (16 and over)

ADULTS ONLY

"Amacord" — An Italian film with English titles by Frederico Fellini. Satire and nostalgia blended in a sensuous sketch book of life in an Italian seaside village in the 30s. Nudity and off-color humor.

"Freebie and the Bean" — Tough action melodrama with a plot hard to figure out. Usual fast chases, wild slugfests, unnecessarily sadistic and gory. Violence extreme.

"Godfather-Part II" — This film begins where the original "Godfather" left off and follows the career of Michael Corleone as he takes over the empire left by his father. Film is over three hours long and tedious at times, but technically good production design, art direction and cinematography.

ARRESTED — Esther Williams, the swimming movie star of the 1940s, was arrested and jailed for drunken driving, Ventura police said yesterday. Miss Williams, 50, was arrested shortly before midnight on Christmas by an officer who said he saw her car speeding and weaving on U.S. 101 near Camarillo. Taken to the Ventura County jail, she was releated yesterday on $300 bail posted by her husband, actor Fernando Lamas.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

El Greco's Choice Spot For New Year's Eve Reservation

Whatever the present state of the economy, it is likely three out of five of you reading this column will celebrate New Year's Eve for better or worse to come in 1975.

And it is also possible that three out of five of you celebrating will do so away from home — many of you at restaurants or night spots. This particular type of celebration is different from others. In its own way it represents a sort of prayer or an expression of hope.

The North Bay will have many places to go — we can't name them all, so have decided to settle on one which you may not have even considered. It's Spanish, it's small and it will require reservations. It is El Greco on the San Anselmo stretch of the Miracle Mile.

El Greco will serve its regular menu, which I consider an excellent one and not overpriced (dinners are in the $4.50 to $6.50 range). However, if you're bound to blow the works on New Year's Even, then I'd suggest the lobster dinner which will go for $14.50 including champagne. Or settle for some entree less flamboyant and treat yourself to the side tidbits for which owner and chef Jose Pons is noted — his fried baby squid, his caracoles (snails — either sauteed in white wine and tomato sauce or gently in garlic butter), perhaps his gambas al ajillo (sauteed prawns) or fresh clams in white wine sauce.

Add one or two of them to entrees like cordero a la Manchega (lamb marinated in olive oil, spices and lemons), the ternilla a la Parrilla (veal steak with asparagus tips and pimiento), one of the paellas or the assorted seafood and shellfish casserole and you'll enjoy a dinner fit for the epicures. You should, of course, also include one of the Spanish wines in Jose's collection to make it complete. The list is considerable and it offers both the moderately priced and more expensive bottlings.

This man Jose is probably the most ambitious Spaniard I have ever known. He started out modestly, then bought out his partner and the building he occupies, built up his patronage to excellent proportions and I predict that one day he will be a big operator. For this he works hard — seven days a week.

DIVIDED DINING ROOM — There is much of old Spain in the decor at El Greco — arches, tile, furnishing and paintings. The restaurant is now taking reservations for New Year's Eve with its authentic Spanish menu, music and flamenco dancing.

There will be entertainment New Year's Eve, of course — Spanish music and flamenco dancing. Jose manages to get good artists.

AFTER MANY YEARS at Black Point Inn, Jess Fisher, who for some time has wanted to retire, has sold it. The new owner is a corporation but the man who will be in charge is Don Gallick of Novato.

He's by no means inexperienced, having until recently owned the Gallery in San Francisco's busy financial district. It's conceivable that he will make changes at Black Point Inn but it's also too soon to say just what they may be. I know he does intend to conduct it as a family-type restaurant. Meanwhile Jack Cardini continues as chef and probably with little change in the existing menu.

Don was scheduled to take over this week.

THERE HAS BEEN a change of name at 660 Bridgeway, Sausalito — now known as William A. Richardson's Saucelito Water Works Restaurant instead of William A. Richardson's Bay View Restaurant and Saucelito Oyster Bar. It's a little shorter — but not much. For all practical purposes it can still be called Richardson's.

The operation here has been taken over by Larry Mindel of Sausalito, who has a new dinner menu featuring 10 different steaks and daily fresh seafood — the first in the $6.95 range and the second at $5.95. There are also abalone, bouillabaise, crab legs, lamb chops and teriyaki. The oyster bar is still in operation and can provide you with a seafood platter at $3.50, fresh Blue Point oysters, cherrystone clams, escargots, onion soup, fried zucchini, artichokes, other fresh vegetables and mushrooms.

Richardson's will celebrate New Year's Eve with dinner at the regular prices and a complimentary bottle of champagne with dinner. And New Year's Day there will be a fizz brunch from 11 a.m. with all the games on television.

THE RICE TABLE in San Rafael is having a winter holiday. It will reopen on Wednesday, Jan. 8.

THE JAPANESE RESTAURANT Fujiyama, on the San Rafael side of the Miracle Mile, ordinarily closed on Mondays, will remain open next Monday, Dec. 30 and also on Tuesday the 31st. But it will be closed on New Year's Day and also Thursday, the day after. Regular menu will be served New Year's Eve.

IF YOU HAVE BEEN FEELING SORRY for friends on the Alaskan pipeline project over the holidays — be assured they are eating as well even as you and I, possibly better.

Paul R. Mills of Sleepy Hollow, who used to own the former Woodlands restaurant in Kentfield, has sent me menus from his son Paul C., who is now in charge of feeding and olling men in one of the amps at Sheep Creek, Alaska. 'or Christmas they were able o choose from turkey with yster stuffing and Yorkshire udding, prime rib and seafood ewburg — not to mention an mazing assortment of accesso-ies. And for New Year's dinner hey will fare equally well on aked New York strip, rack of amb or sweet pressed duckling with another impressive carte f side attractions.

And they can stuff themselves with more stuffing or anything else on the menu. Meals are served cafeteria style, so all they have to do is make a second trip around.

IF YOU TRAVEL the 101 Highway up as far as Laytonville, it will pay you to drive another 14 or 15 miles north until you reach a little community called Cummings. It is there you will find an excellent place to eat called the Mad Creek Inn.

This is the pride and joy of Mary Cefalu, formerly of Mill Valley, and her six foster children, who left these parts in 1972. They bought it the following April — restaurant, bar, 17 acres and 14 cabins and embarked on a much-needed restoration job. It was hard work, seven days a week.

They have now been open about 18 months and up to now have kept the inn open April through December on Wednesdays through Sundays from 3 p.m. to 2 a.m. But for 1975, Mary has decided to make it a year-round operation, closing only Jan. 1 through Jan. 16.

After that she'll keep open during the winter on Fridays and Saturdays from 4 p.m. to 2 a.m. and on Sundays from noon for brunch. Her regular menu has been on the side of seafood and steaks, deli type sandwiches, homemade soups and pastries. The winter menu will offer homemade pizzas, lasagna (she makes her own noodles), minestrone, homemade breads served with wine and cheese, along with steaks smothered in onions and mushrooms, probably her shrimps rolled in sour dough and stuffed with crab, zabaglione and many other mouth-watering goodies.

There will be a pot of Italian stew brewed in wine kept at the bar for occasional snatching, hot mulled wine and other wine recipes and Italian omelets and French toast for brunch. If you must know, I haven't been there yet, but just reading her letter makes me drool.

If you're interested and want more information, write her at Mad Creek Inn, Star Route 2, Box 246, Laytonville 95454.

"I can account for the fine appearance, health and longevity of Californians only from the fact their chief article of food is beef."
– Captain Wm. A. Richardson (1796-1856), founder of Rancho Saucelito

Beef is still a favorite with Californians! At the Saucelito Water Works Restaurant our dinner specialty is beef (only USDA aged Midwestern) along with daily fresh catch from the sea, served up with a warmth and hospitality reminiscent of early California. We're located on Captain Richardson's Bay with an unobstructed view of San Francisco. Open 7 days a week for luncheon and dinner . . . also serving Sunday brunch from 10:30 to 4.

Bicyclist Dies Of Crash Injuries

Police said Barbara A. Black, 28, of 15 Orange Avenue, was thrown from her 10-speed bicycle into a concrete retaining wall at Second and Main streets after she had swerved over a double line on Second to pass a left-turning car.

Her death was Marin County's 19th traffic fatality of the year. At this time last year there had been 34 traffic deaths.

Miss Black had been a resident of the Bay Area for about five years and had lived in Larkspur for about four months. She was a native of Maryland and was employed in the apparel business.

Survivors are a sister, Bonnie Hughes of Mill Valley; her father, Harvey Black of Rehoboth Beach, Del., and a brother, Kurt Sprengle of the East Coast.

Funeral will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael with burial on Monday at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

Poll Shows Reagan-Wallace Clout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Either California Gov. Ronald Reagan or Alabama Gov. George Wallace would capture 17-18 per cent of the California vote as a third-party presidential candidate in 1976, a survey made in the 10 days following the Nov. 5 election showed today.

Should the two combine as presidential and vice presidential candidates on a third-party ticket, they could expect about 19 per cent of the total vote, the California Poll deduced from its personal interviews of 1,048 adults chosen to represent a cross-section of the state's voters.

For the sampling, Reagan and Wallace were stacked up against a Ford-Rockefeller Republican ticket and Democratic Party tickets headed by Sen. Henry Jackson or Sen. Edmund Muskie.

Pollster Mervin Field said it was significant that Reagan and Wallace got as much support as they did at a time when "neither had made any public move to organize a presidential effort outside his present party."

From that it would appear, said Field, "that either man's potential is greater than shown in view of the restiveness by the public and the ample opportunity either one would have during 1975 to actively promote a third-party candidacy."

Reagan as a third-party candidate would seriously weaken President Ford's chance of winning as a Republican and Wallace would subtract a smaller but still decisive portion of the vote for the Democratic standard bearer, the poll showed.

With Reagan, but not Wallace, as a third-party candidate, the poll showed Jackson getting 37 per cent of the total vote, Ford 32, Reagan 17, and undecided 14. Substituting Muskie for Jackson, the result was: Muskie 39 per cent, Ford 30, Reagan 18 and undecided 13. In each case, Reagan got support of 29 per cent of the Republicans interviewed and 9 per cent of the Democrats.

Jackson's 37 per cent total included 55 per cent of the Democrats polled and 12 per cent of the Republicans. Muskie's 39 per cent total included 57 per cent of the Democrats and 14 per cent of the Republicans.

When only Wallace was the third-party candidate, those surveyed gave Ford 39 per cent of the total vote, Jackson 32, Wallace 18 and undecided 11. Muskie tied Ford at 36 per cent, with Wallace getting 17 and 11 undecided. In each case Wallace got 17 per cent of the Democratic vote, plus 17 per cent of the Republican vote against Jackson and 16 against Muskie.

A Reagan-Wallace third-party ticket won support of 19 per cent of those interviewed, compared with 39 per cent for a Democratic ticket of Jackson and Sen. Walter Mondale and 31 per cent for Ford-Rockefeller, with 11 per cent undecided. The Reagan-Wallace total included 13 per cent of the Democrats interviewed and 27 per cent of the Republicans.

Warning Issued On Jobless Pay

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Jobless workers — who become eligible for unemployment benefits under a new program expected to begin Jan. 6 — were warned today there will be at least a three-week delay from the time claims are filed and first payments made.

Richard Camilli, director of the state Employment Development Department, said the new program is part of the Emergency Jobs and Unemployment Assistance Act which Congress cleared last week. It is awaiting President Ford's signature.

Camilli said the program provides for benefit payments to jobless workers not covered by the regular unemployment insurance program.

He estimated that 150,000 claims will be made in the first week, followed by some 5,000 weekly thereafter.

(Photo by Alfred Arn)

Dad's In The Maternity Ward

By BONNIE BARD

Proud new fathers are no longer relegated to "visitors" status in maternity wards, but now are a natural part of the scene and share in the care of the newborn.

Progressive hospitals in Marin and Sonoma counties have instituted family-centered maternity units that give the father a bigger role and allow both parents to get to know their child before going home.

Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma began the program two months ago under the direction of Nursing Supervisor Margarethe Kircher.

"Fathers milling around in the hallway have really become a thing of the past," Mrs. Kircher said. "Before, they really felt out of it, but now they feel a part of the event."

NEW FATHERS are no longer limited to normal visiting hours and may be in the maternity ward from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. No longer are they chased out when it's baby's feeding time.

"The fathers wash their hands, put on hospital gowns and can feed their babies and change their diapers if they like," Mrs. Kircher said.

"This has really been good for fathers. They feel more at ease when the baby goes home because they're already used to feeding and diapering," she said.

"Fathers are very happy with this program, especially if they've had other babies under the old rules," Mrs. Kircher said. "Sometimes they can't believe it when we bring in the crib."

FATHERS HAVE been permitted in the delivery room for several years and Mrs. Kircher said she believes the more relaxed rules bring a more casual atmosphere to the maternity ward.

"The fathers are very delighted," she said. "Before, everything was so conservative. Many hospitals back east are still like that. We take the fathers along whenever we can."

Hillcrest also treats the new parents to a special gourmet dinner complete with candlelight on the evening before discharge. It may be a long time before they can get out to dinner again.

THE MENU includes a choice of three entrees: chicken breast cordon-bleu (stuffed with smoked ham slices and Swiss cheese); scampi selected gulf prawns (sauteed and deglazed with white wine and chives); and top sirloin steak (with mushroom sauce). Wine is also included, although that's nothing special. Nearly all Hillcrest patients may enjoy wine with evening meals.

"It's really quite a nice dinner. Next I'm going to hire an Hungarian to play the violin," Mrs. Kircher said laughingly.

She said the new program also allows for a better adjustment for homes where there are older children.

"We still can't allow children to visit, but at least the father has spent more time with the new baby and can tell the older children more about him," she said.

MRS. KIRCHER said she hopes that the new hospital planned for Petaluma in several years will include a special visiting room attached to the maternity ward where youngsters could visit their mothers and see their new brother or sister through the nursery window.

Hillcrest averages 40 births per month, but rarely uses all six of its obstetrics beds because of the short hospital stay plan.

"If the birth is uncomplicated and everything is all right the average stay is one day," Mrs. Kircher said. Under special cases mothers could even be discharged a few hours after giving birth.

"Everybody feels better with these new rules," she said. "Both the mother and father feel more comfortable with the infant.

Old Clothes, Drama Topics For Air Talks

Theater, antique clothes and a television documentary will be the topics on "Jorie Talks," Monday through Thursday at 9:30 a.m. on KTIM.

On Monday Jean Stewart of Fairfax will discuss antique clothes and the inspiration she gets from them in dress design.

David Silverman, College of student, will talk about the Lunchbox Theater on Tuesday. The theater is a workshop at the College for a class in directing.

Clint Weyrauch of San Rafael, program director of KTIM-FM, on New Year's Day will report on his television documentary of San Quentin Prison. Footage taken following a stabbing incident was picked up on CBS network news in mid-December.

Al Newman of Terra Linda Thursday will chat with the show's host Jorie Parr about the Vaudeville Showcase slated to resume at the Belrose Studio Theater in San Rafael on Jan. 4.

Long Voyage To Be Home For Christmas

By MOLLY MARIN

Six months ago Lynne signed on as a cook aboard the Eos for the Los Angeles to Tahiti race June 15 to 23. She cooked for the eight crew members of the Eos, an Erickson 41 owned by Norton Smith of Sausalito.

After placing seventh out of eight boats, five of the crew flew home leaving Lynne, Tom George of Mill Valley and Smith, for a leisurely cruise of the islands.

To arrive home in time for Christmas they decided to sail for 25 days straight instead of taking the usual stopover in Hawaii. A hand was on the tiller around the clock during the entire voyage because the Eos has no automatic steering mechanism, Lynne said.

SVEA ANDERSSON is planning a trip to Marin next month from her home in Vretstorp, Sweden, to attend the wedding of her daughter Kirstin Birgitta Akesson and Jerry Donald Moore on Jan. 12.

The future bridegroom's mother, Doris C. Moore of Sterling, Ill., also will attend the wedding.

The future bride is a surgical nurse at Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco, and her fiance, who lives in Mill Valley, owns Golden Gate Graphics in Mill Valley and is a mechanical engineering consultant.

MARGERY PRESCOTT of San Rafael was honored at a party Dec. 19 at Dominic's restaurant celebrating her retirement after 27 years with the Marin County Housing Authority.

Twenty of her fellow employees hosted and attended the

Tel Aviv Citizen Will Be Speaker

Dr. Amos Shapiro, spokesman for the Israeli academic community and professor of legal history at the University of Tel Aviv, will speak Thursday evening, Jan. 2, at Temple Rodef Shalom, 170 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

He will discuss the legal and political aspects of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

The program will begin at 7:45 p.m., and is jointly sponsored by the temple and the Marin Jewish Community Center.

Woman Volunteers To Fight Fires

By BETTY FROST

Spectators around Richardson's Bay watched the dazzling pre-Christmas blaze that caused extensive damage to the Madonna and Child houseboat moored off Gate 5 at the northern entrance to Sausalito.

When Lynn Roberts heard about the fire, she left a holiday party in San Francisco to hurry to her duty station at the Sausalito firehouse. Miss Roberts, the only woman volunteer in the Sausalito Fire Department, joined other volunteers standing by at headquarters. They formed a backup force, prepared to meet any additional emergency which might arise in another part of the city Saturday night.

MISS ROBERTS moved into an apartment not far from the fire station last summer. She was impressed with the dedication of the hard working fire force and like a good neighbor, wanted to know if she could help out. The fellows, impressed with her sincerity, invited her to join the volunteers.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

The Man She Made Over Ups And Leaves Her; What To Do?

DEAR HELEN:

When Bart first started living with me, he was a loveable slob. His clothes were "early sleep-in." He had no style. He didn't even bathe as often as he should. And he drank too much.

With much TLC, I helped him change into a new man. He didn't resent it — in fact, he enjoyed the attention he got from me — and other women.

Last night he told me he was leaving — he didn't love me any more. I'm pretty sure he's moving in with a rich divorcee who has been making a play for him. She'd never have noticed him if it hadn't been for my "rehabilitation job."

I not only spent time but money on him, buying him new clothes, getting him to hair stylists, etc. Don't you think he should pay for services rendered, sort of? — TOSSED ASIDE

DEAR T.A.:

Now look: If YOU had an affair with a man who more or less paid for it, would you expect his bill for "services rendered" when you left him?

Remodeling Bart was YOUR idea. You have no legal hold on him — not even a promissorty note. So check him down to experience.

DEAR HELEN:

I read about a new way to lose weight — "staplepuncture." A doctor places a small surgical staple in your ear, and when you wiggle it, your hunger pangs are supposed to disappear. Does this really short circuit your "appetite nerve"? — DOUBTFUL

DEAR DOUBTFUL:

Sign me "Doubtful" too!

Like the "HCG" (Human Chronionic Gonadtropin) Weight Loss Plan" (which one researcher has renamed the "High Cost of Gouging"), staplepuncture is mostly a psychological crutch. You might accomplish just as much with a loud buzzer on your refrigerator — plus the required 500-calorie-a-day diet.

But the diet is what does it. . .

P.S. My husband remarks, "Reduce by ear staples? It's the staples in your stomach that caused the problem!"

DEAR HELEN:

Hail to "Conserving Clara!" It warms my heart to hear that her food budget is actually going down in this murderous inflation. Our family, too, has learned about home gardens, day-old bread, eliminating junk foods, conserving energy, and walking to work. An added bonus: outsmarting inflation makes you feel WORTHY! Just ask my husband — I'm happiest when I've saved a buck. — KONSERVING KATHY

DEAR HELEN:

Tell "Conserving Clara" to stop patting herself on the back. If she and other like her had not been extravagant in the past, things wouldn't have become so hard. She thinks she's great because her family is eating hamburger. What about those of us who were eating hamburger and beans before, but now can barely afford them?

We were buying store brands, clipping coupons, growing gardens, canning and freezing, making do, when Con. Clara was enjoying her roasts and steaks. We were buying dented cans at food outlets and making our own clothing, shopping the sales, doing without, all of our lives.

Really, it hasn't been so hard — except how do we "conserve" any farther?

But anyway, if a depression hits, we'll manage. We've had lots of practice.

I just wanted to tell some of those self-righteous people who identify with Conserving Clara that the only thing they've done is to finally learn they must live within their means — something many of us have been doing all along. — ENDURING EVE

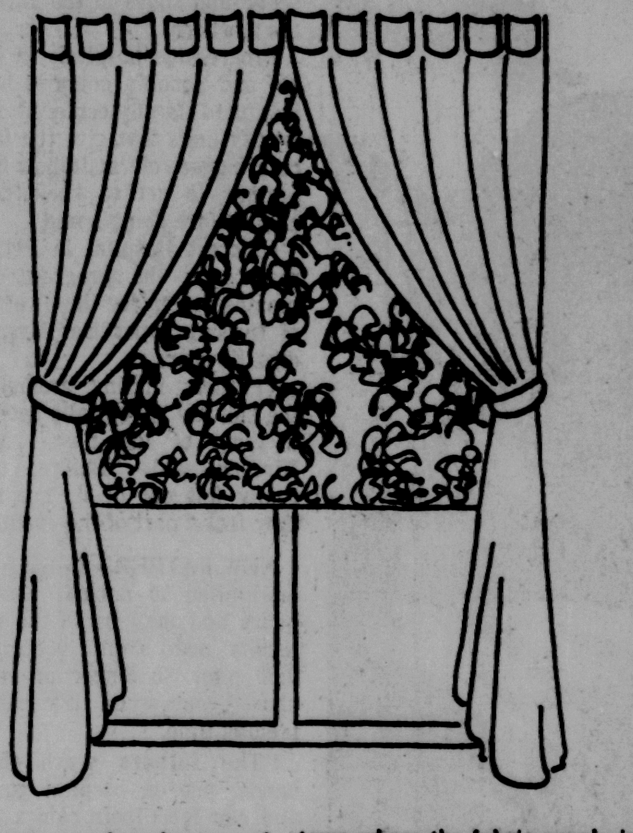
SEW SIMPLE

Take Advantage Of New Year To Gain Proficiency Through Class

By EUNICE FARMER
Destributed by Register and Tribune Syndicate



Dear Readers,

One of the nicest things about being a columnist is the chance that comes once a year to thank our loyal readers. It's also a time to extend sincere holiday greetings to every one of you. I would like to write to you as you have done to me, but the huge volume of mail I receive, makes it impossible. I shall continue to make every effort to see that you will have the help you need with any problems concerning fabrics, construction, fit, etc. I always try to answer the questions that are of the most general interest.

How lucky for us, the ones who can sew. To be able to make anything we desire for a fraction of the cost of ready-to-wear. What a small price to pay for the little time and effort it takes. This has been a year of very profound happenings, most of which are beyond our power. Yet, all of us can save money and still be well dressed, regardless of our incomes, if we just take the time.

For those who can't sew, make this your first New Year's resolution. Begin by checking into sewing classes, either at your favorite fabric shop or through adult education. It's a perfect time of year to get involved in new projects; the holidays somehow leave us with a let-down feeling. By spring, you'll not only have a new wealth of knowledge, but a new wardrobe as well.

I am convinced that the majority of partially constructed garments that are hidden away in drawers are there because of a lack of knowledge. I can't stress too much the importance of lessons. Keep on taking them until you are truly proficient. This is when you will receive the ultimate pleasure from all your hard work. Sewing isn't always easy. If it were that simple, tailors would be a dime a dozen. It takes lots of "know-how," so begin now.

Dear Eunice,

I would like to make a window shade out of fabric to match my little girl's room. The fabric is not stiff enough for a shade. Can I use a press-on interfacing for this large area? — Mrs. M.M.

DEAR MRS. M.M.,

Yes, it is possible to make a window shade if you will carefully follow these instructions. Cut a layer of Stitch Witchery (your web type bonding agent), a layer of decorative fabric and a layer of lightweight backing fabric 1 inch wider than the width of your window shade roller, the length of the window plus about 12 inches.

Sandwich the Stitch Witchery between the two layers of fabric, both of which have the right side out. Fuse a section at a time by covering the surface with a damp press cloth and steam pressing the entire area. Be sure the fabric is on your pressing board evenly and keep the fabric nice and even (it's very easy to stretch out of shape).

Repeat on the other side. Your two layers of fabric will be permanently bonded together with just the right amount of body. Use a narrow strip of Stitch Witchery to turn up a hem and make a slat casing.

Cut 1½ inch off each side of the shade to insure against raveling. To complete the shade, trim with a fringe border if you desire. Lastly, staple to the window shade roller.

DEAR EUNICE,

I have seen the name 'Qiana" used in advertising more expensive clothes, yet I can't find it at my local store. What is this material and why can't home sewers find it? — MARGIE T.

DEAR MARGIE,

From your note, I imagine you must live in a very small town where the fabric supply is very limited, because Qiana is widely distributed around the country in fabric shops. It usually retails from $5 to $20 per yard.

The name "Qiana" is a trade mark given to DuPont for 100 per cent nylon yarn. Qiana comes in many weaves and resembles many different fabrics such as velvet, silk twill, silk broadcloth, chiffon, crepe and knits of all types. It is a fiber that takes color magnificently. Therefore, in today's world, it is replacing silk almost entirely.

Because Qiana is a synthetic, you will use a fine polyester thread and preshrink all the findings. It is washable, doesn't water spot, and has so many extra advantages over pure silk. However, I must tell you that it is warmer to wear than silk. Today, with air conditioning and temperature controls all year around, this doesn't seem to be a deterrent factor.

If the Qiana is a knit, be sure to use ball point pins and needles; if it is a woven fabric, use a fine needle. Usually, Qiana is not underlined, so you will find it compatible to softer styles, pleats, gathers, draping, etc. It's a beautiful fiber. Look around for it when you visit a larger city — You'll love it.

For your copy of "Your Pattern and You," send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

"I have always been interested in public safety and public service," the petite brunette said. She likes to feel like a part of the community, and noted that "in some ways Sausalito is an old-fashioned, small town. These guys (in the department) who take their lives in their hands on a day to day basis are super-dedicated professionals. They are deeply interested in the community."

Miss Roberts had wanted to become a nurse. For several years she was a stewardess for Trans-International flying out of Oakland.

DOES SHE CONSIDER fire fighting dangerous for herself?

"I know what to do," the volunteer explained, "and you learn to rely on one another as a team."

The Sausalito Fire Department also operates an ambulance service for the city, and Miss Roberts, because of her first aid background, sometimes accompanies patients being taken to the hospital.

Miss Roberts, a native of San Francisco, attended Immaculate Conception Academy and Lincoln High School there. She had lived in Tiburon and Mill Valley before moving to Sausalito six months ago. She is employed as manager for the Lincoln-Mercury daily rental department in San Francisco.

Censorship Contested By Inmate

One of the San Quentin Six, Talamantez said in a writ of habeas corpus filed yesterday that prison officials seized his November issue of 'Midnight Special," a legal publication.

Put out by the National Lawyers Guild, the newsletter carries articles from inside U.S. prisons dealing with prisoner rights, political activities and excerpts from legal decisions affecting inmates, said Talamantez's hand-printed writ.

But prison information officer William D. Nyberg said "Midnight Special" contains articles advocating that prisoners kill guards and policemen, revolt and take control of prisons.

One recent issue suggests that guards' children be kidnapped, decapitated and left on the front steps of a police station, Nyberg said.

He cited Section 2600 of the California Penal Code, which permits authorities to withhold material "tending to incite murder, arson, riot, violent racism or any other form of violence."

Talamantez, however, said he wants the publication only for his legal education, not for "inciting or encouraging violence or . . . interfering with any prison rule or regulation."

The inmate asked a Marin Superior Court order to force Nyberg, who acts as prison censor, and Warden Kenneth D. Britt to release the disputed newsletter and to refrain from future seizures of the publications.

Nyberg said about 30 inmates receive free subscriptions to "Midnight Special" and that each issue since has been censored or seized due to unacceptable content.

Photographs To Be Shown

Some 44 photographs are on display along with a handwoven, natural dyed tapestry entitled "self portrait."

Library hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Today is Friday, Dec. 27, the 361st day of 1974 with four to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Louis Pasteur, noted French bacteriologist, and actress Marlene Dietrich were born on this date . . . he in 1822 and she in 1904.

On this day in history:

In 1941, Japanese war planes bombed Manila in the Philippines, despite the fact it had been declared an open city.

In 1963, the U.S. Commerce Department authorized the sale of surplus wheat to Russia.

In 1968, the Apollo 8 astronauts returned to earth after a trip around the moon 10 times, paving the way for later moon-landing missions.

In 1972, Lester Pearson, former Canadian prie minister and Nobel Peace Prize winner, died at the age of 75.

A thought for the day: British physicist John Tyndall said, "It is as fatal as it is cowardly to blink facts because they are not to our taste."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Old, Honorable Practices Go Out Window At Table

Tithing is an old and honorable practice, dating back to prehistoric times. You take one-tenth of your property and turn it over to those who are less fortunate. Don't forget to tithe when you play bridge.

10 EASY TRICKS

Put yourself in the South seat and play this hand at game in notrump. You seem to have ten easy tricks: two spades, one heart, five diamonds and two clubs.

If you try to take your ten tricks, you'll wind up with only eight. The diamonds fail to break, and if you give East a diamond trick he will return a heart to defeat the contract.

BE GENEROUS

To make this contract you must be generous. Give the tenth trick to your poor, unfortunate opponents. Then you can take your nine tricks with a clear conscience.

To be specific, win the first trick in dummy with the ten of hearts. Then lead a low diamond from dummy and "finesse" with the eight of diamonds from your hand.

This is not really a finesse, since you don't seriously expect to win the trick. You're willing to let West have the trick so that you can be surer of winning the other four diamond tricks. West can do no damage in the meantime, and your contract is therefore virtually cinched by this play.

DAILY QUESTION

You have opened with 1 NT, partner has responded two diamonds, and it is up to you again.

You hold:
♠- A K 7 5
♥- K J 9
♦- K 8
♣- K 8 7 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

Partner knows the strength of your hand, and his response says he does not expect to make a game in spite of your strength. Trust him, since he knows your hand but you don't know his.

Pittsburgh of the National Baseball League and Boston of the American League were opponents in the first World Series.

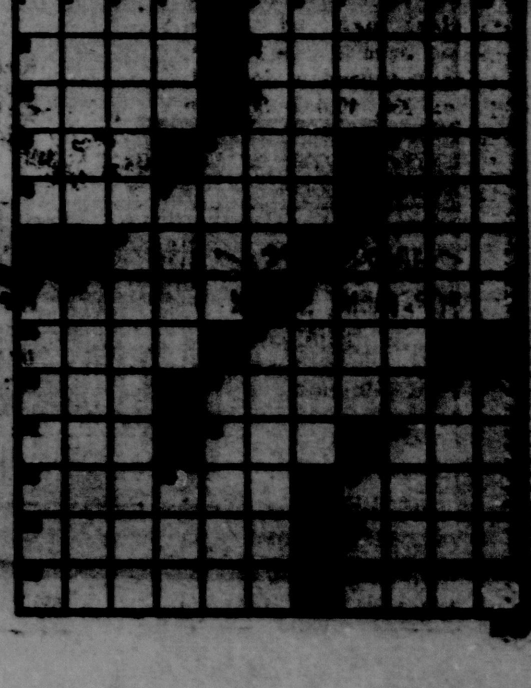
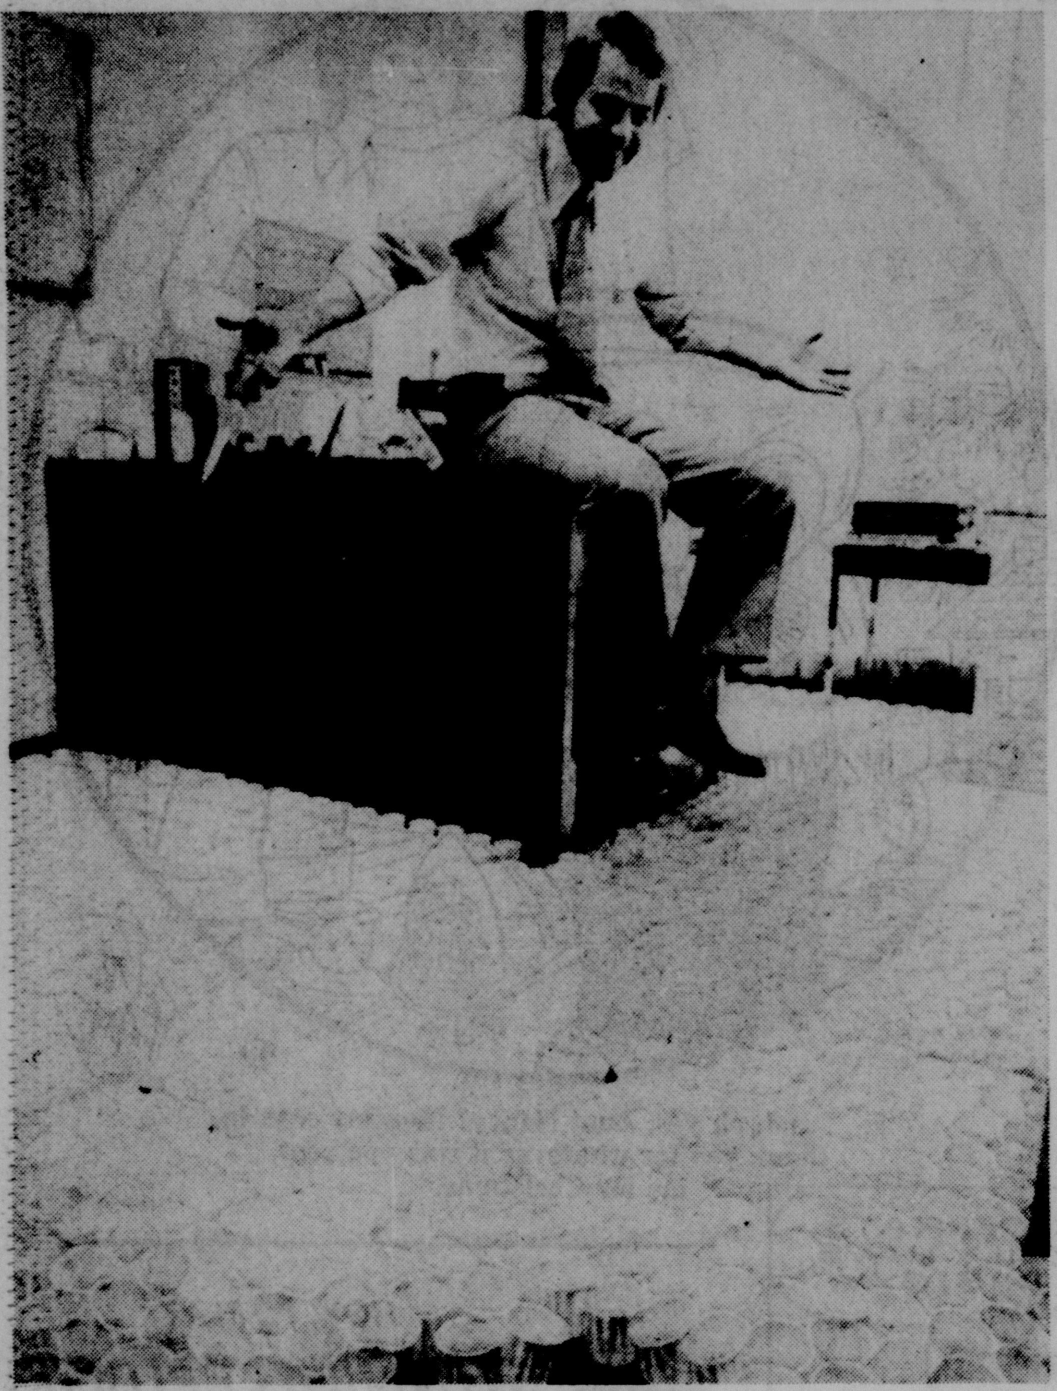
Yesterday's Answer





IN HIS CUPS

Don DeMars, manager of Ultra Systems Inc., of Newport Beach, returned to his office yesterday to find the floor covered with 2,000 paper cups each filled with water and stapled one to the other. Lift one and they all go over, spilling 40 gallons of water, he explained, and finally called the local fire department. (UPI Telephoto)

Dozens Killed And Injured As Two Trains Collide In Lisbon

LISBON (UPI) — An incoming train today sliced open several cars of another train about to leave the central Apolonia station, killing and injuring dozens of persons.

A spokesman for Lisbon's main San Jose hospital said at least nine persons were killed and 49 injured. A spokesman for the fire brigade told a radio interviewer that 15 persons died.

The railway spokesman said the accident occurred at 3:30 p.m. as a passenger train bound for Coimbra was leaving the station.

Several cars of the train derailed and were hit and sliced open by another train arriving at the station, he said.

Radio stations broadcast appeals to doctors and nurses to report to their hospitals, but later said no more were needed. They also said sufficient blood donors had reported to the hospitals.

Watergate Defense Concluding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Kenneth W. Parkinson, a lawyer for President Richard M. Nixon's re-election committee, was pictured today as "a sitting duck" who had no reason to suspect top-level involvement in the Watergate cover-up.

Jacob A. Stein, Parkinson's attorney, continued his final argument for the fifth and final defendant in the Watergate cover-up trial. The prosecution will close its case against five of Nixon's former aides later in the day.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica will present a two or three hour charge to the jury Monday morning, and then give them the case.

Stein told how Parkinson was hired after the Watergate break-in in June 1972 to handle the committee's defense in the Democrat's $1 million lawsuit resulting from the break-in at the party's headquarters. "You just mind the lawsuit and everything will be all right," Stein said Parkinson was told.

"If ever anyone wanted a sitting duck, he was it," Stein said.

Stein said Parkinson was getting only bits of information — "page 18, then page 12, then a jump ahead to page 52" — and had no reason to believe any allegations of top-level involvement, Stein said.

Parkinson also was not told the full story even by former Assistant Attorney General Robert C. Mardian, a defendant, who hired him in June 1972, Stein said.

While others were talking of intelligence gathering plans and the cover-up, Stein said, "Mr. Parkinson may well have been helping crippled children." A number of character witnesses testified about Parkinson's civic activities.

The defense arguments total more than 15 hours, spread over parts of two weeks.

The jury heard lengthy arguments yesterday — the completion of three hours by William S. Frates, lawyer for former White House domestic affairs chief John D. Ehrlichman; one hour 40 minutes by Thomas Green, lawyer for former Assistant Attorney General Robert C. Mardian, and the beginning of Stein's argument.

Stein said Parkinson was a Washington lawyer of good reputation and "politically nothing."

"Mr. Parkinson has not been charged with anything that if you saw it, it would look wrong," Stein said. "He didn't hit anybody, he didn't taunt anybody, he didn't poison anybody, he didn't take anything away from anybody."

Green, youngest of the defense lawyers at 33, described Mardian's "30 short days in the summer of 1972" while the campaign lawyer handled Watergate legal work for President Nixon's reelection committee.

Mardian was reassigned to political duties when he threatened to resign unless taken off the Watergate case.

Green said there was insufficient evidence to have warranted indicting Mardian, accused on a single count of conspiracy. The other four defendants are accused of both conspiracy and obstruction of justice.

Alien Address Report Required

Any alien living in Marin County must report his address to the U.S. Attorney General's office by the end of January.

Address cards are available at any post office in Marin or at the Immigration and Naturalization Service office, 630 Sansome Street, San Francisco.

Exempt from the yearly duty are diplomats and persons accredited to certain international organizations such as the United Nations.

Yule Gift Is Headache To Petalumans

Someone may have given a Petaluma youngster the wrong Christmas gift, local police speculated today.

Beginning Christmas and continuing yesterday, reports of hundreds of dollars worth of windows smashed by slingshot-fired marbles filtered into the city hall police station.

Most of the damage was done to businesses, and police said the vandals apparently struck during both night and daylight hours.

The victims, and their damage estimates, included: the city recreation center on Kenilworth Drive, $100; Cline's Thrift Shop and Custom Waterbeds, 800 Petaluma Boulevard South, $130; Showcase Theater, Liberty and Washington streets, $65; Crocker Bank, 125 Western Avenue, $100; Texaco Petroleum, 231 Bodega Avenue, $65, and Boulevard Bowl, 1100 Petaluma Bouelvard South, $80.

BRIGHT CHAMBERS — A workman's vacuum bottle stands beside two old clocks on the new curved city councilmen's desk in Sausalito's new city hall chambers. New white paint, light fixtures, carpeting and the wooden screen at the back of the desk give the room a fresh, airy appearance. The council's regular armchairs, strewn at right, will be in their place and clocks installed when Mayor Evert H. Heynneman gavels the council to order Jan. 7 in the long-sought new quarters.

COBWEBS AND CALCULATORS

Sausalito's City Hall Moves Into Its New Location

Independent Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1974 17

By BARBARA HOSMER

A cobweb-covered old calculator on a rusting stand had been pulled from the basement. "To lease" signs already covered second floor windows.

After nearly 60 years at its central Bridgeway location, Sausalito's city hall this week was on the move.

All week, with a day-and-a-half off for Christmas, city staff and workmen packed old oak furniture, modern desks, roll after roll of maps, cartons of official reports and ledgers into the city's blue public works trucks to cart them a mile north to the new city hall, old Central School on Litho Street.

The freshly-painted interior and light, airy offices will be a welcome change from the increasingly cramped and dim cubicles at 731 Bridgeway, agreed the staff, eager to settle into their long-awaited new quarters.

"But I, at least, will miss this place," admitted City Mgr. Thomas P. McKenzie. "It's nice and folksy to be on the main street."

However, the new offices will triple the former space and be more efficient, he said. And the department of public works, housed at 630 Nevada Street, can now join the other offices in the new location.

The city purchased the former school building, set on the hillside at Litho, Bonita and Bee streets, last year after voters approved a $350,000 bond issue, and extensively refurbished the first floor interior. The new city hall will occupy the entire main floor of the two-story stucco building except for the auditorium, now the new city library.

Despite a temporary stack of cartons and chairs, a visitor entering the main door off Litho Street has an immediate feeling of space from the broad hallways and high ceilings. Fresh white paint reflects light from tall windows and new ceiling light-fixtures throughout the main floor, and brick-red tweed carpeting lends warmth and a modern look to the nearly 50-year-old building.

City offices will operate from the south and west sides of the building, off a broad, L-shaped hall. Just inside the main entrance the city's financial business will be conducted from the former principal's office. Adjacent to it, city clerk and city manager's staffs have set up files and equipment in a sunny complex of rooms off the hallway.

Last Friday painters put finishing dabs of off-white and gray-green paint on door jambs and mouldings while electricians connected wires to new hanging lights in the city council chambers. This week vacuums whirred and electrical wires still snaked the halls while staff carried boxes and unpacked papers so that city offices will reopen smoothly Monday morning.

In a second complex of rooms on the west side, the planning department's maps and photos were ready for sorting and the building inspector's files were shoved into place. In public works, just beyond, a secretary typed at her desk while staff pushed furniture and stacked shelves around her.

A jumble of leatherette council chairs and workmen's ladders was piled in the new city council chambers at the north end of the hallway. There the councilmen will ponder the city's business from a curved, stained wood desk, both faced and flanked by members of the audience seated on folding chairs.

Six tall banks of windows line the north wall, a bright change from the windowless chambers on Bridgeway which the council occupied for some 50 years.

All remodeling, at a cost of some $150,000 has been done inside. The building's exterior tan stucco and red composition tile roof remain much as they did when children played in the fenced schoolyards below and behind the hillside building. Etched letters, "Sausalito Central School," still mark the main entrance.

The three large classrooms on the second floor remain empty, their fading green paint chipped and marked from years of use by Sausalito youngsters. Youth activities will continue to be housed in the basement, and the second floor may be used later for youth or senior citizens' programs, McKenzie said.

He added that the exterior grounds might later be improved with landscaping and removal of the chain-link fence around the yard.

Parking is available on Litho Street and behind the school, off Bee Street.

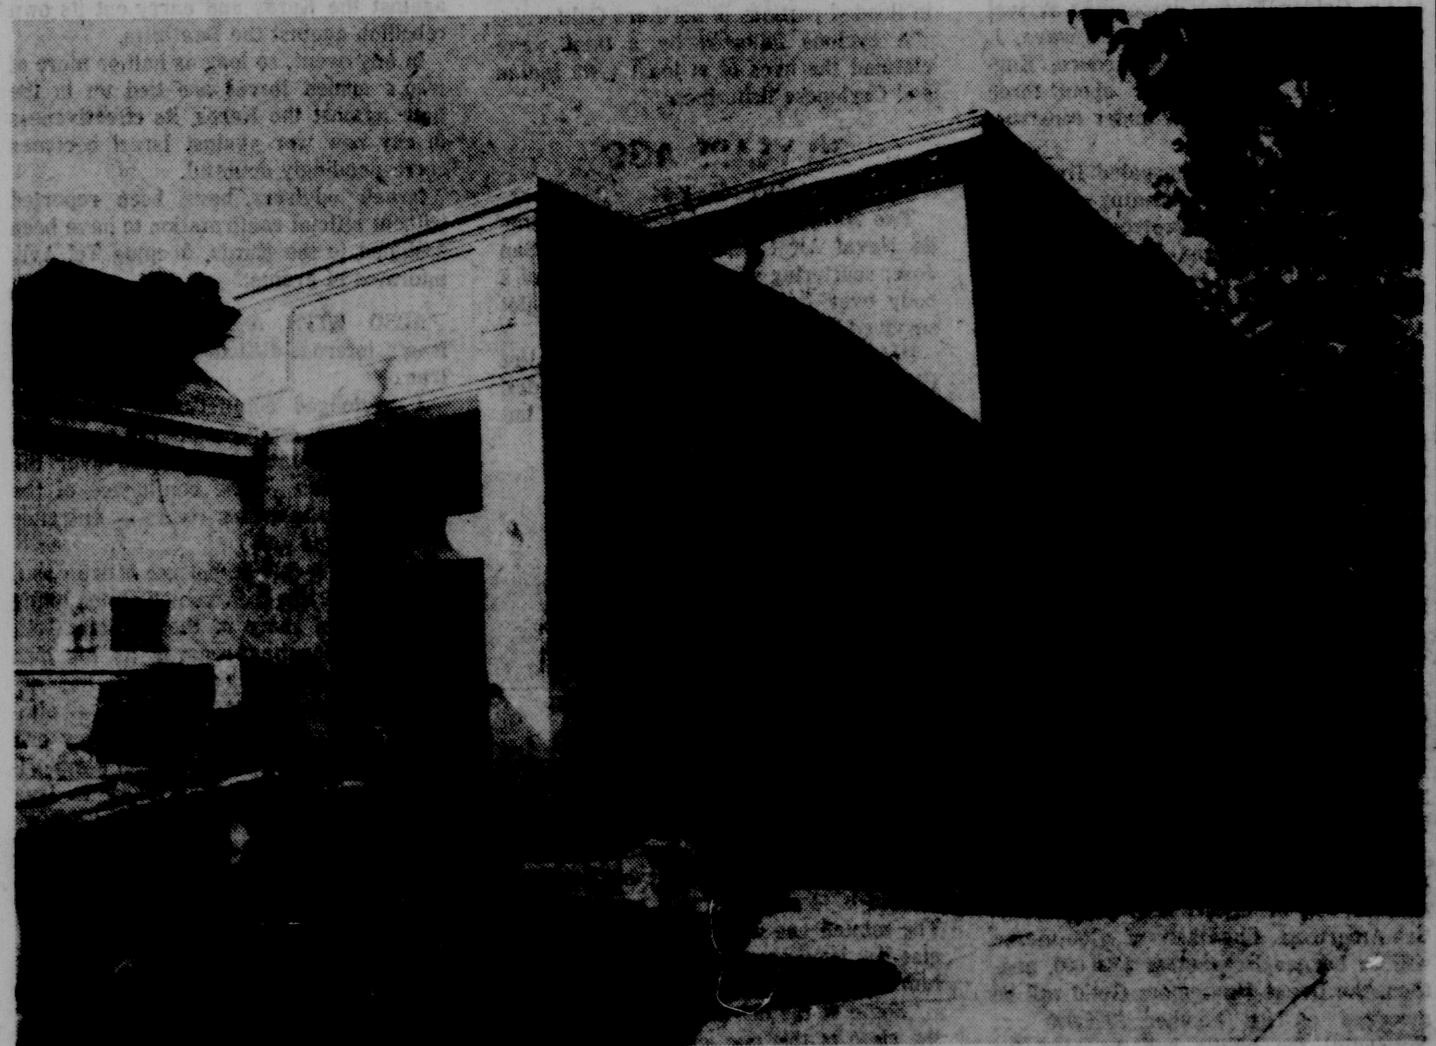
Digging into the basement and corners of the building at 729-731 Bridgeway this week hasn't turned up much long lost treasure, but City Clerk Janet Tracy did find an old metal star which was used, before the telephone era, to summon passing police by placing it in a window or waving it from a doorway.

The old building was erected by the Bank of Sausalito in the mid-1890s after a fire on July 4, 1893, roared through some 10 buildings along Bridgeway, then Water Street. But no one can pinpoint when city hall moved in — probably between 1915 and 1919, it has been estimated from a study of documents.

City offices earlier were located on Princess Street then moved to Bridgeway, across from the present Ondine restaurant, about 1912. It's next move was to the building vacated this week.

The city has leased the old city hall to the Tops and Trousers clothing firm, which plans to sublease the former library space upstairs and half of the main floor, McKenzie said.

When the dust of moving is cleared and fresh paint applied, customers soon may be trying on trousers in the space where for nearly 60 years the city's business echoed from the walls.



NEW CITY HALL — City of Sausalito workmen unload records and city furniture at the main Litho Street entrance to the new city hall, formerly Central School. All week city staff and workmen have unloaded and unpacked furniture, files, maps and documents so that the new city offices may open smoothly Monday at the new location above Caledonia between Litho and Bee streets. Area at left will house finance, city clerk and city's manager's offices. Section at right is the new city library.

Public Transit For Schools Looks Promising

Independent Journal

18 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

The Marin County Transit District board deserves commendation for commissioning a study of the feasibility of merging school bus operation with Marin's public transit system.

This is an idea that has been talked about for years. Its possibilities are obvious, but various factors have prevented anything being done about it.

When Marin was dependent on Greyhound Lines for public transportation, it was impossible to stimulate interest in combining school bus operation with the mass transit system. It did not fit in with Greyhound's operations.

When the Golden Gate Bridge District took over the buses, and the Marin County Transit District contracted with the bridge district for their intra-county operation, other initial problems put the matter of school transport on the "back burner." Now the time has come to look into it.

IT SEEMS obvious that it would be more economical to put school buses to use for other local transport throughout the day than to keep them idle while the pupils are in class. It also seems obvious that there is a waste in duplicating routes of school buses and Golden Gate Transit buses.

Furthermore, providing transportation to and from school by public carrier is not a new idea. It has worked for years in many places with local transit systems, both publicly and privately operated ones.

There are, of course, some problems, but they appear far from insurmountable.

ONE PROBLEM is that the heavy morning demand for pupil transportation occurs at the same time as the heavy demand for commuter transportation. This might be resolved by a change in the starting time of the school day.

Another problem arises from the fact that the Golden Gate Transit drivers, under their union contract, get much higher pay than school bus drivers. This might tend to wipe out what would appear to be obvious savings.

The principal obstacle, however, may lie in resistance by representatives of the schools who are to participate in the study. School districts have so long operated in a self-created vacuum that it may be found difficult to get them to make such adjustments (such as in starting time, for instance) as are needed to make the system work. We hope this does not prove true.

The transit district directors may have erred in including representatives only from high school and unified school districts. Pupil transportation is mostly for the elementary schools. Those elementary districts within Tamalpais High School District may not be very well represented by the high school district's staff members.

We look forward, however, to the consultants and committee producing a plan which not only will be feasible but also will improve in-county transportation and save money for us taxpayers.

Rockefeller Won't Elbow Ford Onto White House Sidelines

WASHINGTON — The impression persists that Vice President Nelson Rockefeller is likely to take over the presidency; or at least elbow Gerald Ford to the sidelines.

It isn't going to be that way.

Mr. Ford is not going to permit it.

Rockefeller does not intend to be a party to any such maneuver.

MR. FORD INTENDS to capitalize on every bit of Rockefeller's wide experience, talent and knowledge. That is the main reason he chose him, and he isn't so skittish about his own power and prestige as to waste his vice president's abilities by being afraid to use them.

Rockefeller is quite aware that, if he doesn't do his work the way the president wants it done, he won't be doing any work except as parliamentarian of the Senate.

That's the way Rockefeller intends it to be. He will not allow himself to be a source of divisiveness within the administration, and he will make sure that the vice president's office does not become a power center rival to that of the president.

Ford didn't select Rockefeller absent-mindedly. Rockefeller was his first choice from the start, and he selected him because he was convinced that his presence would strengthen the government.

This is why the president intends to see that Rockefeller is able to function at a high administrative and policy-formulating level in the administration.

BY LAW the vice president is vice chairman (the president is chairman) of the Domestic Council, and he will be its operating chairman most of the time. His role in domestic policy will somewhat parallel that of Secy. of State Henry Kissinger in foreign policy.

With this exception, Rockefeller will have less independence and latitude than Kissinger. The reason is that Ford is more at home in domestic affairs, and he will utilize Rockefeller to create and shape policy alternatives. But Ford's impact in domestic policy will be greater than in foreign policy.

This will be no strain for Rockefeller. It is exactly as it should be, and Rockefeller knows it.

FORD HAS TALKED about a "full partnership" for his vice president. That is stretching it. It has to be a subordinate partnership — but with wide-ranging opportunities much greater than those which have devolved on any vice president in history.

There is a good prospect it will work. Each wants to make it work well. They are personally and intellectually compatible. From different directions, each has moved toward the political center.

More Money For Schools — Not Better Education

By EARL G. WATERS

In the passing of tax legislation known as SB 90, an effort was made to provide an equality of school funds to meet the precepts set forth by the Serrano decision.

At the time, one of the arguments in support of the measure, which proved to be full of flaws, was that it "had the backing of the school people." Assemblyman (now Congressman) John Burton, who saw its shortcomings perhaps better than most others, promptly reported: "The school people be damned! They would support us robbing a bank if we gave them the money."

SO IT IS NOT surprising that the State Board of Education, backed by the staff of the department and "school people" generally, has announced support for a plan which would impose a $4 per $100 statewide property tax to provide $1.5 million in state revenues over the next five years for the public schools.

That, of course, would be new money over and above the $5.6 billion being poured into California schools currently by federal, state and local taxpayers. Taken along with anticipated inflation, it is predicted total local school spending will reach $11.7 billion by 1980.

Aside from the fact that since World War II, the amount of moneys given the public schools by the state and federal governments has increased beyond recognition with no compensating reductions to local property tax bills, the hard facts are that there has been no appreciable improvement in the quality of basic education being provided. There are many who contend that, to the contrary, the quality has deteriorated in direct ratio to the increased spending. Whether that is accurate or not, it remains that many graduating from high school, and even college, have difficulty with spelling, punctuation and reading to say nothing of simple addition, subtraction and multiplication.

It suggests that before there can be true equality between school districts one must look at something more than dollars spent. Specifically, how they are being spent.

AS KIRK WEST, the CalTax executive, recently stated: "It is unsound fiscal policy to separate the responsibilities of tax collecting and tax spending. Those responsible for imposing a tax, and those only, should have the responsibility for spending tax revenues. Money raised by others, such as revenue sharing funds, are not spent as scrupulously by local officials as funds which they must raise themselves through local taxes."

That philosophy can well be applied to the schools. If the state must assume the responsibility for raising the funds for their operations, the state must set down the rules for the spending. The largest item in any school budget is the payroll, swollen by exorbitant salaries for administrators and excessive staffs who never see the inside of a classroom. If a dollar measurement is to be used to conform to the Serrano ruling, the state will have to set the salaries and staffing patterns or the measurement is without meaning.

Compulsory education was a good idea and served a useful purpose in the days when, without it, little children would have been put to work in sweatshops and deprived of learning. But it has led down the road to mediocrity in education by reason of the lack of challenge to school officials. Governor Reagan had a right notion when he suggested the "voucher" system whereby parents would have some choice in which schools they would enroll their children.

"Easy, Mac! The price I quoted you was only the estimate."

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Sex has become one of the most discussed subjects of modern times. The Victorians pretended it did not exist; the moderns pretend that nothing else exists. — Fulton John Sheen.

Who will deny that a world in which the wealthy are powerful is still a better world than one in which only the already powerful can acquire wealth? — Friedrich A. Hayek.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON:

Industry's Cleanup And Four Corners Smoke

WASHINGTON — The vast media campaign mounted by polluting industries to keep the public record straightened in their favor is, of course, written off as a legitimate business expense. Sometimes it has the desired effect, and sometimes not. I leave that to you to judge in the case at hand.

About six weeks ago I wrote an unadmiring column about the Four Corners power plants, near where New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Utah come together. I included the widely accepted report that the only sign of man visible to astronauts circling far above had been the smoke from Four Corners. The original basis for that was a witness' statement before the Senate Interior Committee in 1971.

My repeating it aroused the Arizona Public Service Co., operator of the plants, whose president wrote me and others at some length to deny the report. What had been photographed from the satellite was not Four Corners smoke, he said, but contrails from jetliners whose paths merged over that area. He enclosed copious supporting evidence and called for a correction.

This is it. I elaborate because this is so typical of what happens as industry promotes its squeaky-clean image in state after state.

MY RESEARCH PRODUCES no conclusive proof that the cloud in question was from Four Corners. Probably it was not, although sources I have consulted say it is peculiar that the only place in the world where such apparent contrails were spotted was in that vicinity.

If it was not Four Corners smoke, I am happy to correct the record.

But I must admit I am equally happy to add to it some of the other fruits of this research. My most technically informed source turned out to be Dr. John Bartlit, state chairman of New Mexico Citizens for Clean Air and Water, who also is a chemical engineer at the Los Alamos laboratory.

His records show that at its worst period the Four Corners complex was emitting some 350 tons of fly ash a day, which is more than the entire cities of New York (140 tons) and Los Angeles (110) together. Now that has been cut to about 100 and eventually should be down to about 10 tons a day.

Four Corners puts out about 300 tons a day of sulfur dioxide, which compares to about 250 a day for Los Angeles. It was putting out about 240 tons of nitrogen dioxide a day, compared to about 1,000, mostly from automobiles, in Los Angeles.

The drastic cut in fly ash and the slight lowering so far of nitrogen dioxide both were made under intense public pressure. New state regulations demand a heavy reduction in sulfur dioxide.

FROM THE START, the industry has insisted that controls were too expensive and never could be adequately effective. The 10-ton level in prospect is about 10 times less than the company said was possible. Yet now the company's president points to its cleanup progress with pride, as if it were all voluntary public service.

Bartlit states that ash from Four Corners was detected repeatedly in the smog over the Rio Grande Valley near Los Alamos, 140 miles away. Citizens' groups have complained about it in Durango, Colo., and Taos and Santa Fe, N. M., among other widely scattered communities.

All this is just from Four Corners. And, as I wrote before, Mr. Ford's decision to push energy production rather than conservation means that tomorrow's America will have Four Corners times infinity.

'Gold-Backed' Bonds Abrogated Before

Quote from the Wall Street Journal, 20 Dec. "Treasury Secy. William Simon said the government hasn't ruled out the possibility of gold-backed bonds paying a nominal interest if demand by Americans for gold next year greatly exceeds projections."

Prior to FDR in 1934, as some of us will remember, United States bonds contained a gold clause saying (approximately): "payable in gold dollars at their present weight and fineness." The Roosevelt administration, backed by a subservient Congress and a weak-kneed Supreme Court, unilaterally abrogated this gold clause.

Prior to 1968, the U. S. dollar was at least nominally by law backed by a percentage of gold. When the shoe pinched, Lyndon Johnson's Congress repealed the law backing the dollar with gold.

Mr. Simon apparently refuses to admit that you "can't fool all the people all the time." Or — maybe we are that dumb.

Let Citizens Provide Redevelopment Ideas

As a resident of San Rafael, I followed your series of interviews with merchants and property owners in the downtown area with great interest.

The general consensus seems to be that a plan for a new shopping center would be improper as the county has a generous share of these at present. An alternative seems to be an upgrading of the buildings and streets involved.

Perhaps the Independent-Journal could take the lead in helping to organize a citizens advisory group which could include property owners, merchants and business people to whom the area is important. Anyone walking in downtown San Rafael will find many areas for improvement. Any redevelopment plan chosen for the city would be enhanced and perhaps less costly in the long run.

Personally, I would like to see sidewalk trees or shrubs, and most importantly, clean streets. The alleyway beside the Independent-Journal Building would make a wonderful mall lined with small shops in the manner of Maiden Lane in San Francisco. The large black facade of a building on that throughway would be a fine place for a mural done by local artists. Some Victorian bits of architecture still abide in the business district. Could these not be enhanced, rather than disguised?

These are small ideas, admittedly, and the problem is large. However, I feel that attention to small details will help to keep our city a vital part of Marin County for years to come.

Golden Hinde Voyage Money-Making Rip-Off

It is with considerable interest that I read your paper concerning the activities of the Golden Hinde's impending arrival in California from the builder's ways, J. F. Hinks and Sons, of Appledore, England, where I visited her about three years ago when she was under construction.

However, what is concealed from the Independent-Journal's reading public is the fact that the ship's entrepreneur, Art Blum, a businessman and speculator, along with Robert Powers, co-owner of Nut Tree Inn near Davis, Calif., have effected a taxpayers' grant of some $300,000 from the lame-duck governor of this state, namely, Ronald Reagan.

This amount that the taxpayer is stuck for could be used for better purpose. Why for a future glorious celebration of Drake, the English pirate, who travelled around the globe, who murdered 200 of his crew at Tierra Del Fuego using Magellan's own gibbet, and, then sank four of Drake's own English fleet?

To celebrate, I oppose the 400th anniversary of his alleged discovery of New Albion (California), allegedly in Marin County. Whereas, the treaties between England and the Yankees in 1868 recognized Drake's discovery at or near the 38th parallel, at the south of the Rogue River of Oregon . . .

Coming back, this magnificent sum is merely the beginning of the rip-off, the amount will be insufficient. So, the British-American Chamber of Commerce will be begged for another $300,000, and, then, the Drake Navigators Guild will be mooched on for another $300,000 . . . Naturally, the public will be bled for another $100,000 contribution fund. Then too, there is the medallion racket upcoming next!

In conclusion, inasmuch as the Bank of England via Elizabeth I profited by some $5 million in 1580, I say, let Elisa foot the bill in full for the New Albion baloney.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Iraq's 15-Year War Adds To Mideast Unrest

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Less publicized than the Arab-Israeli conflict, but with possible far-reaching consequences, is a merciless war being waged in the rugged mountains dividing Iraq from Syria, Turkey and Iran.

Except for a three-year truce ending last March, it is a war which has been fought off and on for the last 15 years between the Iraqi government and some Kurdish tribesmen demanding autonomy from Baghdad.

ON THE ONE HAND, the Iraqi fight with Soviet-supplied arms, including Mig-21 fighter bombers and some more advanced Mig 23s which are said to be piloted by Russian airmen.

On the other, the Kurds employ weapons reportedly supplied by Iran, some of them drawn presumably from military stores sold to Iran by the United States.

Admitting for the first time the loss of two of her aircraft over northern Iraq, the Baghdad government said both aircraft were hit by American-made surface-to-air Hawk missiles.

The Russians have accused Turkey also of aiding the Kurds, a charge sharply denied by the Turks.

THE STAKES INVOLVED reach considerably beyond the borders of Iraq.

A victory for the Kurds almost certainly would mean the fall of the Baathist government in Baghdad. The Baathists espouse a vague philosophy which they describe as Arab socialism, and have been as harsh against their Arab critics as against the Kurds.

They also have been the hardest of the hardliners against Israel and have become the closest allies of the Soviet Union in the Middle East.

Even should the war against the Kurds remain indecisive, there remains the possibility the Iraqi army may become weary of taking 10-to-one casualties against the Kurds and carry out its own rebellion against the Baathists.

In any event, so long as half or more of Iraq's armed forces are tied up in the fight against the Kurds, its effectiveness in any new war against Israel becomes correspondingly doubtful.

Israeli advisers have been reported without official confirmation to have been assigned to the Kurds, keeping Tel Aviv informed of events.

ALSO WITH A MAJOR interest in Iraq's internal difficulties is the shah of Iran.

A prolonged conflict with the Kurds dampens any enthusiasm Iraq may have for a confrontation with Iran over the Shatt al Arab — the confluence of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers — entrance to the Persian gulf.

It also prevents Soviet use of Iraq as a springboard into the Arab oil states lining the southern shore of the Persian Gulf, an area the shah regards as his own sphere of influence.

A final note about the Kurds — altogether, in Iraq, Iran, Syria, Turkey and the Soviet Union, they make up a minority of about 12 million. Victory in Iraq could lead to renewed demands for an independent Kurdestan carved out of those five states.

"This writing is going to be mighty tough with no Congress to pick on. I joke about 'em, but you know, at heart I really like the people. They are all right. If one wants to do right, our political system is so arranged that he can't do it. The minute one wants to do what no one else has been accustomed to do, they call him an Anarchist.

"Some of the old-timers stepped out at the close of this one and that was kinder sad in a way. It must be a fascinating game with those old fellows and it's tough to have to bow out of the picture, and mighty few retire rich, so there must be a lot of honesty among them than we give them credit for.

Role Found For Rocky: Man Who Takes Blame

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Few Americans would go so far as to look back on the Vietnam War as the good old days. Yet it must be acknowledged that the war served one useful role that is now sorely missed.

It gave us something to blame things on.

Economists blamed it for the burgeoning inflation. College students blamed it for their bad grades. Neurotics blamed their hangups on it.

Crime, drug abuse, family breakups, governmental privacy invasions, long hair — there was scarcely anything in the entire spectrum of national ills that didn't get blamed on the Vietnam War.

THE IMPORTANCE of having a national blame assimilator can hardly be exaggerated.

There's a warm sense of security in knowing where the trouble lies. Or believing you do.

Take it away and people become apprehensive and confused. Not being certain who or what to blame, they throw blame wildly, this way and that. Suspicions and animosities intensify.

For a time after the Vietnam War ended, Watergate took up the slack. Problems weren't being solved because everyone was preoccupied with Watergate, we told ourselves.

Now that is gone, too, and we stand naked and alone, with nobody to blame but Arab oil producers and the ubiquitous middlemen who somehow fail to measure up.

How comforting it would be if we had the Vietnam War to blame for the current economic nosedive!

Since any move to reopen the war is likely to be misunderstood, we are forced to look elsewhere for an acceptable blame receptacle.

IN THAT REGARD, perhaps you have noticed that the United States has a brand new Vice president.

The question of what to do with the vice president is always a vexing one, and is unlikely to be less so in the case of Nelson Rockefeller. Unless...

Well, admittedly it's a long shot, but wouldn't it be great if someone could figure out a way for him to get blamed for everything? The benefits would be two-fold.

First, it would provide the centralized blame receiving station so badly needed at this time. And, second, it would give the vice president, at last, a useful function in our scheme of things.

I'll confess I don't know how Rockefeller could be transformed into a credible scapegoat. But certainly he is the only vice president in recent times who comes anywhere near having the stature to replace Vietnam as our national blame catcher.

And if sooething doesn't turn up soon we'll be in danger of having nothing to blame but ourselves.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Traveling, Automobile Costs Now Recognized By Taxmakers

The big news in traveling expenses and automobile expense is that the I.R.S. finally recognized the realities of life and increased the rates for 1974 as follows:

TRAVELING EXPENSES; REIMBURSEMENTS OR PER DIEM AND MILEAGE ALLOWANCES.

Reimbursement arrangements or per diem allowances for travel away from home not exceeding $44 per day, or the maximum authorized to be paid by the Federal Government in the locality in which the travel is performed, and a mileage allowance not exceeding 15 cents per mile for transportation paid by employers to employees will be regarded as satisfying substantiation and adequate accounting requirements.

AUTOMOBILE EXPENSES; STANDARD MILEAGE RATE; EMPLOYEES AND SELF-EMPLOYED.

The standard mileage rate for the optional simplified method of computing deductible costs in operating passenger automobiles for business purposes is 15 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles and 10 cents per mile for any excess over 15,000 miles.

The standard mileage rate for computing the cost of operating an automobile in connection with rendering gratuitous services to a charitable organization or for transportation for medical care is 7 cent per mile.

The standard mileage rate for computing deductible costs in operating a passenger automobile in connection with moving to a new principal place of work is 7 cents per mile.

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Marin County will receive $153,605 and Sonoma County $231,536 in December allocations of state highway users taxes, the state controller's office has announced.

Cities and their shares of disbursements are: Belvedere, $2,359; Corte Madera, $6,918; Cotati, $2,587; Fairfax, $6,176; Larkspur, $9,731; Mill Valley, $10,391; Novato, $27,018; Petaluma, $24,481; Rohnert Park, $9,290; Ross, $2,467; San Anselmo, $10,315; San Rafael, $34,086; Sausalito, $5,052, and Tiburon, $5,527.

Statewide, the distribution for this month is $63 million in taxes derived from gasoline and diesel fuel taxes.

Appeal Eyed On Welfare For Aliens

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Welfare officials said yesterday the state will appeal an expected Superior Court injunction clearing the way for illegal aliens to receive welfare benefits.

The injunction will come from Sacramento Superior Court Judge Irving Perluss based on his opinion that the state must halt procedures now in use to verify an alien's statement that he is in California legally.

Judge Perluss said benefits cannot be denied or terminated because the U.S. Department of Immigration and Naturalization informs California that no records exist on the alien's legal status.

The judge said that unless an alien is under deportation orders, he is entitled to welfare aid without showing proof of his legal entry into the country.

Hearings will be held before Judge Perluss on the form the injunction will take and when it will be issued.

The decision to issue the injunction came in a class-action suit filed by a group of Mexican citizens in the San Diego area who had been denied welfare benefits by the state.

Under existing state procedures aliens who have no proof of their legal status are required to fill out forms which are forwarded to the federal government. Welfare assistance can be denied if the form is returned stating no records exist of the applicant.

Perluss said that if the alien denies the existence of a deportation order and the lack of federal records does not refute the statement, then the alien qualifies for welfare aid.

Jerold Prod, deputy director of the department of benefits payments, said the judge's decision "is tantamount to the presumption that the alien is here legally." He added the ruling equates the lack of a deportion order with legality.

Prod said it would be difficult to measure the cost of the decision on welfare assistance programs run by county governments under the supervision of the state.

Public Notice

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Directors of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District will conduct a public hearing on Wednesday, February 5, 1975, at 10:30 a.m., in the Board Room, Seventh Floor, at the District's Offices, 939 Ellis Street, San Francisco, California, to consider the adoption of proposed amendments to the District's Regulation 2, Division 13 relating to permit requirements. The proposed amendments relate to the requirement of permits for certain direct sources of air pollution, and to the requirement of permits prior to the construction or modification of "complex" or "indirect" sources of air pollution as defined therein. Additionally the proposed amendments clarify the ability of the Air Pollution Control Officer to impose permit conditions and make other related changes.

Copies of the proposed amendments are available for public inspection, during regular business hour, at the offices of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, 939 Ellis Street, San Francisco, California 94109. Additional amendments may be made by the Board during its consideration of the proposed amendments.

At the above hearing, the Board will hear any persons who may wish to present themselves on the above described subject. The Board may continue or adjourn the hearing from time to time or from place to place to serve the purposes of the hearing, the convenience of the Board, or of persons appearing or who may wish to appear before it.

Stymied By Congress, U.S. Seeks Indirect Viet Funnel

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States, unable to secure full congressional backing for increased aid to South Vietnam, has tried to find indirect ways to finance the Saigon regime, diplomatic sources said today.

The United States has been successful in funneling some funds to South Vietnam through agencies such as the United Nations, according to sources in Saigon.

But the United States recently failed for the second straight year to get the World Bank's International Development Association to grant a $50 million loan that would have been financed by the United States.

"The clear message that (Secretary of State) Henry Kissinger has carried in his travels to European capitals is that he is trying to get aid to Vietnam through third party channels," said a Western diplomat.

"He has not been altogether successful."

Congress approved $449 million in economic aid to South Vietnam for the fiscal year which ends next June 30, an increase of $50 million from the preceding year.

But the grant was far below the $750 million Washington said was necessary to get the Vietnamese economy on the road to self-sufficiency.

A year ago American efforts to get the World Bank loan were stymied when Congress refused to provide a $1.5 billion replenishment for the International Development Association.

This year they agreed to give the bank most of that amount but the loan was scuttled again at a meeting of aid-giving nations in Paris last October.

Well-informed diplomatic sources said that Sweden, long a foe of American involvement in Vietnam, led the fight against the loan.

The United Nations Development Program, however, started operations in South Vietnam following the 1973 cease-fire. To date the program has put $10 million into the country and the figure is expected to reach another $25 million before 1980.

Another agency to which the United States is a leading contributor, the Asian Development Bank, has put close to $30 million into South Vietnam this year.

Most recently, the ADB granted a $7.2 million dollar interest-free loan to the Saigon government out of newly created "special funds" to which Japan donated $118 million and the United States $50 million.

Kidnaped Boy Found Wandering In Remote Big Cypress Swamp

NAPLES, Fla. (UPI) — For six days, the parents of 10-year-old Christopher Carrier pleaded in vain for kidnapers to return their son. Christmas Day came and went, and still there was no word.

Last night, 75 miles from the Coral Gables, Fla., home of attorney and Mrs. Hugh Carrier, Ron Jones was hunting along a dirt road in the heart of the remote Big Cypress Swamp, and found the youth — battered but still alive.

Chris was in a hospital today, listed in fair to good condition with an injured left eye, possible skull fracture and cuts and bruises. "He was rational and he had been fed," said a hospital spokesman. "But the injury to the left eye had gone untreated for several days."

Police said they still did not know the identity of his kidnaper or kidnapers, or even a motive for Chris' abduction from his home Dec. 20.

Sources said sheriff's deputies and Miami area police had only a description of the car used in the kidnaping and had launched a search.

The parents flew to this Florida west coast community by chartered plane. The hospital spokesman said the boy would be taken to Miami's Palmer Bascom Eye Institute by ambulance today.

The youth was last seen by a neighbor last Friday as he got off a bus returning him from a party at his private school. He was carrying a jacket and an envelope.

Coral Gables detectives said at the time he could have been picked up by someone he knew. They said if it had been a stranger, the boy's belongings would have been found scattered around the area.

The day after the kidnaping, relatives of the family anounced a $10,000 reward for information leading to the boy. His father made a tearful plea to the kidnaper on television Christmas Eve with no results.

The family reported at that time they had received ransom demands, but said they did not believe they came from the kidnapers. Carrier said the callers could provide little information about the boy and could offer no proof they were holding him.

Maddox Flays Carter As 'Radical Leftist'

ATLANTA (UPI) — Georgia Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox called Gov. Jimmy Carter "a radical leftist" and "a socialist" today, and said he would go anywhere in the country to combat Carter's bid for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

"He is to me a cover-up artist and self-serving professional politican whose actions and ideas would make 'the plumbers' and those who planned, carried out and covered up Watergate look like a bunch of beginners," Maddox said. "It is my sincere hope that the American people would see through the fakery of Jimmy Carter.

"Personally, I stand ready to travel to any part of America to expose to the American people the truth about Jimmy Carter," Maddox said in a statement prepared for a news conference.

Maddox, who was governor from 1967-71 but was trounced by Gov.-elect George Busbee last October in a bid to succeed Carter, renewed his pledge to run for president if Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace is unable to run as expected.

Maddox endorsed Wallace as "the American most likely to be elected the next president of the United States."

Maddox said that in announcing for president Dec. 12, Carter told newsmen he would count on Georgia supporters for campaign funds — especially donations expected from wealthy Georgians he has appointed to public office.

"This, in my opinion, is the same kind of rotten and unethical thinking and action that brought disgrace and shame to the White House," said Maddox. He said Carter's statement tells his appointees, "The time for the payoff is at hand."

Carter's office said he was out of town and would have no response to the Maddox statement. An aide said the governor had made a poor choice of words in answering a newsman's question at his announcement press conference, and did not intend to "shake down" his appointees.

"It is my sincere belief that Jimmy Carter is a radical leftist, and not just a liberal by Georgia or other standards," said Maddox. "I also believe that he could best be classified as a socialist, rather than a Democrat."

Ford Urged To Sign Milk Support Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tony Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union, today urged President Ford to sign a bill to raise the government support price for manufacturing grade milk.

The bill, which administration officials opposed, was passed shortly before Congress adjourned. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said he advised Ford to veto it.

Dechant said in a letter made public today that unless Ford approves the bill, dairy farmers will be forced to cut milk production to escape a squeeze caused by high feed costs. That could lead to "a potential nutritional disaster for the American people," the farm leader said.

"Prices farmers are getting for milk are far below the cost of production ... if consumer demand returns to normal and off-farm employment opportunities for dairy farmers improve, there is likely to be an acute milk and dairy products shortage," Dechant added.

The measure would raise supports for manufacturing milk, used in making butter, cheese and similar products, to about $7.69 a hundred pounds immediately with further increases coming quarterly through March of 1976. The hike from the current $6.57 a hundredweight support would be necessary because the bill would set a new floor of 85 per cent of the "fair earning power" parity price under milk supports.

Study Finds Earth Shoes Mixed Blessing For Feet

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) -As the Earth shoe craze sweeps the nation, a California Podriatric Medical Center study suggested yesterday that the shoes are good for 70 per cent of the population — and bad for the rest.

The independent study was funded by Kalso Systemet Inc., maker of the shoe whose busy outlets have sprung up in 70 cities in four years.

Earth shoes, whose form fitting design shocks the eye, are distinguished by "negative heels." The heels are a half-inch lower than the ball of the foot.

Dr. Paul Scherer of the podriatric center said patients with very high arches or with severe flat feet cannot tolerate Earth shoes.

The shoes also can be harmful to some diabetics with the potential of developing ulcers on the bottoms of their feet, he said.

But, on the basis of a study of 157 men and women, he said 70 per cent will find the shoes allow them to walk better. He said the shoes reduce the symptoms of several of the most common foot problems.

Among these are hammer toes, bunions on the big and little toes, and calluses on the ball of the foot.

"The most significant contribution of the Earth shoe is that it is as wide as the foot and relieves many symptoms associated with pressure on the foot,"he said. "It is the first shoe designed to fit the foot, and not the eye."

Almost everybody's first two weeks in the shoes is a bit rocky, he said, as they tend to lean backwards and their calf muscles tighten.

Earth shoes were conceived in 1969 by Anne Kalso, a Danish costume designer and yoga expert. She noticed sandprints of primitive peoples in which the heels sunk lower than the toes, and designed shoes intended to promote straighter spines.

Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources.

San Francisco Bay Area: Showers likely tonight and tomorrow morning then becoming partly cloudy tomorrow afternoon. Highs in the 50s. Lows in the 40s. Southerly winds shifting to westerly 15-30 m.p.h. tonight. Chance of rain 70 per cent tonight and 60 per cent tomorrow.

Sierra Nevada: Travelers advisory. Rain or snow spreading over the area by tonight and continuing off and on through tomorrow. Decreasing in the north by tomorrow afternoon. Local gale force winds with visibility restricted in blowing and drifting snow. Snow level lowering to near 3000 feet in the north tonight and near 500 feet in the south.

Napa and Sonoma Valleys: Showers likely tonight and tomorrow morning then partly cloudy tomorrow afternoon. Low tonight high tomorrow at Santa Rosa 43 and 54. Southerly wind increasing to 20-30 m.p.h. today.

Socialists Begin Conclave Today

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Socialists from across the country began arriving for a five-day convention today with a decision on whether the FBI will be restrained from monitoring the gathering still unresolved.

U. S. District Judge Thomas P. Griesa banned surveillance of the Young Socialists Alliance Dec. 13, but the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York Tuesday overturned Griesa's order and said agents could watch the meeting.

The Socialists took the appeals ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court and Justice Thurgood Marshall agreed yesterday to conduct a closed hearing on the matter.

U.S. Steel Handed Pollution Ultimatum

HAMMOND, Ind. (UPI) — U.S. District Court Judge Allen Sharp decided he did not want pollution o his conscience. He told U.S. Steel Corp. it can continue operation of its Gary, Ind., open hearth shop open for up to 90 days by paying $2,300 a day in fines.

Those were the take-it-or-leave-it conditions Sharp set for the firm to continue operating the open hearth until March 31 — three months beyond the original Dec. 31 court-imposed deadline for closing it down.

"I am not at all impressed with the good faith with which U.S. Steel comes into this court today," Sharp said yesterday. "I do not want it on my conscience that I have been a party to the extended pollution of the air in the environs of Gary, Ind."

Thomas Ferrall of U.S. Steel said the matter of the daily fine was "under advisement" and that a decision on whether to shut down the plant by next Tuesday would be coming soon.

The company said 2,500 workers would be idled at U.S. Steel and several thousand others would be laid off in related industries by the closing of the shop — actually a row of 10 open hearth furnaces.

Gary Mayor Richard G. Hatcher and Indiana Gov. Otis R. Bowen said the loss of that many jobs would be an economic disaster.

"I assume those people were aware of the economic implications," said Sharp, who said U.S. Steel was seeking "an excuse to get out of a deal properly and openly made."

The Environmental Protection Agency two years ago issued an administrative order instructing U.S. Steel to shut down certain facilities. The company appealed the order to the U.S. District Court, touching off the lengthy litigation.

John R. Wilks, U.S. attorney for Northern Indiana, asked that the company be fined $5,000 a day.

"If they want to stay open and produce steel, they have to pay a substantial price as on incentive to get their new steel making systems operating," Wilks said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Nursing Home Is Many Times The Only Solution To Problem

"Sometime ago you told one of your readers what to look for when trying to find the best nursing home for an elderly parent. Much of what you said was true but even the most ideal nursing home is no substitute for living at home with the family. It is even better when the person can stay in his or her own home or apartment with a housekeeper, if necessary. The older person avoids becoming a vegetable and does not seem to deteriorate so rapidly."

I agree with you, but what you suggest is not always possible, either financially or emotionally. Another consideration that you may have overlooked is the size of the home. The most devoted son or daughter may not hve the room to take in a parent.

I said that a family often opts for nursing home care when there is no other solution. Even when both parents are alive, one might be crippled with arthritis and the other, too frail to help. Perhaps they can't afford a housekeeper.

IN THIS case, I see nothing wrong with a community-type nursing home, in which people from the area run it or have a close relationship with those who do. Responsible, civic-minded people could be on the board of directors; others could volunteer their services to cheer up the patients. Surroundings such as these are conducive to producing a healthy outlook in an elderly individual and helping him retain his identity by remaining an active member of the community.

Many senior citizen communities not only do this, but also are equipped to handle the rehabilitation needs of the patients. And although some deterioration is bound to occur as a person grows older, it might be delayed by putting him in a proper setting.

THE IDEAL nursing home must offer many different forms of therapy, social activities and emotional support. It should be centrally located and where "the action is." What better way to spend a day than people-watching?

INDIGESTION

REPLY

Yes, especially when dropsy exists, and the liver and other intestinal organs are congested. Pain from the heart also may extend down into the upper abdomen, where it is easily mistaken for indigestion. You ought to call this symptom to the attention of your physician because it should be investigated.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Neighbor Charged In 5 Murders

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (UPI) — A local building company employee was charged today with five counts of murder and one of rape in the slayings of a Henry County woman and her four young children yesterday.

County Sheriff C. P. Witt told a news conference the 34-year old suspect, Eddy Lee Thomas, had not admitted killing Mrs. James Aliff and her four children. Thomas was employed at Nationwide Homes in Martinsville where the husband of the slain woman also works, Witt said.

He was held under bond of $100,000. No trial date has been set, Witt said.

The suspect was arrested at his home about a quarter mile from the victims' residence at 10 p.m. yesterday. Police announced his arrest early today.

Aliff discovered his wife's body yesterday afternoon in the bedroom of their rural one-story home in the Old Preston community when he returned from work at the modular home-building firm. Witt said Mrs. Aliff had been raped, choked and stabbed to death.

When Aliff couldn't find his four children, the sheriff's spokesman said, he called the sheriff's office. Deputies, aided by one of Aliff's neighbors, found the bodies of the four children, ages 2 to 10, in a wooded ravine about 100 yards from the Aliff home. Each had been shot once in the head with a small caliber weapon, possibly a .22 caliber, the spokesman said.

Federal Outlay $2.7 Billion High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal budget dipped $2.7 billion in the red in November.

The Treasury Department reported yesterday that between July 1 and the end of November, the government has spent $11.1 billion more than it has collected. Federal collections in November totaled $22.3 billion, while spending was $25 billion.

The November deficit was less than the $6.8 billion deficit in October, but higher than the $1.9 billion deficit for November, 1973.

Betty Ford's Resolution

VAIL, COLO. (UPI) — First Lady Betty Ford has not yet made any New Year's resolutions.

"I don't like to make them because I know I'll break them," she said.

Then, as an afterthought, Mrs. Ford said that if she did make a New Year's resolution it would be to "try to think before I speak." The First Lady's views on the subject were relayed by Sheila Rabb Weidenfeld, her press secretary.

Hackman Named As Best Actor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gene Hackman yesterday was hailed as the best actor of 1974 and Gena Rowlands the best actress in listings published by the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures.

Hackman was honored for his performance in "The Conversation," judged best picture of the year. Miss Rowland was cited for her work in "A Woman Under the Influence."

Valerie Perrine was chosen as best supporting actress for "Lenny" and Holger Lowenadler as best supporting actor for "Lacombe, Lucien." Directing laurels went to Francis Ford Coppola for "The Conversation."

In addition to the Coppola film, the following English-language films made the board's 10-best list: "Murder on the Orient Express," "Chinatown," "The Last Detail," "Harry and Tonto," "A Woman Under the Influence," "Thieves Like Us," "Lenny," "Daisy Miller" and "The Three Musketeers."

A five-best list of foreign-language films ranked "Amarcord" first, followed by "Lacoobe, Lucien," "Scenes from a Marriage," "The Phantom of Liberte" and "The Pedestrian."

Rockefellers In San Juan

"Mrs. Rockefeller has only recently undergone surgery and both the Rockefellers were looking forward to a quiet vacation," he said.

77-Year-Old In Icy Plunge

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UPI) — Chief Running Horse, 77, who says he is a direct descendant of Chief Sitting Bull, yesterday took his traditional Christmas season dip into the chilly waters of Long Island Sound.

He has been making the plunge since 1903, when he and a group of like-minded men founded the "Iceberg Athletic Club" at Conney Island in New York City.

Smothers Brothers Back On TV

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The political climate isn't right and network attitudes aren't all they could be, but the Smothers Brothers are returning to a weekly television show soon, nonetheless.

"There's much less controversy these days," said brother Dick, the straightman of the two. "There's no civil rights movement, no Vietnam War. No Lyndon Johnson. Not even a Nixon.

"Satire has moved from social issues to economics, government, oil embargoes. Viewers are less receptive to hearing the truth with humor. People don't really want to hear a lot of things."

"It's getting so what you don't say has more emphasis than what you do say," Tom explained. "You leave big holes in a scene or thought and let the viewers fill in the colors. We have to be implicit, not explicit. It's a matter of personal communication."

The Smothers return to the air Jan. 13 on NBC. They were last seen in a regular series in 1969 when CBS fired them.

"We don't think it's accidental that we were kicked out shortly after Nixon took office," said Tom.

At the time of their uncoupling from CBS the Smothers boys were zapping Nixon on almost every show. But they had control of artistic content and all the network could do was wring its hands.

"This time we don't have creative control," Tom said. "And the image of bad little boys is still with us when it comes to network executives. So NBC has very tight control of writers, directors, material and guests.

"We will be confined to a certain form, which is very difficult for a couple of free spirits."

Both Tom and Dick laughed, enjoying, to a point, their mixed feeling of elation at returning to the air and frustration attoeing the mark for producer Joe Hamilton, husband of Carol Burnett who also produces his wife's tremendously popular comedy series.

"There's probably more freedom to deal with sex and violence than we had at CBS," Dick said. "But we've never done much comedy with either subject."

The Smothers will replace "Born Free" in the NBC schedule.

After the boys completed taping of the first show Dick said, "That was traumatic. I felt if we could do it next week it would be much better."

"Everyone is new on the show, so we're trying to get to know one another," said Dick. "It's a matter of feeling around for the rightformat."

Tom and Dick appear to be more relaxed than in previous years. They are old professionals now and confident they will be around longer than their 13-week contract calls for.

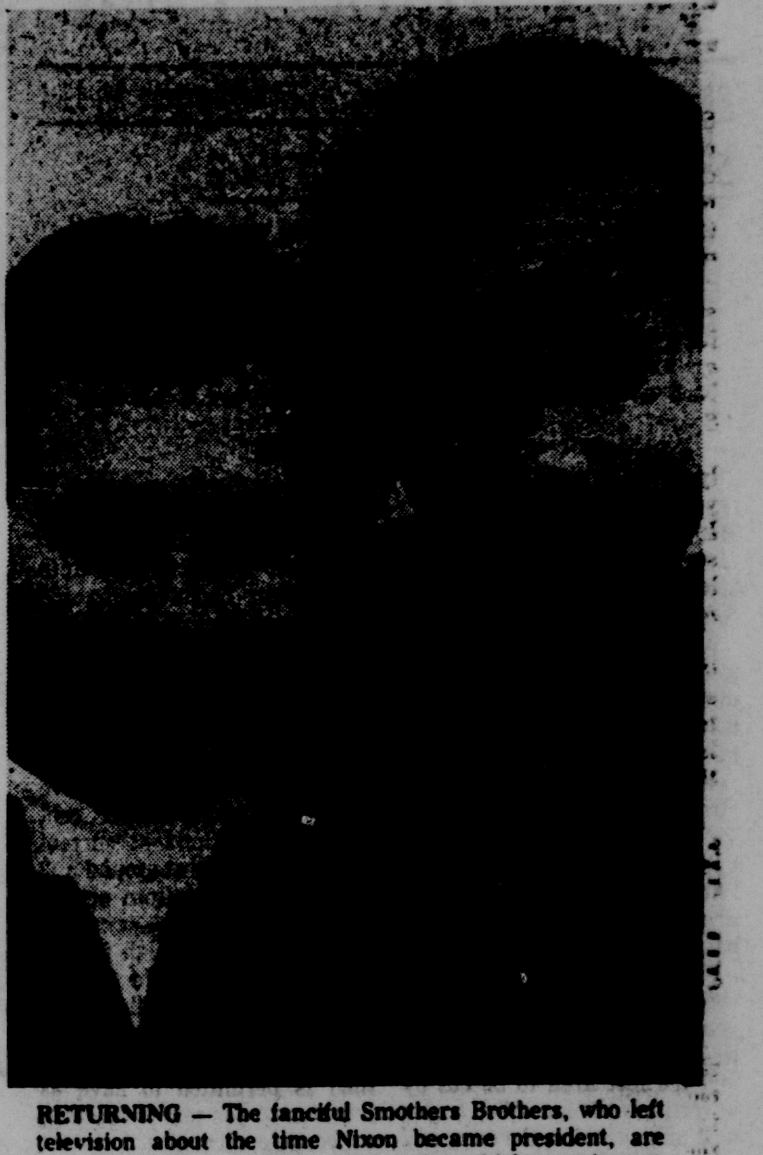
Bit Parts: Bob Hope will join Mitzi Gaynor's special March 24 as part of her million dollar male chorus ... Alan J. Pakula will direct "All The President's Men" starring Robert Redford and Dustin Hoffman ... Joanne Dru returns to television with a guest shot on "Marcus Welby, M.D."



RETURNING — The fanciful Smothers Brothers, who left television about the time Nixon became president, are returning to the air with a new series which premiers on Jan. 13.

Japanese Aroused Over Politicians' Hanky Panky

TOKYO (AP) — A Japan which once took financial hanky panky among its politicians somewhat for granted has suddenly become aroused over the cases of two men, unrelated, named Tanaka.

As a consequence, the Japanese public is being treated to the unusual spectacle of Cabinet ministers being grilled about the sources of their wealth and their ties to big business.

The more prominent of the Tanakas, Kakuei, 56, quit as prime minister early in December in a swirl of suspicion over how he accumulated his large private fortune.

A poor boy who clawed his way to the top, his vision of the future Japan encompassed the virtual renovation of its industrial and population structure.

His plans for moving people and factories from the teeming Pacific coast to more thinly settled inland areas won initial applause which quickly turned sour when they led to speculation.

An advocate of expansion in an era of reduced growth ushered in by the Arab oil squeeze, Tanaka's once-high popularity swiftly plummeted. His response was to use money in extraordinary dollops in a vain effort to restore his image.

Though no major wrongdoing has been proven, public pressures forced him to step down in favor of Take Miki, 67.

As a reform-minded politician promising clean government, Miki has indicated he wishes to get at the truth of Tanaka's financial holdings. But the resignation placated some of Tanaka's critics and it is not at all certain that anything further will emerge.

The other Tanaka, Shoji, 71, was sentenced the other day to four years in prison for blackmail, fraud, and breach of trust. A former Liberal-Democratic legislator, he headed the powerful lower house audit committee for years. From that vantage point it was charged he blackmailed businessmen and politicians involved in shady land or financial deals.

Jobless Rate High For West Germany

NUERNBERG, Germany (UPI) — West Germany's jobless rate averaged 2.6 per cent for the entire year, the highest number of unemployed in 15 years, the Federal Employment Office said yesterday.

The present number of 600,000 unemployed can be expected to rise to one million, or 4 per cent, this winter, Josef Stingl, employment president said.

Bank Of America Is Wary Of Gold

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bank of America said yesterday it will not make loans to finance gold purchases or accept gold as collateral for loans.

"Bank of America does not intend to buy or sell gold or act as a gold dealer for the public," the bank said.

Gold trade will become legal in the U.S. on Dec. 31.

But the bank said it will act as an agent between a customer "and the dealer of the customer's choice," the bank said.

The bank warned savings account customers and others that gold speculation "could be an unwise move for the small or unsophisticated purchaser." The bank said the gold market was "uncertain, complicated and volatile" and that ordinary costs of speculating could result in losses for the unwary small investor.

Split Court Ruling Backs City Zoning Ordinances

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California cities can adopt zoning ordinances by the initiative process without violating due process rights, the State Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

The court made the ruling in two 4-3 decisions, one involving a San Diego height limitation for buildings in a coastal zone and the other prohibiting rezoning of land in San Jose for residential development without school district approval.

The court rejected the argument that use of the initiative violated the due process clause of the Constitution because it did not provide for notice and hearing for all affected property owners.

The San Diego zoning ordinance set a 30-foot heigh limit for buildings in the "coastal zone" running from the northern city limits to the Mexican border. Enactment of the ordinance by initiative was a legislative matter rather than an adjudicated one, the court ruled, and therefore the constitutional requirement of notice and hearing did not apply.

In the other case, San Jose put a two-year limit on residential zoning in areas threatened by school overcrowding, except when the school district certified that the developer had agreed to provide the needed schools.

The court held that this initiative does not give zoning power to the school district, but merely provides that the city council may not approve zoning in such areas without certification by the district.

The court answered the argument that the initiative interfered with a citizen's right to travel and live in a community of his choice by noting that newcomers were not excluded. They simply were diverted from overcrowded districts until the needs of new residents could be met.

The dissent, written by Justice Louis H. Burke and signed by Justices Marshall F. McComb and William P. Clark, said the initiative process does not equate with the dispassionate consideration given a measure when there is notice, study, hearing and evaluation given through the city planning process.

Taiwan General Hurt In Crash

TAIPEI (UPI) — Gen. Yu Hao-chang, commander-in-chief of the Nationalist Chinese army on Taiwan, was seriously injured in a helicopter accident in northern Taiwan today, military sources said.

They said Yu, 56, suffered a number of injuries, including broken ribs, when his helicopter crashlanded in rice paddies near Chungli, about 23 miles southwest of Taipei.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Stock In CBS Is Highly Rated

By DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. I have a loss of about $2,000 in 100 shares of CBS, Inc. (NYSE) bought late in 1972. Where do I go from here: take the loss, wait it out or double up? M.A.

A. Your last alternative would be my choice. This premier broadcaster and perennial leader in TV network ratings is headed for another banner year. Benefiting primarily from strong advertising sales, CBS-TV is leading the way in broadcast operations (about two-thirds of earnings), with the economic slowdown not yet having affected profits. Barring a serious recession, earnings should continue to rise next year as television is becoming the chief advertising medium and the last area to be cut by advertisers. Meanwhile, under new management, the company has disposed of certain marginal activities and strengthened its financial position over the past two years. Net in 1974 should approach $3.75 a share, up from last year's $3.27. Buy.

Q. What is your opinion on the advisability of purchasing INA Investment Securities for a conservative investor seeking gradual appreciation? N.S.

A. This closed-end bond fund, which is traded on the New York Stock Exchange, began in January, 1973. Initially, the fund emphasized short-term obligations, but switched into longer-term bonds during the second quarter of that year. This move proved to be premature as interest rates soared and bond values declined. As a consequence, INA's trading price fell from an initial $25 a share to $14. The shares have moved up about 15 per cent from this low and at current levels are selling at around a 12 per cent discount from net asset value.

In addition to a high 9.8 per cent yield, there are several factors that make the stock potentially attractive from a capital gains standpoint: the fund is permitted to have as much as 50 per cent of assets in convertible securities, to invest in private placements and to use leverage. Moreover, with 83 per cent of assets now in straight and convertible long- and medium-term bonds, INA should recover more of the ground lost as the trend to lower yields gathers momentum and penetrates further into the medium-to long-term market. Purchase is recommended.

Market Goes Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices drifted lower in sluggish trading on the New York Stock Exchange today amid reports the nation's recession was deepening.

Getty Oil, which gained 5 yesterday, added another 3¼. The company has made a hydrocarbon discovery off Mobile, Ala., which officials said could be significant. Further testing is under way.

Gold mining issues were mixed. Bullion prices rose to record levels on some foreign exchanges. ASA Ltd. added 1 ¼. But Dome Mines surrendered ½.

Prices were slightly lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange. Syntex led the Amex actives, up ⅝ to 39 ¾ on 17,900 shares.

LUXURY SEDAN

The four-door 164 remains at the top of Volvo's improved product line for 1975. More than 20 engineering improvements have been made, including redesigned rear suspension, new electronic ignition and redesigned seats. Standard equipment includes air conditioning, a choice of automatic or manual transmission with overdrive, power-assisted steering, power disc brakes, leather upholstery, heated driver's seat, electronic ignition and fuel injection, steel-belted radial tires and — new this year — front power windows. Marin dealer is Annex Motors in San Rafael.

Ford Chairman Says Recession Approaching Depression Stage

DEARBORN, Mich. — The nation is now in a severe recession which, in the auto industry, is approaching the dimensions of a depression, Henry Ford II declared in a year-end statement.

The chairman of the Ford Motor Co. warned that recovery will not begin at the middle of next year unless the government acts to restore the shaken confidence of consumers.

He suggested these "decisive steps" to restore consumer confidence and stimulate the economy:

1. A tough and realistic national energy policy now; a new look at the trade-offs between environmental improvement and economic viability.

2. An immediate but temporary dose of fiscal and monetary stimulation. The Federal Reserve has kept monetary policy too tight for too long.

3. Unemployment compensation should be extended from the current 39-week maximum to 52 weeks, with the extension paid out of general government revenues. Special public employment programs, as proposed by the President in October, should be launched. Low income families should get substantial tax relief, and $20 billion in federal grants for highway and waste treatment plant construction should be released.

4. Serious consideration should be given to proposals to establish a federal program comparable to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of the 1930's.

5. An increase in the federal gasoline tax would help reduce petroleum consumption. Another way would be to levy a general excise tax on petroleum.

6. More important than balancing the budget is to give the economy a boost. An across-the-board income tax cut, expressly limited to 1975, might be the most constructive step.

7. The whole matter of government standards of all kinds requires immediate attention. A five-year freeze on all but the most urgently needed new standards is called for.

Auto Production Down By 2.6 Million Units

Automobile production in the United States this year was running 2,600,000 below 1973 as of mid-December, according to figures released by the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association of the U.S. Inc. in Detroit.

Most of that drop was in passenger vehicle production, with trucks and buses doing comparatively well although they too dropped by 371,000.

Total motor vehicle production from January through Dec. 14 this year came to 9,896,662, compared with 12,501,975 during the same period in 1973.

The report from the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association reflect the consumers' preference of smaller cars, with many of the compacts and sporty models registering production increases over last year.

Among Ford products, Mustang showed a huge increase in output, followed by the Torino, Maverick, Cougar and Comet. The Granada and the Monarch, new this year, have no comparable figures for 1973.

General Motors Corporation did well with the Camaro and the Firebird and also showed a slight increase in output of Corvettes. The Astre is new this year.

In truck and bus production, most makes fell back somewhat, except for Diamond Reo, Jeep, and White, which showed increases.

Debt Burden Hitting More Marin People

More people in Marin are going into debt, even those in the middle income level, and are finding it increasingly difficult to pay their obligations.

This picture of economic hardship is reflected in the increase in collection requests received by D & B Inc., a San Rafael collection agency which took over the former Fred Robbins Agency last July.

"Listings are up substantially, and the percentage of collections is down," noted Bob C. Minor, who runs D & B Inc. at 1005 A Street, with partner Dixie Rice.

"The greatest problem is in collecting from professional people, the upper middle income group," said Minor. "They have over-extended themselves and are finding it difficult to maintain their front. They find it harder to adjust than the lower income people who are used to sacrificing."

Creditors, aware of the economic conditions, seem to be more lenient on the debtors, said Minor. "Some of our clients, who formerly held their accounts for 90 days before turning them over to a collection agency, are now holding them for six months and sometimes as long as a year. Some of the creditors are now accepting $10 per month payments on a $400 bill, something they wouldn't have done six months or a year ago."

Among those hit by the recession are small stores, individual services like architects and contractors, business consultants, gasoline stations and even small auto repair businesses, Minor noted. "More people are doing their own work such as auto repair. You'd be surprised at the number of women who are taking courses in auto repair."

In many cases, a collection agency tries to talk to debtors, suggesting that they consolidate their debts by getting a single loan from a financial institution, but that, said Minor, is more difficult now because finance companies are getting stricter because of tight money.

Minor takes a sympathetic attitude toward the debtors. "Ninety-five per cent of the debtors want to pay but they just can't do it. I'd say not more than 5 per cent have no intention of paying."

The percentage of collections has dropped, but Minor is not overly concerned. "Unless we have another depression such as in the 1930's, I feel conditions will improve in 1975."

Christmas Volume In Major Stores In Marin Held Up Well

Total value of Christmas sales in Marin's major stores were as good or better than last year, although the volume dropped somewhat, according to reports from managers of several shops checked at random. There were some exceptions.

Hot sellers this year were jewelry, expensive clothing, electronic calculators, do-it-yourself hardware, and some novelty items, while furniture, major appliances and Christmas cards and wrappings were down.

"We did surprisingly well," reported Macy's. "Jewelry and clothing for the junior sizes were very strong, and electronic calculators outstanding." Novelties like toe socks were in big demand. J.C. Penney noted basic items like socks and underwear were popular items, although fashion goods did not do as well, but overall sales were up from last year.

Both stores credited the free holiday parking program with helping the downtown area.

In Northgate, Sears reported sales slightly up from last year, with jewelry, calculators, and do-it-yourself hardware like electric band saws the hot items. Furniture was soft and some appliances were down, but others like the microwave ovens shot up spectacularly so that the appliance department broke even with last year.

Roos-Atkins' gross sales were up although the number of units remained about the same as last year. Expensive items like leather coats, suede and fur-trimmed coats sold especially well, and all men's departments were up. Dresses and pants showed a slight drop, in line with the national trend, a spokesman reported.

At Corte Madera Center, Montgomery Ward showed a slight rise (4 to 5 per cent) in sales over last year. Its new jewelry department did well, calculators were "fantastic," and do-it-yourself hardware was "very good," although furniture was down.

Long's Drugs at Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo reported a "disappointing season," particularly in Christmas cards and wrappings, artificial trees, sporting goods, and cosmetics. However, liquor sales were good, as were small appliances like mixers, hair dryers, and irons.

ETHAN ALLEN GALLERIES-Yeager's Carriage House, new home furnishings store in Mill Valley, opened its doors today in a white Georgian structure just north of Tiburon interchange.

Its 60 different rooms are fully furnished and decorated with everything from carpeting and upholstery to fabrics, wallpaper, gifts and accessories.

PURPLE HERON Bookstore at 24 Wharf Road in Bolinas is under the new ownership of Michael B. Wolfe of Bolinas, who was a world traveler and teacher before moving to Bolinas a year ago.

Wolfe bought the bookstore from his neighbor, Mary Wittmer, who had operated the store for the past five years. "Now I'll have more time to play tennis," said Mrs. Wittmer. Her husband, George Wittmer, is an artist-designer in San Francisco.

DORRIS OF MARIN beauty salon and The Lion's Den men's hairstyling shop at 1547 Fourth Street in San Rafael will hold open house with refreshments and door prizes next Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 31.

Owner Doris Muzinich announced she will have champagne and hors d'oeuvres all afternoon, and door prizes will be announced at 3 p.m.

MODERN EVE fashion shop at Northgate Mall in Terra Linda has signed a new lease and will remain at the Mall.

Helen Gray, owner of the Modern Eve shops at the Mall and in downtown San Rafael, had been thinking of consolidating the Northgate shop with her downtown store but decided to continue her lease in Terra Linda and will keep both shops operating.

BETTA BEVERAGE at 715 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael will participate in a special "Oly Recycle For Charity Day" from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 11.

Olympia Brewing Co. distributors' recycling centers will pay consumers 24 cents a case of Olympia bottles and 15 cents a pound for aluminum beverage cans of all brands. Gene Simshauser, division manager for Olympia Brewing Co., said the company will donate 10 cents a case for Oly bottles and 2 cents a pound for aluminum cans to the Bing Crosby Youth Fund.

In addition to the special recycle day for charity, Betta Beverage in San Rafael accepts Oly bottles and aluminum cans for recycling three days a week — Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. James Stewart, beer manager for Betta Beverage, said the same prices will be paid on regular recycling days.

ROBERT'S CARPET Service in San Rafael, which installs carpets and vinyl, has moved to a larger location at 33-A Hamilton Drive in Hamilton Industrial Park, Ignacio.

Robert E. Hamernick, owner of the business, formerly operated at 50 Belvedere Street in the canal area of San Rafael. His new location in Ignacio, near the Coca Cola plant, was leased through William Hoey Company.

Hoey also arranged the lease of another office for Almar Publications at 4340 Redwood Highway, suites 13 and 14, in Northgate Industrial Park. Almar Publications, owned by Allen and Mary Tobell, has been publishing labor newspapers at 117 Paul Drive for two years. It retains the Paul Drive office and added the new office at 4340 Redwood Highway this month to handle Contra Costa County publications.

Ford Making Refunds To Some Pinto Buyers

Ford Motor Co. is refunding $66 to 1975 two-door model Pinto owners who purchased their cars prior to Nov. 22, the firm has announced.

Ford also dropped the price of its two-door Pinto by $150, giving it the lowest sticker price of any domestically built car. To achieve part of the price reduction, the company is substituting bias-belt tires for steel belted radials.

Big Weekend Of Football

There will be enough top-level football in the Bay Area this weekend to satisfy the most gluttonous sports fan. And for those who don't care about being there in person, the same games can be seen from the comfort of their living rooms.

Tomorrow's East-West Shrine game at Stanford Stadium has had to compete for publicity all week with the American Football Conference championship game Sunday between the Raiders and Pittsburgh Steelers.

IN THESE DAYS of inflation, quite a few sports fans are choosing carefully just what events they can spend their money on. When they get a chance to see the same thing on television, as they can tomorrow and Sunday, they keep their money in their pockets and turn on the TV sets.

The Sunday championship game between the Raiders and Steelers is a sellout so television won't make any difference to the attendance. There will be very few no-shows for this one. But for tomorrow's game, things are different. There is no promised sellout. Through past years, crowds have been dwindling at the East-West games, and the Shriners are hoping the move from Candlestick Park to Stanford Stadium will help hike attendance.

But because of the Sunday NFL game and the TV, it is doubtful the Shrine game's attendance will reach the figures the Shriners would like to see. It's a shame, since the game's proceeds go to such a worth cause, the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children.

THE COLLEGE STARS playing in the East-West game have two reasons for going all out in this exhibition game. One reason is that they are doing their part in helping all those kids who can't walk on their own. The other reason is that they want to show all the pro scouts in the audience what they can do against top flight opposition. A good game in this one means more money on that pro contract.

Most of the time television gives as much as a person wants to see, although it's seldom as good as being there. And this is never truer than at the East-West game. It's not just the game, but the colorful pageantry that surrounds it. The bands, the flags, the clowns, the cheerleaders, the balloons. The football field is covered with Shriners in their colorful outfits of yellow, red, blue, green or purple. The halftimes are always something to behold. There's more than just football at the East-West game. It's a happening.

BUT SUNDAY THERE will not be as much gaiety. It's going to be serious business between two teams who want desperately to reach the Super Bowl. The Raiders want to do it on the passing arm of Ken Stabler and the gifted hands of Fred Biletnikoff and Cliff Branch with an occasional run by Marv Hubbard. The Steelers want to do it on the running of Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier and an occasional pass by Terry Bradshaw.

Since I went four-for-four in the opening playoff games. I might as well stick with my earlier picks. I'm going with Oakland to beat Pittsburgh and Los Angeles to whip the Vikings in Minnesota, snow or no snow.

And yes, I'm picking the West to beat the East tomorrow on the strength of Steve Bartkowski's arm.

There's No Mystery In Shrine Strategy

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — There will be no mystery in Saturday's 50th anniversary Shrine East-West football game.

The West, led by quarterbacks Steve Bartkowski, an All America from California, and Jim McMillan of Boise State, will throw and throw and throw.

The East, anchored by quarterbacks Dennis Franklin of Michigan and Fred Solomon of Tampa and backs Walter Payton of Jackson State and Bard Davis of Louisiana State, will run and run and run.

So, the key to success will be the respective defensive units, but under game rules blitzing is not allowed. Where that may lead to is a high-scoring game, and the feeling is that is exactly what the respective selection committees had in mind when they started picking players.

"Anyone who knows anything about Franklin and Solomon knows pretty much what we are going to do," said East head coach Bo Schembechler of Michigan. "There can't be any secrets about our team on Saturday."

Ben Martin of the Air Force, the West head coach, echoed Schembechler when he said "With the kind of personnel we have, we'll just have to throw the ball and go from there. When you have passers such as Bartkowski and McMillan it's foolish not to try to take advantage of their skills."

The West passing targets will be wide receivers Bob Farr of the Air Force and Morris Owens of Arizona State, tight ends Wayne Hoffman of Oklahoma and Oscar Roan of Southern Methodist and running backs Willard Harrell of Pacific, Andrew Jones of Washington State, Mike Thomas of Nevada-Las Vegas and Jim Upchurch of Arizona. " We'll try to get the ball to everyone," is how Martin put it. "In my mind, the best offense in an All Star game is a passing one because it's easier to put in."

The West is favored by a touchdown, mostly because of Bartkowski and McMillan, but the East running game, especially on option-type plays, should offer a happy balance. That's because of big offensive tackles Darryl Carlton of Tampa (6-6, 275) and Al Krevis of Boston College (6-5, 268).

The advance sale through yesterday indicated a crowd of around 60,000 will take in the game while Shrine officials are hoping for 75,000. All proceeds from the game go to the San Francisco Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital. Kickoff is set for 12:30 p.m. The game will be televised on Channels 3 and 4.

Reese Appointed Kansas Assistant

Reese, 31, was the first staff appointment made by new coach Bud Moore since his appointment Dec. 17.

'Meaningless' Grid Contests

Fiesta, Sun, Peach Kick Off Schedule

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The college football season, which will reach its climactic moment next Thursday with the crowning of a national champion, begins its countdown tomorrow with three so-called "meaningless" bowl games touching off the final five days of the campaign.

With most fans eagerly awaiting next week's showdown battles between Southern California and Ohio State in the Rose Bowl and Alabama and Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl, folks can whet their appetities (or ruin them as the case may be) by tuning in the Peach Bowl, Sun Bowl and Fiesta Bowl games tomorrow.

Neither one of these three contests is generating much excitement outside the areas of the participating schools, largely because the records of some of the clubs aren't very attractive. The six teams in tomorrow's pairings have lost 22 games between them, a very high figure for teams that supposedly rank among the "elite" of the nation.

But that doesn't mean that tomorrow's contests will be dull and sloppy. On the contrary, the pairings should produce some exciting football with some of the nation's most outstanding players showcasing their talents.

The Peach Bowl at Atlanta pits Vanderbilt (7-3-1) against Texas Tech (6-4-1) and figures to be a battle between Vandy's potent offense and Tech's su-

Do Raiders, Steelers Have Any Special Plays Ready?

2 Coaches Deny It; But. . .

OAKLAND (UPI) — Coach Chuck Noll of the Pittsburgh Steelers and John Madden of the Oakland Raiders insist their teams have not worked on any special plays for Sunday's American Football Conference title game but how much would you bet they aren't telling the whole truth.

Noll, who brings the Steelers to Oakland tonight, has worked his team in closed sessions all week and the final tuneup in the Coliseum tomorrow will be a private one, too, yet before leaving Pittsburgh yesterday he said fans shouldn't be surprised by anything on Sunday.

"We'll stick with the plays that have been successful for us all season long," Noll said, all the time explaining he wasn't sure how or why his team suddenly came to life offensively last Sunday against the Buffalo Bills in the first round of the playoffs, a game the Steelers won easily, 32-14.

"It's hard to pinpoint it," he said. "If I could, I would have done something earlier."

Madden, on the other hand, has kept some practice sessions open and others closed but has maintained right along nothing new has been added.

"There are some plays that work against some clubs and those are the ones you want to work on," Madden said. "It's fair to assume we worked on the plays we think will be successful against Pittsburgh."

Obviously, the Steelers have stressed pass defense since the Raiders like to throw the ball a lot, while the Raiders have concentrated on ways of stopping the Pittsburgh running game, which is keyed by Franco Harris.

"I don't believe we can stop Harris completely and I'm sure the Steelers don't believe they can shut off our passing game," said Madden. "They will make some progress on the ground and we'll complete some passes. The key may be how well we run against them and how well they pass against us."

Madden, as all coaches, believes the only way to win is through a balanced offense, so it's fair to assume the Oakland running backs have worked hard on their assignments this week as well as the Steelers have tried to perfect their passing game behind Terry Bradshaw, who had a big day against the Bills last Sunday.

Defensively, both clubs are strong with a slight edge to the Steelers, since they were No. 1 on defense in the AFC. The Raiders, on the otherhand, were No. 1 in AFC offensive statistics with Ken Stabler leading all NFL passers with 26 touchdown throws and Cliff Branch the receivers with 13 TDs.

The Steelers will play one man short with reserve running back Reggie Harrison declared out because of a pulled hamstring. Defensive back Willie Brown, who missed the last four regular season games and the playoff victory over Miami, is doubtful for the Raiders. He has recovered from a bout with the flu but still has leg problems.

Because the National Football League game is sold out, the contest will be televised locally. Channels Band 4 will cover the game starting at 1 p.m.

Trail Blazers' Pressure Strategy Backfires Against Red-Hot Barry

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Portland Trail Blazers had good reason to put the pressure on the Golden State Warriors last night, but it backfired.

Rick Barry hit for 46 points in the Warriors' 112-101 National Basketball Association victory, of which 18 were free throws.

"Well," he said later, "I finally had a game where I got to the line. I don't mind getting beat around if I'm going to shoot free throws."

Barry excels at free throws, hitting 100 per cent last night. Meanwhile, the Trail Blazers' sharpshooter, Sidney Wicks, was en route to an early exit, fouling out in the fourth quarter.

"They (the Trail Blazers) were complaining," Barry said. "But I don't think the calls were unjustified. If Portland is going to come out in that type of defense, holding all the time, they've got to expect to get called."

It was the Warriors' sixth straight home victory and the Blazers' seventh straight loss on the road. For Barry, it was the 10th game of the season in which he scored 40 or more.

Portland trailed after the first quarter and a final period rally fell short. Barry Clemmens paced Portland with 19 points and Wicks and Geoff Petrie added 18 apiece.

COURT TESTIMONY

Americans' Boss Admits Failure To Pay Stabler

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Birmingham Americans' owner Bill Putnam conceded in court testimony yesterday that his World Football League team had failed to make several contract payments to Oakland Raiders' quarterback Ken Stabler.

Stabler had signed a contract last June, agreeing to join the Americans after his contract with Oakland of the National Football League expired at the end of the 1975 season.

The former University of Alabama quarterback charged in a suit filed in State Circuit Court Dec. 3, two days before the Americans won the WFL title, that the club defaulted on payments to him.

Putnam said during testimony that the team had met the terms of the agreement, but under cross examination conceded the Americans had failed to make agreed payments to Stabler in September and October and had not paid a $30,000 note the team gave Stabler in November to cover the two defaulted payments.

Stabler had said in the suit that the failure of the Americans to make the two payments or pay the $30,000 note had forced a bank to cash government securities he owned to cover a $15,000 loan he made for a business investment.

The loan was to have been paid with the payments the Americans failed to make, the suit charged.

Stabler, who asked in the suit that the contract requiring him to join the Americans in 1976 be declared null and void, was preparing for Sunday's playoff game with the Pittsburgh Steelers, and he was not at the hearing.

Putnam testified that the Americans owed $1.6 million in back wages and bonuses for players and $786,137 borrowed from the Birmingham Trust National Bank.

The team owner said he was trying to obtain temporary financing to pay the debts and secure the team's financial position for the 1975 season.

Stabler's suit said the Americans had agreed to pay Stabler a total of $850,000 between June, 1974, when he signed the contract, and the end of the 1980 season.

Stabler received $50,000 at the contract signing, the suit said, and he was to have received an additional $50,000 in monthly payments before the end of 1974. He was to have been paid $100,000 in 1975.

The contract called for Stabler to receive $130,000 yearly during his years as an active player, 1976 through 1980, the suit said.

Flyers Have NHL Glamor

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

For years it was the Montreal Canadiens. Then briefly it was the Boston Bruins. Now it is the Philadelphia Flyers.

The Flyers have become the new glamour team of the National Hockey League and are proving more each day that last year's dramatic victory in the Stanley Cup playoffs was no accident.

The hard-skating Flyers are currently the hottest team in the NHL and have also become the league's biggest gate attraction. Last night they broke a club record by going unbeaten for the 12th straight game when they defeated he Washington Capitals 4-1 before 18,130, second largest crowd in the league this season.

The game was only 12 seconds old when right winger Reggie Leach scored on a tip-in off a Bill Barber slapshot to give the Flyers a 1-0 lead. That broke the club record for fastest goal at the start of a game, and Philadelphia boosted its lead to 3-0 in the second period on goals by Bobby Clarke and Bill Clement.

Elsewhere, Atlanta edged the New York Islanders 2-1, Buffalo topped Chicago 3-1, Detroit and Minnesota battled to a 4-4 tie, St. Louis tied Pittsburgh 2-2 and Los Angeles downed Vancouver 5-1.

Flames 2, Islanders 1

Atlanta moved into second place in Division One by defeating the Islanders on Tim Ecclestone's shorthanded goal in the second period. Jacques Richard scored the other Atlanta goal while Bob Bourne tallied for New York.

Sabres 3, Black Hawks 1

Red Wings 4, North Stars 4

Marcel Dione scored twice and assisted on two other goals to earn the Red Wings a tie with the North Stars. Danny Grant also scored a pair of goals for Detroit.

Blues 2, Penguins 2

Second period goals by Chuck Lefley and Stan Gilbertson got the Blues their tie with the Penguins. Vic Hadfield and Jean Pronovost tallied for Pittsburgh in the first period.

Kings 5 Canucks 1

Backup goalie Gary Edwards continued his mastery over Vancouver as the Kings regained a first-place tie with Montreal in the NHL's Division 3. Edwards, overshadowed by Rogie Vachon this season, ran his season's record to 7-2-2 as five Los Angeles players scored goals.

Big ABA Crowd Sees Bad Show

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The largest Virginia home crowd of the season, 6,673?!, turned out last night to see their Squires play, but the home team let them down — bad.

The hapless Squires, saving their worst for the game, lost to the front-running New York Nets 130-85 for their biggest loss of the year, allowing the Nets to move one game ahead of Kentucky in their seesaw battle with the Colonels for first place in the American Basketball Association's East Division.

Julius "Dr. J" Erving, the league's Most Valuable Player last season, put on a typical display with 31 points as the Nets raised their record to 23-10. The hapless Squires fell to 8-24, 14½ games out of first.

Meanwhile, at Indianapolis, Billy Keller canned 33 points and George McGinnis 31 as the Pacers knocked the Colonels out of first with a 122-111 triumph.

In other ABA contests, St. Louis edged San Antonio, 119-118; San Diego beat Memphis, 112-108, and Denver topped Utah, 107-102.

Spirits 119, Spurs 118

St. Louis reeled off eight straight points to break an 89-89 tie at the start of the fourth quarter and then held off a strong San Antonio rush. The Spirits' Marvin Barnes led all scorers with 34 points and Freddie Lewis added 25 for St. Louis.

Q's 112, Sounds 108

Jim O'Brien hit two free throws with 21 seconds left and Travis Grant dunked a shot at the buzzer to give San Diego its victory over Memphis. Grant led all scorers with 35 points and Caldwell Jones had 20 points for the Q's, while George Carter hit 24 to lead Memphis and Chuck Williams had 22.

Nuggets 107, Stars 102

Denver overcame a 36-point effort by Moses Malone enroute to its 17th straight home win. High-point man for the Nuggets was Mack Calvin with 21, while Ralph Simpson and Bobby Jones each added 17.

Lowly Seals Take On Bruins Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Seals will be peering up the basement stairs and the Boston Bruins will be looking toward the loft tonight at 8 o'clock when the two teams play at Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum.

The Seals, in last place in the National Hockey League's Division IV, come off the Christmas layoff hoping to close the six-point gap that seperates them from Toronto and a playoff invitation.

"The club is anxious to get playing again," said Boston Coach Don Cherry yesterday as his team left home for a four-game road excursion. "We picked up 16 of a possible 18 points" by winning eight of nine games "and we want to keep it going."

Ross Brooks, with nine straight wins and unbeaten in 10 games, will make his first start against the Seals. Gilles Gilbert tended goal in Boston's three previous victories over California this season.

Vikings Wind Up Stint In Tulsa Today

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The Minnesota Vikings complete a two-day stint of Oklahoma workouts today and return home to continue preparations for the National Football League playoff game with Los Angeles Sunday.

Coach Bud Grant said the Vikings practiced on Skelly Stadium's artificial turf yesterday because a steady drizzle muddied the regular turf of the field they were to use and he wanted the players to go full speed.

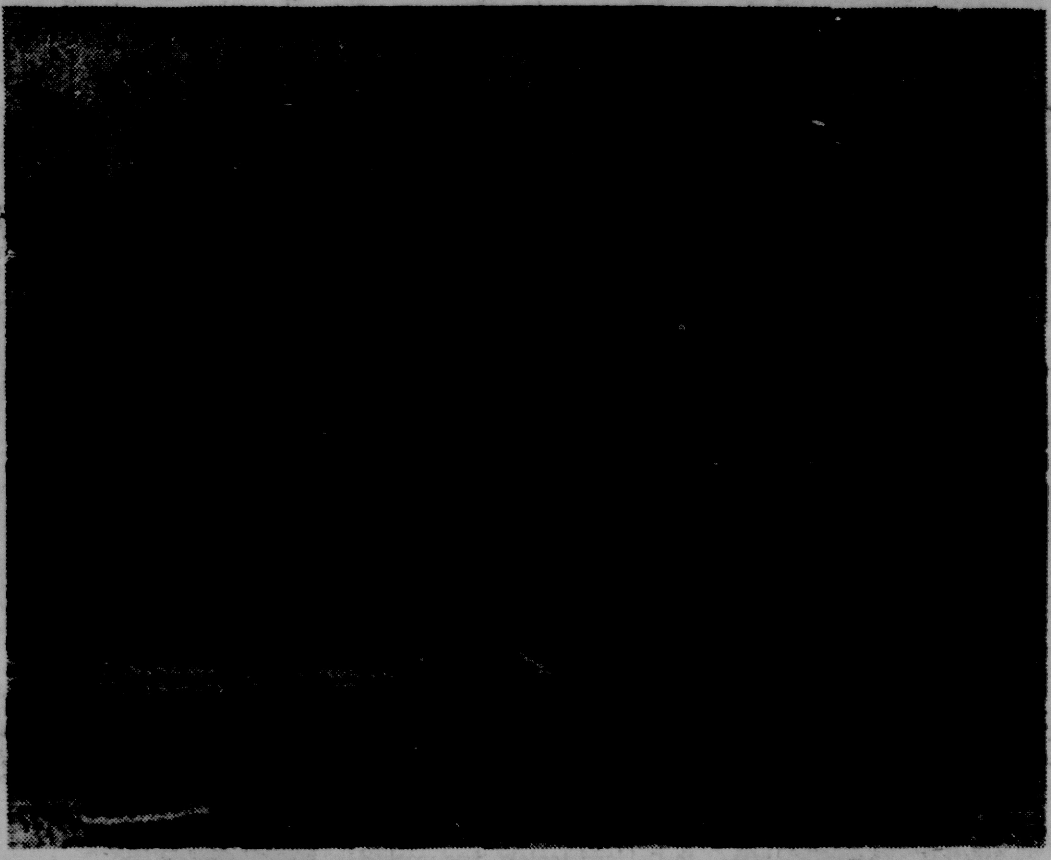
He reported the Vikings were in good health and defensive tackle Gary Larsen, an 11-year veteran, and rookie linebacker Matt Blair returned to the lineup after injuries.

Drake Frosh Tops Moreau

Guard Pat Blanquie scored 20 points last night to lead Drake to a 44-38 victory over Moreau of Hayward in one of four opening round games of the Marin Catholic High School freshman basketball tournament in Kentfield.

Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa, behind 20 points by Greg Anderson, defeated Marin Catholic, 49-30. Paul Larkins led Marin with 11. Bishop O'Dowd of Oakland edged Terra Linda, 34-31, behind 12 points by Robbie Beal. Pete Castro had nine for T.L. and St. Joseph of Alameda whipped Petaluma, 41-29. John Durante paced St. Joseph with 10 points, while John Volpi scored 16 and pulled down 17 rebounds for Petaluma.

In second round games today, Moreau played Marin Catholic at 3 p.m., Petaluma met Terra Linda at 4:30, St. Joseph goes against Bishop O'Dowd at 6 and Cardinal Newman and Drake clash at 7:30.



CROWDED HARBOR AT SYDNEY

Some 63 yachts choked the harbor at Sydney, Australia yesterday for the start of the 640-mile Sydney-to-Hobart blue water classic. The Australian sloop Ballyhoo led last night, with the American ketch Ondine III in second place. (UPI Telephoto)

Houston's Center Abruptly Quits; No Reason Offered

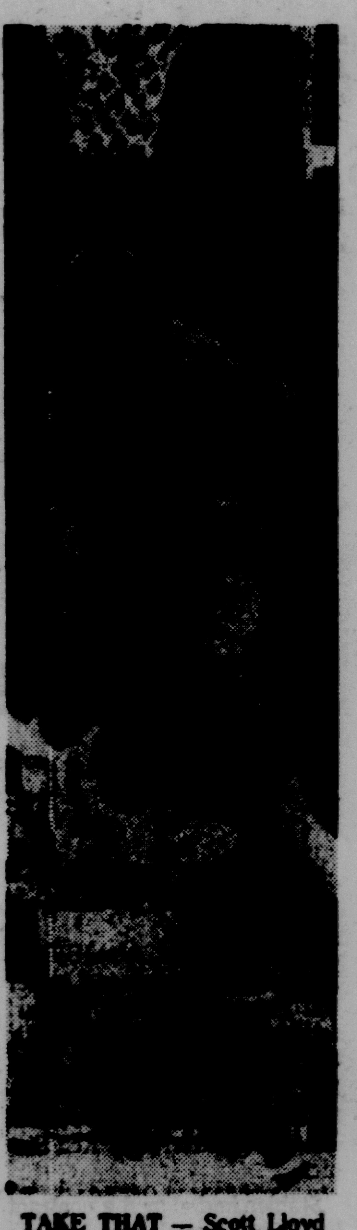
Combined AP & UPI

HOUSTON — Houston Rockets center Zaid Abdul-Aziz retired from the National Basketball Association last night shortly before the Rockets met the Atlanta Hawks.

Abdul-Aziz, who changed his name from Don Smith after joining the Islamic faith, said before the start of the year he would retire at the end of the season to devote his time to his new religion.

He telephoned Rockets general manager Ray Patterson shortly before game time and said he had decided to quit early. He gave no reason for the decision.

The 6-foot-10 Abdul-Aziz was 10th in the NBA this season in rebounding with an average of 11.5 a game. He had averaged 14.1 points a game. Kevin Kunnert, 7-1, filled in for Abdul-Aziz last night and scored 18 points in the Rockets' 114-86 victory.



TAKE THAT — Scott Lloyd of Arizona State seemed to be adding injury to insult last night: after making a layup, he came down with a knee to the face on Mel Weldon of Boston College. Arizona State won the Far Western Classic basketball game, 81-73, in Portland. (UPI Telephoto)

City Golf Qualifying Is Revised

Qualifying rounds for the 50th San Francisco City Golf Championships have been revised.

The new format calls for a pre-qualifying round for players who do not have Northern California Golf Association computerized handicaps of five or less or do not fulfill other playing record exemptions.

Entries for championship flight pre-qualifying will be accepted Jan. 16-25 at sponsoring Roos/Atkins outlets, including the store in Terra Linda. The pre-qualifying round will be played Feb. 21 at Harding or Lincoln parks. Entry is limited to 300. The fee is $3.

The tournament runs Feb. 14 through March 23.

UCLA In Holiday Tourney Tonight

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

UCLA, ranked No. 3 in the nation, joins the long list of West Coast college basketball teams competing in holiday tournaments when it clashes with St. Bonaventure tonight in the Maryland Invitational.

The Bruin game with the Bonnies (2-3) at College Park, Md., precedes the contest between Maryland, ranked No. 7, and Georgia Tech. Should the Bruins and Terps survive as expected, they will meet in the nationally televised tournament final.

California and Stanford also open tourney play tonight with the Bears pitting their 5-1 record against unbeaten Arizona in the Old Dominion Classic at Norfolk, Va. Meanwhile, Stanford, 4-2, takes on Illinois in the Lobo Tournament in New Mexico.

Tomorrow, USC meets Rutgers in the Holiday Festival in New York.

Oregon and San Jose State have already seen action in tournaments with the Spartans being defeated and Oregon, ranked No. 9 in the nation still unbeaten after turning back a tough Creighton squad, 75-64, in the Far West Classic in Portland. San Jose fell to Hawaii 64-63 in the Rainbow classic.

Hunter To Hear Pitch Today

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — President Dan Galbreath and General Manager Joe L. Brown of the Pittsburgh Pirates made a pitch for the services of pitcher Jim Catfish Hunter today.

Galbreath and Brown, accompanied by an attorney, were to meet with Hunter and one of his attorneys in Ahoskie, N. C.

Hunter became a free agent when an arbitrator ruled Oakland owner Charles Finley failed to live up to his part of the baseball contract with the righthander.

Hunter has listened to several offers from several major league clubs but has not signed with any of them.

Marin Catholic Is Too Much For Foe

Marin Catholic High School bombed St. Mary's of Berkeley, 70-49, yesterday afternoon in the first round of the All-Catholic basketball tournament at Jesuit High in Sacramento.

The only other Marin County Athletic League team to play yesterday was Redwood, which lost to El Cerrito, 81-60, in the first round of the Pinole Valley Classic at Pinole.

Forward Tim Hurley pumped in 20 points to lead Marin Catholic into a second-round game tonight at 7 o'clock against Moreau of Hayward. The Wildcats overcame an early eight-point deficit and were never headed after the first quarter.

Redwood got 20 points from Jack Eagler and 18 from Steve Trobbe, but that wasn't enough to offset a powerful El Cerrito attack. Ted Morning led the Gauchos with 24 points, and Carlos Addison had 20, including 18 in the second half.

NBA ALL-STAR VOTING

McAdoo, Monroe Move Into Starting Berths

NEW YORK (AP) — Buffalo's Bob McAdoo, the National Basketball Association's leading scorer and rebounder, and New York's Earl Monroe have moved into the forefront for starting berths on the Eastern Conference team in the league's 1975 All-Star game at Phoenix Jan. 14.

The 6-foot-10 McAdoo, whose 49 points against Cleveland on Dec. 19 are the most scored by any player in an NBA game this season, has passed Boston's Dave Cowens for the East's starting center position in the latest computerized balloting announced today by Commissioner Walter Kennedy.

Cowens, the East's starting center in last season's All-Star game, had led the voting since it began five weeks ago. Voting officially ended Wednesday and the starting lineups will be announced Jan. 4.

Monroe moved ahead of Jo Jo White of Boston in the battle to join New York's Walt Frazier in the East's starting backcourt. Frazier remained the league's top vote-getter, although exact figures were not disclosed.

Heading the voting for the East's starting forward spots were Boston's John Havlicek and Washington's Elvin Hayes.

The West's leaders were the same as they have been throughout the voting, with Rick Barry of Golden State and Spencer Haywood of Seattle at forwards, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee the No. 1 center, and Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles and Nate Archibald of Kansas City-Omaha the frontrunners at guards.

After the starters are chosen, the coaches in each conference will pick seven reserves to fill out the 12-man rosters of each team.

Light Workout For Rams Today

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Coach Chuck Knox planned a light morning workout for the Los Angeles Rams today before they fly to Minnesota and the National Football Conference championship game with the Vikings.

Knox said he expects all the Rams to be ready for the Sunday game that will determine one of the Super Bowl contestants.

Running back Lawrence McCutcheon, who led the NFC in rushing with 1,109 yards, suffered a slight calf muscle pull in yesterday's workout but Knox did not appear concerned.

"We expect him to be ready," said the coach.

The Rams had plenty of foul weather gear on hand for the game at Bloomington in anticipation of subfreezing weather. Gloves were available for linemen and all players had pouches sewn in their jerseys so they could warm their hands.

The Rams beat the Vikings at the Los Angeles Coliseum 20-17 in November on a pass from James Harris to Jack Snow with less than two minutes to go. Playing conditions were different in that game — the temperature was around 80 degrees.

FISH AND GAME

Trouble Brews On New Job

I went down to Menlo Park Fish and Game office recently to acquaint myself with my new crew and some of the different duties I would have.

I figured I would receive a cordial welcome. I walked into this strange office and almost immediately I was in trouble. I met Bernice Hammer, a computer programer who immediately called me a male chauvinist.

This young shapely gal had a copy of an old column in which I had written a story about "Florence," an elk, and a cowboy. She had been writing letters to the editor about this for a month but couldn't come up with the right choice of words — strong words — which she wanted to say. And now she had me there in person. I don't remember much about what she said, but her movements were good! Some days, it doesn't pay to get out of bed.

WITH ALL THIS running around, it's been hard to stay on top of the fishing picture. I called Keith Fraser of the Loch Lomond Live Bait Barge. He says the bay is loaded with stripers, and good numbers of sturgeon are being brought in. He says though that it's been been cold and sometimes windy, so most of the fishermen are staying home. Keith mentioned sturgeon and bass both being taken up by the San Pedro Buoy and at the Richmond Bridge. Some of the stripers at the bridge have been taken by the trollers. The sturgeon have all been taken by those using ghost shrimp or grass shrimp.

Up at White House Pool, the lack of rain has caused the salmon and steelhead to become almost dormant. The fish there are tough to catch. A rain is needed to cause a new movement of these fish.

I passed by Walker Creek and saw only one fisherman out. Things are slow there too. The steelhead runs will start with the day it rains. The runs in the old days used to come into the Papermill Creek tidewaters with the rains closest to Dec. 17, so they are due anytime. If it's muddy, use fresh roe, the fish readily take the bait which they find by smell.

THERE ARE TWO main events for the sportsmen being put on by the Marin Rod and Gun Club in January. The first event is a New Year's Eve dinner dance. Dinner from 8 p.m. till nine and dancing from nine to one. A six-piece band called the Dodios will supply the music. This affair is for club members and their guests. Tickets are available at the Western Sport Shop in San Rafael or from Frank Spencer at the clubhouse.

The second event is the 48th annual Stag Banquet scheduled for Saturday evening, Jan. 25. The get-acquainted hour commences at 6 o'clock at the clubhouse at Point San Quentin. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. During the evening, entertainment will be presented.

BOB WILSON and his son Bob Jr. were by on Christmas Day. Bob's kids bought him a new heavy duty tarpon Fenwick flyrod and a new Shakespeare reel. He can't wait to use it on a big sturgeon. Young Bob, not to be outdone, received a Marlin 36 inch barrel, full choke, goose gun. It shoots three-inch magnum shells and he has two boxes of B.B. loads. I'd be afraid to hunt on the same marsh with him. What noise and what a kick he's in store for!

I hope you all have a great New Year.

JUAN MARICHAL
Main guest

Ex-Giant Marichal At Meeting

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO — Former San Francisco Giant pitching star Juan Marichal will be the featured guest when the Giants' Boosters Club holds a "hot stove league" dinner Jan. 4 at the Rodeway Inn.

Two other former Giants stars, first baseman Willie McCovey and third baseman Jim Davenport, will also be present. Davenport will present Marichal with a special "high kicker" award to highlight an informal program beginning with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. Dinner will be at 8.

Also attending will be current Giants players Chris Speier, Gary Matthews, Garry Maddox and Jim Barr. Broadcasters Bill Thompson and Gene Nelson will emcee.

Transportation from Marin will be provided by club president Allan B. Murray, who can be reached at GTS Travel, 1435 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

BOWLS

perb defense. The Commodores' offense, led by quarterback David Lee who paced the Southeastern Conference in passing, was the best in the SEC while the Red Raiders' defense allowed more than two touchdowns only twice in 11 games.

The game is of special importance to Texas Tech, since it marks the last one for coach Jim Carlen who is leaving to take the head coaching job at South Carolina.

The Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., matches Mississippi State (8-3) against 18th-ranked North Carolina (7-4) and will feature two of the nation's more powerful offenses.

Mississippi State, led by quarterback Rockey Felker and running back Walter Packer, set 36 school offensive records and averaged 27.4 points per game. Felker led the SEC in total offense and Packer, only a sophomore, was the conference's leading rusher.

North Carolina finished fifth in the nation in total offense and averaged 30.9 points per game. The Tar Heels' also became the first National Collegiate Athletic Association team ever to have two running backs gain more than 1,000 yards rushing in a season, with James (Boom Boom) Betterson and Mike Voight each topping that figure.

The Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz., features Western Athletic Conference champion Brigham Young (7-3-1) against Oklahoma State (6-5) and matches the Cougars' splendid passing attack against one of the nation's better pass defenses.

Gary Sheide of Brigham Young ranks second nationally in passing and has thrown for 23 touchdowns and nearly 200 yards per game. Oklahoma State, however, ranks 11th nationally in pass defense, surrendering only 86.4 yards per game with 16 interceptions.

The "Big Four" post-season contests begin Monday night when Auburn meets Texas in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. On Tuesday night in New Orleans Nebraska will face Florida in the Sugar Bowl and the week's bowl activity ends Wednesday with the Rose and Orange classics.

Knee Surgery Set Next Week

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Knee surgery will be performed next week on Buffalo Bills' wide receiver Bob Chandler who had the operation delayed yesterday because he contacted the flu, according to a Bills spokesman.

Used sparingly by the National Football League Bills this season, Chandler will undergo minor left knee surgery. He underwent knee surgery during the last offseason to repair damage.

Sad Tale — Marin Cagers' Health

By DAVID EINSTEIN

The basketball season is not even a month old, and the College of Marin Tars have already suffered enough misfortune to last for years. Nevertheless, they have won seven of 10 games under first-year coach Jim Webster, and his outlook is bright for the upcoming Camino Norte Conference campaign.

Yesterday, as the Tars got set to practice for this weekend's final two pre-season games, Webster gave a detailed account of the catastrophes that have befallen the team since he took over from John Panagakis.

"When I took over, it seemed like we had this series of things that went wrong, one right after the other," said Webster. He should have known it was going to be that kind of a season when, two weeks before the first game, starting center Harry Norman was declared ineligible.

"That was really a big disappointment," said Webster. "This was the year that he was really going to blossom."

That would have been enough to sour the season for most teams. For Marin, it was just a taste of things to come. On Dec. 7, starting guard Raymond Williams got into the act by breaking his arm. "Hopefully he'll be back, he's our ball handling guard, and we'd like to have him in there," says Webster.

And then came the fateful trip last week to San Luis Obispo. The Tars split two games with Cuesta College, but in the health department they were blitzed. Three players didn't even go: Mike Dinehart had a sore throat, Kevin Neal an eye infection and James Henry a torn cartilage that has finished him for the year.

Of the players who went, Jeff White had a sprained knee, and Tony Parenti and Hosa Wright had heavy colds. Webster, showing himself to be at one with his players, caught a cold and ended up with laryngitis. He had to relay instructions to players on the court through Williams, who sat on the bench beside him.

Oh yes, Don Trimble quit the team right before the trip to take a job. All things considered, he probably thought that something terrible would happen to him if he stuck around.

Even without all the injuries, illnesses and other assorted problems, this promised to be a difficult year for the Tars. They welcomed back just one starter and one reserve from last year, "and that makes it tough in our league, which is going to be really solid," says Webster.

"But I'll jump up and down every time I wake up to find that we're 7-3 at this point; I'm very proud of the team. They realize that we can't let up, that everyone has to come off the bench and contribute.

"I just hope the kids can pick it back up this week, what we tried to build for before we went down to San Luis Obispo.

Tonight, the Tars host Cabrillo of Aptos, and tomorrow night they entertain Cosumnes River of Sacramento. Both games start at 8 o'clock. The CNC season begins next Saturday night with a game against Contra Costa of San Pablo in Kentfield at 8 o'clock.

Modest Additions At Kirkwood

By CHARLIE COANE

Developing a new resort in the Sierra these days is next to impossible. The red tape involved makes the process take years and years, and the ecology groups will watch every move. The situation is so difficult that no one has tried for a few years. There are no new major areas on the horizon. And those areas that have developed within the past five years (Tahoe Donner, Northstar and Kirkwood) did so with the backing of recreation land and home sales. Otherwise, forget it. Too expensive.

Kirkwood started slowly several years ago and now has developed into one of the major resorts in the Sierra. The area sits pretty much alone about 35 miles from South Lake Tahoe on Highway 88. Only four chairlifts appeared when Kirkwood first emerged, and then the skiable terrain was mostly intermediate and beginner. Last season, two new lifts opened up a vast expanse of advanced terrain and Kirkwood entered into the major leagues of skiing.

This season, there have been some modest additions — no new chairlifts, but a few things that will be of interest. A new run (called Wagon Wheel) for expert and advanced skiers has been created off the No. 5 Cornice chairlift. The run begins at nearly 10,000 feet. Skiers can now buy lift tickets ($9) in a new building near the loading area of the No. 6 Solitude chairlift.

The parking area has also been expanded for 350 cars, and there are 24 new condominium units. Kirkwood can now accommodate approximately 450 people overnight with the 84 condo units and 35 houses which are available for rent at reasonable rates. Many of the units are close enough to ski in the front door!

Cross country skiing is also very big at Kirkwood, and along with Bear Valley and Yosemite, the area is very aggressive in pursuing this newest skiing craze.

Kirkwood is not yet up to the variety that Squaw Valley and Heavenly Valley, for example, have, but it is on its way.
